Mr. Babson on Russia.
Paul Shoup's Companion.
E. H. Clark Sees the West.
Vincent Astor's Boat.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

READ THIS, and rub your eyes to make sure that you read correctly.

Roger Babson, who predicted, accurately, the downfall of the house that the ticker built, in 1929, now says:

"The United States will recognize Russia."

Your conscience will be glad to hear that this "need not imply the slightest approval of Soviet purposes or methods."

TO MR. BABSON the word "Soviet" is as bad as the combination word "cobra-rattlesnake." Nevertheless, Mr. Babson says that this country will recognize Russia, for these, among other reasons:

Bolshevism is rapidly changing from Communism to "capitalistic methods."

Nearly all important nations, except the United States, have already recognized Russia, "thereby giving them tactical advantages over us in trade relations." (Money talks).

Third, Russia's admiration for our business and mass production methods, would easily lead to friendship.

Besides all that, Russia may pay the czarist debts, and Soviet propaganda doesn't hurt us.

IT MAY SURPRISE you to learn from Mr. Babson that Russia is our biggest buyer of agricultural machinery, our third largest buyer of industrial machinery, our fourth best customer for electrical equipment, our second best for construction machinery.

You can't hate a customer like that, forever. Business is business.

MANAGERS OF RAILROADS and owners of railroad stocks will be interested in an article, "Government Rides the Railroads," written for Charles Scribner's Sons by Paul Shoup, head of the Southern Pacific Railroad System.

Mr. Shoup compares the present conditions of railroads, with which everybody is familiar, to what the condition of farmers would be if the government should restrict them, control them, meddle with and hamper them as it does with the railroads.

Those responsible for railroad management will realize the accuracy of Mr. Shoup's description.

If the proprietor of a farm were allowed to earn no more than six per cent, if he were lucky enough to earn that, he would not like it.

If he had to keep his accounts, purchase supplies, borrow money and buy new properties in accordance with government orders and restrictions, he would not like that.

Nothing is more annoying, nothing interferes with real success more than half-way interference, the system of cat and mouse control. Many railroad men must feel, although Mr. Shoup does not say so, that government ought to let those that know how to run railroads RUN THEM, or buy them and pay for them, at their value, and see what the government can do with them.

EDWARD H. CLARK, who runs various mines and other important enterprises from his 44 Wall Street address, and goes to California to enjoy himself, reports the Coast and the Middle West more cheerful than the East. In California, says Mr. Clark, there is no "visible depression."

People organize their lives there, living is cheap, and "the people are accustomed to adjusting themselves to conditions."

THE DROUGHT, bad for farmers, has been good for some of the old-timers. In the "mother lode country" of Northern California, old miners are panning gold in the beds of streams that dwindled in the drought, and they are making good wages.

When the rivers rise they will have to stop panning.

WESTERNERS LIVE cheerfully under conditions that would appall some in the East.

While fishing on the Klamath River, Mr. Clark stopped with an old farming couple, 100 miles from a railroad. They had 10 cows and sold $700 worth of milk a year. Visiting tourists yielded about half as much as the 10 cows. With $1,000 a year the farmer couple felt as rich as Rockefeller.

They spent $120 a year for sugar, coffee, flour, raised everything else, had their chickens, butter and milk, caught and dried fish, saved about $700 a year.

It is still possible to live comfortably in this country if you know how.

ANOTHER WORD about the Diesel engine, which has no electric ignition, doesn't explode or catch fire, and will do several important things.

It will make the farmer and the small community independent of big power companies, and the costly running of power lines to long distances.

It will make the airplane safe against fire or explosion, reduce the cost of long-distance air travel to one-quarter that of railroad travel.

And, with the long cruising radius that it guarantees, it will enable ships to go around the world twice without taking fuel.

VINCENT ASTOR, of New York, who returned from Europe two days ago, took his big Diesel engine yacht to England, France, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, the North Cape, through the Baltic. After steaming more than 12,000

YACHT CRIME STORY TOLD AT INQUEST

Policeman Quoted Widow on Pirate Murder; Says She Saw Victim in Water

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 18—(AP.)—Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings said in her first story to police that she left the Collings' cruiser Penguin with two men in a canoe while her husband, beaten and bound hand and foot, could still be seen floating in the water, it was testified at the inquest today.

This testimony was given by Police Sergt. Robert Forest, who was the first to question Mrs. Collings. He said she greeted him with a smile and told her story of two men boarding the boat and throwing her husband over the side. Then they took her away.

He said he asked her:

"Was your husband visible at that time?"

SAW BODY FLOATING

He said she replied:

"Yes, he was floating in the water near the bow of the boat."

Forest said Mrs. Collings told him that the men had promised her that if she kept quiet nothing would happen to her.

The inquest opened without the presence of the widow, who had been asked to testify. District Attorney Alexander Blue announced he had requested the presence of Mrs. Collings despite previous statements that he did not intend to call her. He said he made his request to William Kelly, of counsel for the Collings family.

FIRST STORY QUOTED

Kelly arrived for the inquest with a stenographer, but Mrs. Collings did not accompany him. He acknowledged having received

2 WOUNDED, 14 ESCAPE IN PRISON RIOT

International News Service.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 18.—A guard and a convict were shot and 14 prisoners, mostly long-termers, escaped when the second riot and jail-break within a year broke out at the Newcastle workhouse today. The workhouse is used to house all Delaware long-term state prisoners.

The wounded were Anthony R. Hayden, a guard, reported shot by escaping prisoners, and Clarence Cole, a convict. Cole, serving an 18-year term for banditry, was shot down and recaptured outside the institution.

The prisoners escaped after shattering barred doors with dynamite.

Wilmington police were rushed to Newcastle at once after Warden Elmer J. Leach appealed for help.

Source of the prisoners' weapons was not disclosed.

In July of last year seven men escaped after cutting a hole in a skylight. All have since been recaptured. Since that break, the honor system has been doomed.

Among the escaped prisoners for whom a manhunt was started at once, were several members of the "Clover Dairy" gang—an organization which participated in the holdup of the Clover Dairy plant at Wilmington last year.

QUIZ OFFICIALS ON MACHINES

The dual investigation of the District Attorney's office and the Citizens' Committee on Voting Machines, headed by Senator Frank J. Harris, has brought out these developments:

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk has subpened the judges of election in McKeesport, Clairton, Duquesne and the Fourth Ward of Pittsburgh to get information concerning the charges of tampering with the machines. Clunk was put in charge of the investigation by District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

Harris' committee, declaring the particular type of machine used a failure, stated that if the District Attorney's office finds the machines inherently defective, it shall call on the County Commissioners to rescind the contract and refuse to make payment.

Hiram D. Hirsh, attorney for the manufacturers, and R. T. Gladstone, company engineer, today gave Clunk information concerning their charges that 19 handles were filed off the machines, and stated that the machines, in-

INDEPENDENT FORCES FIGHT TO PREVENT ELECTION 'STEAL'

Nomination of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong by 4,000 votes—although complete, reliable unofficial figures indicate his defeat by 2,400—was forecast today by Congressman Harry A. Estep, Armstrong campaign manager.

Estep based his claim on "official returns."

For two days, "Organization" politicians have said Armstrong would be "counted in," replacing County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern as State Senator W. D. Mansfield's running mate on the Republican ticket.

On the heels of a fraud-and-violence-stained election, came a steady flow of reports that the second-place nomination eventually would go to Armstrong, no matter what plurality was shown for McGovern by unofficial figures.

Following slugging and intimidation of bona fide voters, the registration of thousands of fraudulently assessed and registered voters, came the reports of stolen ballot boxes and of "Organization" henchman working far into the night in an effort to "stuff" the needed Armstrong votes into pillaged and strong-armed boxes.

McGOVERN ON GUARD

The McGovern forces, confident their candidate has been elected, started a vigorous campaign of precaution designed to discover any fraud which has been committed and to obtain prosecution if variations in the official count increases Armstrong's total materially.

Chief among the post-election developments today were:

1—Discovery by the Registration Commission that 4,500 "phantom voters" had taken part in Tuesday's balloting.

2—Preparation by the McGovern forces of court petitions asking the impounding of 100 or more ballot boxes in districts where fraud was anticipated, many of them in the areas where the Registration Commission said the "phantom voters" had been found.

3—Starting of tabulation of the votes by the official recount board, with McGovern representatives looking on to forestall "organization" tampering.

4—With the Armstrong faction claiming victory despite the lead recorded for McGovern from the Election Board's figures, it was found that five districts official return sheets had not been presented to the Election Bureau at noon today. They were those of the Fourteenth District of Twelfth Ward, and the Second and Eighth districts of the Twenty-first Ward, Pittsburgh, and the First District of Forward and McCandless townships.

5—Attorney E. O. Spotts was preparing to file a petition in court asking that a representative of each county candidate be permitted to inspect voting machines used in McKeesport on Tuesday. These machines went out of order after being used for about an hour. Spotts, representing Independent candidates, seeks to determine to what extent and how the crippling of these machines affected final tabulations.

6—The McGovern faction posted $5,000 in the Prothonotary's office for forfeits required to open 100 ballot boxes; the Armstrong faction posted $2,500. McGovern's followers announced they had an unlimited fund to cover opening of additional boxes if sufficient evidence of fraud is found. When fraud or irregularity is discovered in an opened box, the $50 deposit is refunded, otherwise it is forfeited.

7—The Roosevelt Civic League announced the formation of a Vigilance Committee to forestall "stealing of the nomination for Armstrong." Donald D. Mangone is organiz-

FORBES FIELD, Sept. 18.—The Boston Braves drove Larry French to the showers in the second inning of the first game of today's double-header with the Pirates.

The Braves got away to a four-run lead in the first on five hits, including a double by Berger, and a walk. Two straight hits in the second inning brought about the removal of French in favor of Osborn. The relief pitcher retired the side without a score.

L. Waner's triple, a double by Traynor and P. Waner's single gave the Pirates two runs in the third.

SHOOTING LAID TO BAD CHECKS

Gangland's weapon of retaliation, the sawed-off shotgun, spat 60 lead pellets into the right side of Nick Spano, roadhouse proprietor of Imperial early today, because Spano gave bootleggers worthless checks, according to County Detective Frank Ritz.

Ritz, who said he had been seeking Spano for some time to answer charges of obtaining money under false pretense, declared he has learned Spano had been "put on the spot" two weeks ago when his roadhouse, the Green Gable Inn, on the Lincoln highway, was bombed.

Authorities have been unable to learn where or how Spano was shot, but Spano's wife, Rose, 22, told Ritz that she was awakened

3 Officials Accused Of Drunkenness While on Duty

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—A deputy and two other officials of the Department of Property and Supplies were given immediate dismissals today by Secretary of Property and Supplies John L. Hanna, he said.

"These men were dismissed for the reason that after an investigation they were found to have been intoxicated while on an official visit to Berwick, September 10."

Those dismissed are P. F. Gallagher, Pittsburgh, deputy secretary in charge of engineering and construction; Regis M. Welsh, Pittsburgh, publicity director, and Kenneth A. Rugh, Bolivar, Westmoreland County, engineer in charge of construction, district No. 1.

IN OFFICIAL CAR

Gallagher and Welsh both had been appointed since the beginning of the administration while James F. Malone was Secretary of Property and Supplies. Welsh was named on recommendation of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Pinchot leader in Allegheny County. Rugh was ap-

Doolittle to Try For New Air Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Maj. James H. Doolittle will shortly attempt to establish a new land plane speed record, according to plans made today. Doolittle, who holds the coast to coast speed record, will fly to Memphis on Monday in his fast plane, which will then undergo improvements in Chicago.

The speed test will be made over a three-kilometer course either here or at Hartford, Conn.

Loans Urged By Campbell For Needy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Direct governmental loans of "several hundred million dollars" to the needy were proposed today by Representative Campbell, of Pennsylvania, to alleviate distress during the coming winter.

Campbell, a Republican, suggested that the federal government or the states issue long term bonds for the loans which he said should be made for 10 years without interest.

He said at least 75 per cent of the loans would be repaid. They should be made, he said, through relief organizations according to the actual need of applicants.

Confiscated when the men were arrested outside the Courthouse about 3 a. m. were baseball bats, a loaded .32 caliber revolver, a monkey wrench, a claw hammer and a 2x4-inch plank. Police said two of the men had blackjacks in their pockets.

PINCHOT SPECIAL SESSION LIKELY TO MEET IN OCTOBER

DATE HINGES ON SURVEY OF NEEDS

Governor Expects Local Agencies to 'Carry On' Alone Until Christmas

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—The special session of the Legislature which Gov. Pinchot will call for unemployment relief is expected to meet here late in October or early November.

The time when the call is issued, the time when the law makers convene and the exact subjects to be considered are expected to depend upon replies the Governor receives to his questionnaire requesting adequate relief funds for various localities.

Questionnaires were sent several weeks ago to chairmen of county commissioners, poor boards and welfare agencies asking data on relief needs in every community and the extent to which they can be cared for locally. He requested replies within a week if possible.

WILL PLAN FOR 1932

This information, when tabulated, is expected to form the background on which will guide the Governor in his plans for the session. The speed with which replies are received and tabulated may determine the time when the Governor issues the call. The urgency of local needs may decide how soon the legislators are assembled. The problems stated in the replies to the questions may influence the character of the administration's legislative program to be submitted to the session.

Persons close to the Governor believe local relief will be adequate through funds to be appropriated at least a few communities where distress is most acute they believe this can be accomplished by paying the entire winter's budget from funds for expenditure in the next three months. Consequently it is said the lawmakers will be asked to enact legislation providing state funds for relief activities with the beginning of the new year.

"PROSPERITY BONDS"

The Governor yesterday announced his intention of asking the legislature to authorize issue of "prosperity bonds" immediately upon enactment of an enabling act, although the bonds would be unsecured until they could be exchanged for long-term interest-bearing state obligations which could arise if voters in 1933 ratified a constitutional amendment authorizing the loan.

He has not indicated what total of the emergency relief fund is to be named in his recommendation to the legislature. The amount is expected to be governed by replies to his questionnaire.

Neither did he divulge the use he proposes shall be made from proceeds of "prosperity bonds." Direct appropriations for relief—such as food, clothing and shelter—are prohibited by the Constitution. Other methods of using the money are available, however.

Large sums from the proposed emergency appropriations could be devoted to public works, such as building, roads, flood control and other improvements which offer employment. Added appropriations could be made for mothers' assistance and to aid hospitals and charitable homes, which are the closest approaches the state now makes to direct benevolent grants.

pointed in the Fisher administration.

The dismissals followed investigation by Gov. Pinchot. The three officials it was learned had gone to Berwick to visit a district office of the department last Thursday. The trip was made in official car No. 28, assigned to Gallagher, and driven by a uniformed chauffeur.

RECALL DRY PLEDGE

The investigation is said to have revealed that the party created a disturbance on one of the main streets of Berwick when they tried to enter a bank after closing hours and that when a crowd including police gathered Gallagher is said to have announced that he had a big political position at Harrisburg.

In the first Pinchot administration, state employes were required to sign a pledge to observe the prohibition laws. The new pledge was not included in the forms signed in this administration which substituted a promise of loyalty to the Pinchot political principals of the 1930 campaign, ex-the request from Blue, but said the physical condition of Mrs. Collings, who, he said, is under the care of two physicians in Stamford, did not permit her appearance as a witness.

On the stand, Forest told of going to the boathouse where Mrs. Collings was taken when found on an anchored motorboat. Using notes he made at the time he recited the story he said she told him. It was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Collings and their little daughter were asleep on their cruiser Penguin, when two men boarded it. Collings went on deck and the men told him they had a wounded man they must get to the Connecticut shore. He refused and then Mrs. Collings heard him say:

"They're putting me into the water."

Forest said Mrs. Collings told him the two men had forbidden any lights on the Penguin and that while they were arguing with Collings little Barbara Collings began to cry.

The witness said Mrs. Collings quoted one of the men:

"Keep that baby quiet. You do what you're told and nothing will happen to you."

Her story, as recorded by Forest, continued that, after throwing Collings over, the two men lifted a form," which she supposed to be the wounded man, although she could not be sure, into their canoe. Then she was ordered into the canoe, which she said was so heavily loaded she was afraid it would tip over.

As the men paddled her away, she said, according to Forest, she could see her husband floating near the Penguin. When they neared the shore the younger man got out and waded ashore and the elder took her to an anchored motorboat, where he left her.

Forest said this first story made no mention of an attack upon Mrs. Collings by the elder of the two men. In later stories she said she was attacked.

When Kelly left Stamford he shed new light on the "sea pirate" murder mystery by announcing he had learned that Mrs. Collings had attempted to aid her husband when he was attacked, beaten with milk bottles, bound and thrown overboard from his yacht, the Penguin. She threw herself into the struggle, he said, but the elder of her husband's assailants hurled her back into the cabin, where she remained helpless.

N. Y. RELIEF ACT FACES VETO

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Formal notice that he would veto the Republican supported bill for unemployment relief and reconvene the Legislature in a second extraordinary session for the purpose of passing a measure carrying out his own ideas was served on legislative leaders by Gov. Roosevelt today.

A letter, addressed to Majority Leader George R. Fearon, of the Senate, and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, of the Assembly, stated that the Wicks bill was so at variance with the Governor's views of the proper method of unemployment relief administration that he would not approve it.

UPSET MARKS BELLEVUE VOTE

Two veteran school directors and two Councilmen were defeated in a political upset in Bellevue, returns of the balloting today disclosed.

James W. Graham, for 20 years secretary of the school board, and H. A. Pickering, vice president, were supplanted by E. H. Wicks, who is one of the Visitation Board inquiring into the County Poor Board's affairs, and James H. Campbell, a former member of the board. Mrs. Evalyn Ritchey, newly-appointed member, was nominated.

Defeat of the present members was attributed to reports that the proposed new high school would cost more than the $325,000 available under a bond issue. The school board in a pre-election statement denied this. Campbell was said to have circulated a letter stating that the cost would be greater.

John R. Longabaugh and James Delaplain were defeated for renomination to Council by Mahon McDonald and Roy Patrick, respectively. Thomas Hunter, Independent, won in the First Ward.

Atterbury Lauds Swope Plan in Appeal to Men; Urges Lower Tariff

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, last night called upon his employes to join the management in evolving a plan for stabilization of employment and business in the railroad industry.

Such a plan, although intended primarily to solve problems confronting the Pennsylvania Railroad, might be the first step toward national business planning to prevent repetition of economic disruption, he said.

CITES SWOPE IDEA

The proposal came, he said, as the result of the scheme for stabilization of industry outlined Tuesday by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company, and is intended to be the first large scale application of the Swope idea.

Among Gen. Atterbury's proposals were:

Repeal by Congress of the capital income tax, which is responsible for the disappearance of a great deal of the real value of property.

Modification of the present anti-trust laws which prevent the country from properly controlling its production and distribution.

Concerted attack on the part of big business to set up machinery which will prevent repetition of such slumps as the present one.

WOULD LOWER TARIFF

Lowering of America's tariff walls, so that other nations may sell their goods here and secure enough money to pay their debts.

Change of policy toward South America so that the nations would not be alienated and would become good friends and good customers.

An economic coalition of "many nations" in Europe to permit more free interchange of goods.

Governments should get out of business and stay out, he declared.

"Every time government has attempted to do anything it has ruined business. It spoils what it touches."

Gen. Atterbury said the Pennsylvania system probably would launch unemployment insurance with employes and management contributing jointly.

after midnight by Harry Jacobs, of 1611 Webster avenue, who told her her husband had been shot. She and Jacobs took him to the Mercy Hospital.

Jacobs, questioned by police said he was seated on Spano's porch awaiting his return when he saw an automobile, with two men in it, drive up. Spano called to him, he said:

"Please take me out—they got me."

John Columbo, Imperial shoemaker, who resided in the Spano home, with Mrs. Spano and Jacobs, then took Spano into the house and attempted to dress his wounds. Later they took him to the hospital.

REFUSES TO TALK

Homicide Detectives Frank Dodson and Thomas Mulvihill, called to the hospital, took Mrs. Spano, Jacobs and Columbo to detective headquarters for questioning after Spano refused to give them any information.

Questioned for some time Spano said only, according to Dodson:

"Never mind. I know who did it and it won't do any good to talk."

Ritz was called in when it was learned that Spano had conducted a roadhouse. His investigation is centering around bogus checks, Spano was alleged to have given bootleggers, he said.

The Spanos have been married for seven years and have two daughters, Catherine and Teresa.

RECORD CITED

Spano had been arrested on charges of bootlegging and on a Mann act charge, according to records in the United States District Court. At present he is free under $1,000 bail for trial on another liquor charge, according to the records. In April, 1931, he was arrested when agents said they found a still in his place at Imperial, but the case was dismissed for insufficient evidence. About a year ago he was arrested in the Mann act case, but a Cleveland federal grand jury dismissed the case, and in October, 1927, he was dismissed here on another liquor charge by the United States Commissioner.

HOOVER GIVES THOUGHT TO BEER PLEAS

White House Gets Figures On Employment, Revenue Furnished by Breweries

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Indications were forthcoming today that President Hoover is giving some thought, at least, to the appeals that are flooding the White House for the return of 3 per cent beer as a measure of economic relief during this period of depression.

Pressure upon Mr. Hoover to alter his bone-dry policy to the extent of recommending beer has been persistent and steadily increasing in volume for several months. Bankers, industrialists, labor leaders, and busines men, some of whom are numbered among his most valued counsellors, have urged him toward a modification policy. They have emphasized the economic aspects of it, the employment it would give idle workers and the revenue it would bring into the federal treasury, rather than the prohibition side of it.

KEEPS OWN COUNSEL

The President has listened to their arguments, some say with marked impatience—and kept his own counsel. If he has been impressed, he has said nothing.

Today it was learned, however, that the White House has called upon the Census Bureau for figures bearing upon the employment aspects of the brewing business, and upon the Treasury Department for statistics showing the amount of revenue that accrued to the government in the days before prohibition.

The American Federation of Labor estimates that more than 1,500,000 workers would be given employment by the return of beer.

REVENUE FIGURES

On the revenue side the Treasury figures show that in 1914, the federal government deprived $67,081,512 from taxes on beer and ale, and that in 1919, despite the spread of prohibition through various states, this revenue was increased to $125,727,500.

The revenue from distilled liquors, i. e., "hard" liquors, for the same years was $159,000,000 in 1914 and $443,839,500 in 1919.

On the basis of these figures, the advocates of "beer for revenue" are inclined to claim justification for their prediction that a return of beer at this time could be made to produce a revenue in excess of $500,000,000 a year.

Former Senator Elkins Urges Return of Beer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Declaring that the prohibition experiment was a failure, former Senator Davis Elkins (Rep.), of West Virginia, who always voted dry in the Senate, today advocated a special session of Congress to legislate relief for unemployment and to meet the present economic situation.

Among other things, Elkins urged:

"Congress should authorize the sale of beer and light wines. The prohibition experiment has gone on long enough to prove that it can not do the things which were promised for it when the law was passed."

40 Horses to Dine With Club Members

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Oats and lump sugar are on the menu for a dinner at a hotel in honor of Joseph H. Widener, chairman of the Jockey club. The guests will include 40 race horses, which will dine in stalls around the banquet hall. Then they will be paraded across a runway for the entertainment of the other guests.

miles, the yacht came back to New York carrying much of the fuel with which it started.

YOU HEARD of the pigs that swam ashore on the English Channel and died as they reached the high and dry sand on the beach.

Their ship sank, and they swam courageously. But their necks were very fat, hoofs sharp, and their front feet toe in. As they swam they cut their throats, and, landing, bled to death.

You cannot blame the pigs; nature made them that way. But you can blame some that own good American securities and are cutting their own financial throats, butchering their stocks, throwing them overboard in Wall street.

Dry Critic of Legion Opens 'Horrors of Rum' Show

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Rev. F. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, who has expressed apprehension that visitors to the American Legion convention next week would ridicule the prohibition law, today set up a downtown exhibit designed to demonstrate the effects of alcohol on the human body.

Holsaple told newspapermen he had no particular individuals or organizations or conventions in mind when he decided to set up his exhibit. He said it will continue for two weeks, and that Legion visitors will be welcome.

The exhibit, Holsaple said, is to help people who have fallen into intemperate ways. The initial includes statistical posters and a number of small dolls. The latter are grouped to represent the children of teetotalers, moderate drinkers and heavy drinkers. The dolls are designed to show that children of alcohol users are more likely to be deformed or sickly.

A motion picture will be shown, Holsaple said, at 7:30 each evening. One of the subjects of the picture demonstrates the effect of liquor on a gold fish, he said.

Warburton Scion to Wed Former Pittsburgh Girl

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Egerton Warburton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, of Philadelphia and Palm Beach, said yesterday that his engagement to Miss Mary Louise Hatch, of New York, would be announced shortly. Miss Hatch has essayed a career in musical comedy. The Hatch family recently moved to New York from Pittsburgh. Warburton said the marriage would take place before Christmas.

Warburton, a grandson of the late John Wanamaker, was married in 1923 to Elizabeth Peltz, of this city. They were divorced last year.

KANE WINS LEGAL BATTLE FOR BAIL ON MURDER CHARGE

FAMILY POSTS $15,000 FOR PROFESSOR

Court Grants Plea Despite Coroner's Fight to Hold Prisoner in Wife's Death

International News Service.

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 18.—Elisha Kent Kane, the young University of Tennessee language professor, who yesterday was charged in a coroner's verdict with having "deliberately" drowned his pretty wife, Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane, was ordered released today on $15,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing next Wednesday morning.

Prof. Kane obtained his release despite the vigorous opposition of Coroner George K. Vanderslice and Commonwealth Attorney Roland Cock, who insisted that if released at all bond should be set at $100,000.

HEARING WEDNESDAY

Judge C. Vernon Spratley, after listening to argument, however, over-ruled the state's representatives and set the bond at $15,000, which was supplied by the defendant's Pennsylvania relatives.

The professor's next appearance will be in the courtroom of Judge Joseph E. Dixon next Wednesday, when he will be given a preliminary hearing on the coroner's charge that he killed his wife while the two were swimming off Grand View Beach here on September 11.

COUSIN DENOUNCES JAIL

Kane has grown gaunt and dark circles have shaded his eyes since he was placed in the jail, which his cousin, Francis Fisher Kane of Philadelphia, condemned as a "veritable black hole of Calcutta on hot days."

Parents of the dead Mrs. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham, of Hilton Village, Newport News, openly announced they were with the prosecution in the Kane case today. Following days of refusal to discuss the case, the parents declared the Coroner's verdict was not unexpected.

They further revealed privately that they knew of the existence of a letter they interpreted as evidence Kane was associating with another woman, and that they did not believe the relations of Kane and his wife had been happy for some time. This letter, they said, was written two years ago and was not now in existence.

CALLED 'SASHY, DEAR'

The letter, written aboard an American liner, September 11, 1931, follows in part:

"Sashy Dear:

"There were numerous times, Sashy, when I wondered if you and I will ever get leisure to do some of the 'old world' places together, the good and the bad.

"Do you still have any dreams of my ever being a part of your life?

"I can't understand how come 'she' stayed at home a year. Do you still intend to stick it?

"And how about the book? Surely you're devoting your time to it strictly but surely—is the dedication still to E. H. D.?

"What are you doing with your days this summer, Sashy? I really don't believe I let a day go by without thought of you. We were once so close—and—still I feel close to you.

"Have you read any interesting books—you know the kind I mean? Well, dear, this is a long letter from Betty, who still holds you very, very dear in her heart."

Monaghan to Lead Phila. Progressives

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—District Attorney John Monaghan will lead the fight of the newly-organized Progressive party in the November elections, it was announced here today, following a meeting of a committee formed to combat the organized forces of local Republicanism.

Maj. Samuel B. Scott, who presided, declared the Progressive party would be formed in every ward in the city. He stated that an invitation would be extended to Hampton Moore to top the party list as candidate for Mayor.

Plan Relief Appeal To N. J. Governor

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Chester I. Barnard, state director of unemployment relief, in a statement today said he would ask Governor Larson to call a special session of the Legislature to consider unemployment relief legislation.

Among legislation desired by Barnard is the temporary imposition of excise taxes to provide funds for unemployment relief, any excess to be used to reduce local property taxes and "taxes that depress business activities."

Aimee to Enter Movies, Says Billie Dove

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Billie Dove, film actress, writing in the Evening Express, said Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton and her new husband, David H. Hutton, soon will enter motion pictures.

The evangelist and her husband, who is a singer at Angelus Temple, religious citadel of Mrs. McPherson-Hutton, will produce a picture, Miss Dove said, and will co-star in it.

It is reported it will be a feature production and will be attempted upon the return of the couple two months hence from a honeymoon in Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton left here Tuesday for Portland, Ore., to conduct revival meetings following their surprise marriage Sunday at Yuma, Ariz. Said Miss Dove:

"The evangelist's gesture in inviting leading executives of the motion picture industry to witness her oratorio, 'The Iron Furnace,' assumes special significance in view of her plans to turn movie star."

Seeking Record

MRS. J. M. KEITH-MILLER

Mrs. Keith-Miller, noted aviatrix, who made the Pittsburgh-Havana solo flight, today planned to smash the women's transcontinental flying record.

KEITH-MILLER SEEKS RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—William Lancaster, flying partner of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, of Australia, has announced that the aviatrix and Mary Adams, New York actress, will seek to better the women's transcontinental record of Ruth Nichols.

Lancaster said last night he had spent several weeks in preparation for the flight and that Mrs. Keith-Miller was due here today by plane from New York. Miss Adams already is in Los Angeles.

The plane to be used, he said, was capable of 200 miles an hour.

Mrs. Keith-Miller attracted wide attention on her flight from Pittsburgh to Cuba. After successfully flying to Cuba, she was blown off her course and landed on a small island on her attempted return flight, and it was several days before she established communication with the outside world.

Wet Mayor's Bible Class Fights Ouster

ATLANTA, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Officers of Mayor James L. Key's Bible class in the Grace Methodist Church today moved to prevent his removal as teacher over his anti-prohibition utterances.

A special committee of five was named to wait upon the Rev. Robbert Z. Tyler, pastor.

EPISCOPALIANS FACE RIFT ON MASS BOOK

'American Missal' Held 'Roman' by Opponents; Divorce Issue Widens

DENVER, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Two controversial subjects were before the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church today as members of the House of Bishops, House of Deputies and woman's auxiliary delegates met in joint session.

The matrimonial canon regarding the marriage of divorced persons, which has stirred comment from both liberals and conservatives, has been joined by the American missal, or mass book, as a subject for debate between the so-called high and low churchmen.

The American missal has been independently printed and circulated. Opponents claimed its general use would lead the church "toward Romanism." Advocates deny this and say the missal is set forth as a supplement to, not a substitute for, the Book of Common Prayer.

Meanwhile, delegates prepared for a vote on proposed changes in the matrimonial canon, with a plan advanced by Bishop Charles Fiske, of Central New York, finding some favor.

Bishop Fiske advocates the establishment of an ecclesiastical court in each diocese and missionary district to act in all marital cases and to consider questioning of annulment of marriage. His proposal does not permit remarriage of divorced persons.

BAR ASKS TRUST LAW CHANGE

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 18.—The American Bar Association today voted approval of amendment of anti-trust laws in officially accepting the report of its committee recommending such action.

A resolution was also adopted by the convention proposing that federal legislation be enacted authorizing the regulation of motor vehicles operating in interstate commerce as common carriers of passengers.

The convention also reaffirmed its position in favor of the United States participating in the League Court. On this proposition those opposed registered a lusty negative vote from various sections of the floor. However, the president ruled the report adopted.

Mexican Editor, Politician, Shot

TIJUANA, Mexico, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Ramon G. Tarvon, editor of a labor publication and storm center of Lower California politics, was shot in the abdomen late last night in a brawl in a Tijuana cafe. Col. Teodoro Villegas, former mayor of this city, was placed under technical arrest, but denied blame for the shooting.

Ford Moves to New Plant in England

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Removal of more than $2,000,000 worth of automobile manufacturing equipment from Manchester to the new Ford factory at Dagenham, near London, was completed today.

The machinery was moved 200 miles in 10 special trains.

LONDON MOBS GREET CHAPLIN

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Charlie Chaplin, American film comedian who arrived in London recently from France, was mobbed by admiring crowds of Londoners when he was recognized upon leaving the Cafe de Paris in Piccadilly today.

Despite the fact Chaplin left the cabaret long after midnight, a crowd quickly gathered to catch a glimpse of the famous star, and all available police rushed to the scene to protect him.

The "bobbies" tried ineffectually to form a cordon around the star, but the crowd repeatedly broke through, yelling and cheering for their idol. At length several husky policemen seized Charlie by the arms and piloted him through the mob to his hotel.

Chaplin plans to spend the week-end with Winston Churchill, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the latter's estate in Westerham, Kent.

Chicago Police Get Cleanup Ultimatum

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The Chicago police today were given 10 days to make a complete cleanup of vice and gambling conditions. An ultimatum was issued to them by Mayor Anton J. Cermak, who indicated that if there was not satisfactory response to his demands he would bring about a drastic shakeup of the force, affecting everyone from patrolmen to captains.

At the same time, Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock issued a list of vice resorts, with orders to commanders to close them up at once.

PASTOR'S WIFE 'TORCH' VICTIM

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Residents of the hamlet of East Palmyra today told District Attorney Charles B. Brasser of an apparent attempt of an unidentified assailant to burn Mrs. Henry Koert, 32, wife of the pastor of the East Palmyra Reformed Church, to death.

Mrs. Koert was attacked last Tuesday, police were informed, by a man who called at her door. She was knocked down, dragged to an outer cellar way and thrown down the steps. Burning newspapers, according to the report of police investigators, were tossed after her.

Neighbors found her a short time later, her face and body badly bruised and burned and her hair singed. Her condition today was reported fair.

Mr. Koert, who was visiting in New Jersey at the time of the attack, could not shed any light on the case. He thought it might be connected with several attempts to burn the church a year ago.

Parachute Sighted; Hunt for Flier Fails

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—A track-walker yesterday reported that he had seen a parachute with a man dangling from it drifting toward dense woods near Dempseytown, some eight miles from here.

Search by two pilots who took the air from the Franklin Airport failed to reveal either parachute or plane on the ground within a 15-mile radius of Dempseytown. No pilot was reported missing at air fields in this vicinity.

15 MORE ACCUSE VOTE BOARD

Fifteen residents of the Twenty-fifth Ward today filed informations before Alderman A. W. Headley against members of the Registration Board charging conspiracy to violate the election laws.

They charge their names were stricken off the vote lists by the commission, illegally depriving them of the right to vote. Alderman Headley said he would require $300 bond from each of the four members of the board.

All of them waived hearing last night before Headley on similar charges preferred Tuesday by a North Side woman voter. They gave $2,500 bail in this case.

Headley said he expected further information today.

BRITAIN VOTES BUDGET CUTS

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The coalition government, headed by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, won its fight to put through its government economy measure today when the House of Commons voted 220 to 157 to authorize the government to make the economies effective through orders in council.

Among the economy measures which will be decreed are slashes in the unemployment dole, government salaries, including cabinet ministers, civil service employes, school teachers, army, navy and air force services, and police, and drastic reductions in the appropriations for public works.

Rumors that an immediate general election was in prospect for Britain were dissipated this afternoon with an official statement from 10 Downing street that the budget must be balanced before anything else can be done.

Hit by Elevator Chain, Man Dies

Harold Mathison, 40, 219 Matthews avenue, died in Mercy Hospital today from injuries received when an elevator chain in the new Gulf Building struck him on the head as he inspected the elevator shaft, early this morning. Mathison, married, was a foreman of structural iron workers. Following the accident, the iron workers, adhering to the tradition of their trade, quit work for the day.

GLORIA WEDS FOURTH TIME, PARIS HEARS

Home Town Friends in Chicago Is Astonished at Reported Union to Broker

PARIS, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—A report that Gloria Swanson, motion picture star, had been married in August to Michael Farmer, American broker frequently seen in her company in Europe and the United States, was published here.

The marriage, the report stated, was arranged for the week of August 16 by Dudley Field Malone, famous American divorce lawyer, and took place "in a state of the United States which recognized Miss Swanson's divorce from the Marquis Henri De La Falaise De La Coudray." The dispatch added that the divorce would not become "definite" until October. It was rumored the marriage had taken place in some city "near Chicago."

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—A report published in Paris that Gloria Swanson has entered a fourth marriage was regarded with astonishment here. It was pointed out that under Illinois law the marriage would be impossible in this state as Miss Swanson's divorce from her last husband, the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Coudray, has not yet become final.

Miss Swanson was born in Chicago and began her film career here with the old Essanay Company. In 1916 she married Wallace Beery. In less than a year, she was divorced and in 1919 married Herbert K. Somborn, wealthy motion picture executive. Somborn obtained a divorce four years later. Her marriage to the Marquis occurred in January, 1925.

CHURCH HEADS FEAR ARREST

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Five leaders of the Catholic Action organization are voluntary prisoners in the Vatican and do not dare leave Vatican City because of their participation in the recent Italo-Vatican controversy, it was learned today.

One of them is Count Della Torre, editor of Observatore Romano, who has not left the Vatican since the dispute started, almost four months ago. An Italian detective stands outside the gate leading to his editorial offices night and day, presumably to arrest him as soon as he sets foot beyond the papal confines.

Della Torre, together with the Jesuit Father Rosa, is slated for dismissal by the Pope as a concession to the Italian government in recognition of settlement of the controversy. The other voluntary prisoners are an officer of the Palatine Guards, who is said to have furnished the Pope with information for his speech against the head of the Fascist University group, and former heads of Catholic Action connected with the defunct popular party.

Oust U. S. Workers, Mexicans Demand

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The National Transporta Union today published a demand for dismissal of all American employes of the Southern Pacific Railway of Mexico, declaring it will stand by its decision to strike unless the demand is met.

The union declared that attempts at arbitration had failed and that final notification of the intention to strike would be presented to company officials without delay. The union also refused to accept a 10 per cent wage cut proposed by the company.

Hearing for Deputy On Election Arrests

William Kessler, former policeman, who was appointed Deputy Constable on petition of Constable Luke Hannan, of the Sixth Ward, the day before the election, by Judge James H. Gray, is to appear before the Judge next Tuesday to show cause why his commission should not be revoked.

Judge Gray is said to have stipulated that Kessler should not carry a gun or make election arrests on election day. George Broderick, who filed the petition asking Kessler's removal, alleged these conditions were ignored.

spected three days before election, worked perfectly.

W. H. Sunderman, assistant to George Schad, Jr., county custodian, also was closeted with Clunk. The Citizens' Committee with Senator Harris presiding yesterday met in his office.

BLAME TYPE OF DEVICE

Today's statement was issued which follows:

"The almost complete breakdown of the voting machines used in Tuesday's primary election in Allegheny County has not altered the conviction of the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee that voting machines constitute a dependable method of voting.

"The failure on last Tuesday was the failure of the particular type of machine which the County Commissioners of this county have insisted, in the face of the opposition of the committee, on purchasing.

"When the County Commissioners first had up the matter of awarding the contracts for voting machines, this committee employed an impartial engineer to make a study of the various types of voting machines available.

"The result of the investigation was that our committee indorsed a machine which had been in use successfully for many years in various states, and, on the report submitted by our engineer, reached the conclusion that the type of machine which the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, proposed to manufacture, had not been developed to a point where it could be relied upon to function properly, nor had the Poole company had the manufacturing experience which would enable it to make deliveries of machines.

ACTION PROTESTED

"This committee has at all times protested against the action of the County Commissioners in insisting upon spending $1,200,000 in purchasing a machine that was not in use anywhere in the United States, from a company that never had made any voting machines whatsoever.

"In spite of the committee's earnest appeal to the Commissioners not to buy the type of machine offered by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, the Commissioners awarded the contract to that company, and the result was, in the opinion of this committee, a foregone conclusion.

"The statement is now made by the Poole company that the reason for the failure of its machine is that the machines were tampered with. From the reports which this committee has, based upon sworn affidavits of watchers in the various voting places where voting machines were used, this committee does not believe that the primary reason for the breakdown of the Poole machines was tampering.

"This committee will immediately see District Attorney Park, with a view of making an investigation of the machine, so that it may be determined whether or not there has been any tampering, or whether the failure of the Poole machines was due to their inherent defects.

FAILED ELSEWHERE

"A similar failure of the Poole Company voting machines took place in Northumberland and Schuylkill counties, which are the only other counties in which this type of machine was in use last Tuesday, while the information furnished our committee from many communities throughout the state where the machine which this committee recommended was used was that the performance of these machines was highly satisfactory, and there was no confusion or breakdown anywhere.

"This committee will co-operate in any way possible with the District Attorney's office in investigating the charge of tampering.

"It will make every effort to find the facts with respect to the performance of machines used in Allegheny County last Tuesday. If it should appear that they are, as this committee believes, inherently defective, we shall then call upon the County Commissioners to rescind the contract and refuse to make payment for any future machines of this type, and this committee will take such appropriate action as may be necessary to protect the rights of taxpayers."

Beamish Holds Machines Success in Honest Hands

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—Use of the voting machines in Tuesday's primary has convinced Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish that the machines are a success wherever they have had a fair and honest chance. Beamish is the state official in charge of enforcement of the voting machine law.

Where there was sabotage machines did not have an opportunity to demonstrate their value, he said.

Beamish added he is without authority to take action against the repairman whom H. D. Hirsh, representative of the Poole Engineering and Manufacturing Company, accused of disabling a score of machines in Allegheny County. The Secretary said:

"My job has nothing to do with initiating criminal action against despoilers of voting machines. Communities must protect their own property. The voting machines in question were the property of Allegheny County. If officials there are willing to see property destroyed by vandals, that is their own affair. The law gives me no authority over it. Police or the County Commissioners are the ones to take action."

Where no handicaps were imposed on use of the machines they operated satisfactorily, Beamish said.

office and called for police protection. Scout cars from the downtown and Hill districts police reserves from Penn avenue and Oakland districts and police from the Central Station were rushed to the scene under command of Capt. John Barry.

At the police hearing the men were represented by Attorney Maurice Goldstein, an Armstrong political worker. A number of the men testified they are county employes. Rothenberg and Goldstein indulged in frequent verbal clashes, following one of which Rothenberg threatened to have Goldstein ejected from the proceedings.

STUDENT ARRESTED

Among the defendants was John Phillips, 25, Carnegie, who claims to be a student at Washington and Jefferson College. Pat Murphy, another of the 27, a truck driver, said:

"I got a call that someone was going to the Courthouse to steal ballots and I went to see that no thievery would occur."

Richard Thompson, 34, of Steuben street, testified:

"Judge, I only went over to the Courthouse to get latest returns."

Capt. Barry, of the Oakland district, said he learned that a plan was afoot to start a fire in the courtyard of the building and, during the confusion which would follow, raid the Sheriff's office and steal the ballot boxes.

'STRIP' RAID REPORTED

A. F. Kachle, a former Justice of the Peace of Scott Township and a supporter of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, said after the arrests of the men that a short time before the police were called to the Sheriff's office word reached Armstrong headquarters that a gang of men were on their way from the "Strip" to the Courthouse to steal the ballot boxes. The men under arrest, mostly from the South Side and supporters of Armstrong, had gone to the Courthouse to prevent the raid, he said.

WEAPONS FOUND

Police searching an automobile in the courtyard said they found a loaded revolver under the seat. Four baseball bats were found nearby. Outside the building on Diamond street another car, painted white and decorated with Armstrong banners, was found. A piece of board, a hammer and two jack handles were found under the seat, police said.

Both cars were towed to the city garage.

Police who investigated a rumor that a gang planned to slug Senator Coyne when he left the Pittsburgher, said several hours later that they could find no foundation for the rumor.

Police charged that when they removed the automobile from the courtyard two county motorcycle men tried to stop them.

TWO ORDERED HELD

Two men, arrested by detectives who trailed them from the Diamond street entrance of the Courthouse to Fifth and Wylie avenues, carried blackjacks, the detectives said. They gave their names as Frank Grabel, 22, of 37 South Twelfth street, and Milton Verner, 32, of 88 South Twelfth street. They were ordered held without bail.

Others arrested gave their names as Thomas Mangan, 41, of 100 South Eleventh street; Joseph Gorsky, 40, of 1802 Sarah street; John Phillips, 25, of Baden avenue; Stanley Keefer, 37, of 1505 Bingham street; Matt Domagio, 27, of 156 South Sixteenth street; Joseph Starr, 45, and John Lewis, 28, of 1308 Bingham street; George Cedar, 35, of 1109 Carson street; Patrick Murphy, 38, of 403 Carson street; C. R. Bossart, 36, of 146 Newham street; Leonard Schultz, 29, of 365 Bailey avenue; Richard Thompson, 34, of 815 Steuben street; John Devine, 28, of 1110 Sarah street; Frank Anthony, 23, of 99 South Twenty-second street; W. Lucas, 27, of 126 South Eleventh street; Walter Grabel, 29; Walter Martz, 25, and John Graber, 24, of 3 Diamond Square; Albert Johnson, 30, of 1305 Carson street; Dan Gallagher, 25, and Andy Muro, 24, of 123 Diamond Square.

ARRESTS EXPECTED

Police today expected to make some arrests as a result of the slugging of Police Magistrate Charles F. Papale and Phillip Azzara, during a fight in front of the home of Michael De Rosa, Twelfth Ward Republican leader, 532 Paulson avenue, late yesterday. The fight started when someone in a crowd charged cheating in the voting for Michael De Rosa, Jr., a candidate for Twelfth Ward alderman.

CLOTHES SHOP

ON THE FIFTH FLOOR—MEN'S CLOTHING SECTION

Let's do a little figuring: You pay, let's say, 50c every time you have your suit pressed. The average 22.50 suits are made of soft-finished woolens; they go to the tailor at least once a week.

Gimbels 22.50 Suits are made of hard-finished worsteds. They hold their shape. And the tailor needn't see them more than once every two weeks.

Easy to figure! You save the price of the suit the first year. In fact, you can afford to buy two Gimbel 22.50 suits instead of one ordinary 22.50 suit—and be money ahead.

LEAGUE WARNS OF NEW CRISIS

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The financial committee of the League of Nations reported to the assembly today that the world financial crisis is aggravated and "may well become a chronic or suddenly more acute and more widespread."

This warning of a group of eminent financial experts, including Norman Davis, American, was made the basis for an appeal for a larger appropriation to meet additional financial emergencies which may arise in the league this year and in 1932.

Sir Arthur Salter, British delegate who for 10 years has been director of the league's economic organizations, also emphasized the urgency of the financial crisis. He told the economic committee this the financial problem was the most important of international life.

Tariff systems and particularly unequal tariffs he charged are chiefly responsible for the present fiscal troubles of the world.

Fisherman Drowns In 4 Feet of Water

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Facing from a boss who struck his head as he fell, a four feet of water, Joseph Garscavage, 17, Pittston, a fisherman, drowned in Susquehanna River near Meropatan. The body was recovered by a companion, who had gone to a nearby store to obtain cigarets, after which he returned found the boat from which Garscavage had been fishing.

Parking Trucks Banned to Let Children Play

Application of citizens of Woodendale street, North Side, to make the street safe for children at play by prohibiting parking of trucks was granted yesterday by the Public Works Committee of council. The street will be roped off.

LINDY TO FLY ON TO EUROPE

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A Rengo News Agency dispatch from Fukuoka, Japan, said today Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had announced he was going to Europe but did not name the route he might follow after completing his flight to China upon which he expects to start from Fukuoka tomorrow.

The dispatch said Col. Lindbergh, in a conversation with E. R. Dickster, American consul at Fukuoka, revealed he would not decide upon a route until he arrived in China. Rengo also quoted the colonel as saying he would fly as far as Europe, but would not attempt a flight to America.

Previously the colonel had said he would fly all the way home but that the route had not been selected.

SEEK GAMBLERS IN KIDNAP PLOT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(INS)—An extortion and kidnap plot indirectly involving the name of Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambling king, was under official investigation here today.

The conspiracy revealed in an announcement by District Attorney Buron Fitts, revolved about Mrs. Gladys Balfour Bergin, wealthy widow, and her three children.

Fitts declared former members of Rothstein's gang had threatened to kidnap Mrs. Bergin's children in an effort to extort $2,000 for gambling debts allegedly owed by their father, Leon P. Bergin, millionaire soap manufacturer who died last May 29.

The accidental shooting yesterday of Harry Leslie, district attorney's investigator, prompted Fitts to disclose details of the plot. Leslie was a member of an officers detail patrolling a lonely stretch of road in the hope of capturing the intended kidnapers. He was wounded when his own gun was accidentally discharged.

The stretch of road had been designated, according to Fitts, as a place of meeting between the extortionists and Mrs. Bergin's Negro chauffeur.

Man Dies Suddenly Of Disease Rare Among Adults

The deaths of a man and a baby from enlarged glands were reported to the morgue early today.

Frank Derant, 22, of 5132 Broad street, died late last night a few hours after he had eaten dinner while apparently in good health. He died in convulsions. Lola Wittenberg, aged 2 months, of 109 North Renova street, died in Children's Hospital from the same ailment.

Doctors said enlarged glands causing death is common among children but rare among adults.

Hit by Giant Wave, Woman Near Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Mrs. Lucy Walther, 45, of New York City, was recuperating in a hospital today from the effects of a narrow escape from drowning in the ocean surf. She was rescued by Coast Guardsmen after a giant wave had dashed her against the rocks of the beach. The woman denied attempting suicide.

2 Killed, 1 Injured In Prison Battle

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Two prisoners were killed and four were injured by police during an outbreak at a detention camp near Kharagpur, India, the Evening News said today. Three officers were wounded.

MANY PERILED IN STILL BLAST

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Liquor stills in a warehouse here late yesterday scattered flaming debris which started fires in a dozen or more nearby dwellings and sent hundreds of persons fleeing for safety.

Several firemen were slightly burned by geysers of flaming alcohol and gasoline.

After preliminary investigation by federal prohibition agents, police and fire department officials, Chief Field Agent Thomas Nee, of the prohibition bureau, said rivalry between two bootlegging organizations was responsible for the blast.

Nine fire companies were called before the flames at the warehouse and the neighboring residences were extinguished.

Quakes Rock Greek Island, Relief Sent

ATHENS, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Food and other relief supplies were rushed today to the province of Epirus and the Island of Eubeoa, where a series of earthquakes have destroyed hundreds of houses. Property damage was reported to have extended over a wide area and some loss of life was feared.

THIS is no time to be wasteful, and yet the most flagrant form of wastefulness is to withdraw from use things than can still render service and economy to someone. When you do so you forego the cash you can obtain from them by re-sale, and you deny others of the practice of thrift that arises from making use of things they can buy and utilize without paying the "first hand" price.

ARMSTRONG CLAIMING NOMINATION BY 4,000 MAJORITY

INDEPENDENTS GUARD AGAINST FRAUD PLOT

8—Commissioner McGovern protested to Judge George V. Moore, presiding, as the Returning Board started its tabulations, against the employes under the direction of his opponent being in charge. He said dozens of elections had been stolen during Armstrong's tenure in office. The brunt of his remarks fell upon Gilbert C. Cloonan, chief of the Election Bureau. Judge Moore listened to the protest and then ordered the board to go ahead with its tabulations.

Persons [illegible] the [illegible] that the [illegible] was [illegible] Armstrong [illegible] against [illegible] McGovern [illegible] to a [illegible] lists.

The Independent [illegible] received [illegible] ballots had been [illegible] the election boards [illegible] work and [illegible] Armstrong [illegible] ing.

The prospect of [illegible] prosecution of [illegible] fraud was believed [illegible] materialize [illegible] organization [illegible] plans to beat McGovern [illegible] the mayor's nomination.

Estep's statement [illegible] Armstrong the winner, read:

"Official returns from all election districts of the county now having been received and the Return Board about to start the tabulation the Regular Republican Organization is satisfied that Joseph G. Armstrong has been nominated for the second place as County Commissioner by not less than 4,000 majority.

"We have made a careful check of the figures from all districts not only through sending men out to check them, but have checked them also from the official returns received at the Election Bureau and there is no doubt but Mr. Armstrong has been nominated.

Expose of Huge Phantom Vote Fraud Expected

An expose of wholesale phantom voting was expected to be revealed today as the legal staff of the Independent Republican party headed by Commissioner Charles C. McGovern worked until 3 a. m. preparing scores of petitions for impounding ballot boxes where it was feared fraud may have been perpetrated.

Evidence already has been uncovered by the Registration Commission that thousands of votes were cast fraudulently. This came in the return as inspectors at that address of 4,000 registered letters of 4,800 sent out by the commission. The names are being checked against the voters' list to determine how many "phantoms" voted.

BOXES IMPOUNDED

At the same time it was announced that 38 votes were cast from the Fort Pitt Hotel, although but 16 make the hotel their permanent home. One of the voters who gave his name as Edward Krkosky listed his address as the seventeenth floor. The Fort Pitt Hotel has 11 floors.

The petitions which were prepared during the night were to be presented in Common Pleas Court early today. Already several ballot boxes have been impounded. The box of the First District of Ross was brought to the Sheriff's office last night on a court order, while the ballot box of the Fourteenth District of the Twelfth Ward, the Mayor DeSales Jr. stronghold was impounded for the night and is coming today at work under protection of the Sheriff since Tuesday night when home. They were to return today to complete the count.

Musmanno Second Only to Soffel In Size of Vote

Official returns from 88 [illegible] Commissioner M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Mayor of Council, Court to have received 288,096 votes, which is the second highest vote of any of the [illegible] candidates. If polls the Common Pleas and Orphans' Court [illegible] with Judge Sara Soffel, the highest candidate.

According to political [illegible] Musmanno represents the Mayor of Allegheny [illegible] [illegible] by Allegheny [illegible] by a [illegible] date not holding a [illegible] office at the time of the [illegible] the ballots.

[illegible] Boards' offices in the new County Building was maintained [illegible] by the Independent [illegible] Charles C. McGovern, [illegible] of the city commissioners [illegible] the office closed and [illegible] section in the [illegible] a [illegible] to [illegible] McGovern [illegible] This [illegible] class doors [illegible] were able to look directly [illegible] the room and see them [illegible] there was no tampering [illegible] the ballots.

The first order for impounding a ballot box for a count of the votes was made by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen yesterday in Common Pleas Court on petition of Attorneys Ralph H. Frank, representing the Independent Republican organization. The ballot box in the Forty-Second District of Wilmerding, Avipe stronghold, in which McGovern was given 154 votes, was counted impounded on the petition signed by John P. Reagan of the First District and William J. Gilmartin and Adolph P. Fox of the Third District of Wilmerding, who swore they were informed and believed fraud had been committed in making [illegible] ballots and counting the vote.

ORDER BOXES SEIZED

Judge Edgar W. Marshall ordered the ballot box of the Eighth District of the Twenty-eighth Ward delivered to the Sheriff's office and the Election Board to complete its count there on petition of [illegible] C. Weidmann of 426 Fast West street, who alleged that the judge of election and [illegible] inspectors had been absent during the counting and that a watcher, Mrs. Anna Brander, had been illegally [illegible] from [illegible] the board.

President Judge James B. Macfarlane signed an order directing the Sheriff to seize [illegible] ballot boxes from [illegible] in the Fifteenth Ward, alleged to have been brought Wednesday to a downtown brokers office. The petition was taken to Ralph Frank and presented by Attorney Joseph A. Rhoades.

Judges Marshall and Frank P. Patterson sat late last night to hear any petition which McGovern might have to offer.

McGovern made the following statement:

"My men have already gathered for me the complete official returns. If any variations are found there will be trouble."

The possibility of the election being thrown into court on a contest was being discussed last night by men who stay on the job during the three days following an election in Allegheny County in which results of elections in the past have turned out to be entirely different than the immediate returns indicated. These wise guys were willing to give odds last night that Commissioner Armstrong was elected with a comfortable margin over McGovern.

GUARD COUNT

If the return board figures show Armstrong the winner undoubtedly McGovern will contest the election and Armstrong will do the same if he sees a chance to win.

A veritable swarm of attorneys were busy at the Independent Republican headquarters until after midnight preparing petitions to impound boxes in suspected districts. A $3,000 bond was posted with the prothonotary to bring boxes in for recount.

Those [illegible] compiled as the election boards [illegible] their counts are subject to slight revision. The changes, however, [illegible] the organization succeeds in [illegible] alterations to suit the Armstrong cause will not materially affect the standings.

In one district, the Fourteenth of the Twelfth Ward, the count was incomplete, but the estimate compiled on tabulations made before the ballot box was taken to the Sheriff's office for completion of the counting, is regarded as accurate.

The election board of the Fourteenth district spent one night in a jury deliberation room sleeping in chairs and their work on the next was so delayed by fatigue that the exact figures will not be available until the official recount board, starting its work today, makes its tally.

Alongside the wreckage of the Armstrong candidacy [illegible] the defeats of the once powerful political machine of Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Kline's Commissioner candidate Coone and three of his four [illegible] candidates were [illegible] under the repudiation of gang politics stormed in.

The machines henchmen tried all their old-time tricks. The vote tabulation was withheld until the last possible minute in many districts election boards were threatened, ballot boxes were stolen and shooting and other disorders [illegible] the polls.

It was to no avail. The independent vote was [illegible] and while the result [illegible] did [illegible] Commissioners McGovern's lead [illegible] 4,000 [illegible] estimated that was [illegible] to go.

The final [illegible] were:

Mansfield	180,733

Machine's Efforts Fail To Stop McGovern

The Republican machine [illegible] powers went the way of the famous One-Hoss Shay, and left both candidates, Armstrong and Coone sitting in the middle of the road as Mansfield and McGovern swept by.

Mansfield leading the field by almost 40,000 votes was never in danger as the independent returns of the city and county [illegible] in the hands to repudiate the corrupt practices of organization politics.

SCHNEIDER, AIDE HELD IN FRAUD

Jack Schneider, First Ward constable defeated for renomination by Paul Walsh, and his lieutenant, George King, 1308 Fifth avenue, were held for court charged with violating the election laws by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today.

John Kaiser and his wife, Fay, of 1703 Fifth avenue, testified Schneider promised to obtain tax receipts for them in return for their promise to support him. Subsequently they testified, King delivered the receipts.

Rothenberg asked Kaiser if Schneider had inquired where Kaiser lived. He replied:

"I told Schneider I lived on the North Side but intended getting a room in Fifth avenue. I took a room at 1703 Fifth avenue, which is in the Third Ward. Schneider told me to register from 1322 Fifth avenue, in the First Ward."

Kaiser was arrested when he went to the polls to register. Schneider denied the charge. He testified:

"I only asked him to help me."

Asked about the tax receipts, Schneider said:

"Someone else must have got them for Kaiser and his wife."

Ex-Senator Nugent Dies at Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—John F. Nugent, former Senator from Idaho, died at his home here today of heart disease.

Needy Man Freed In Theft, Given $5 By Judge

Brought before Magistrate Ray F. Schneider in North Side Police Court on a charge of stealing coal from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Tom Nelson, 23, of 837 Tobin street, was discharged and given $5 by the magistrate to "buy something to eat."

Nelson, out of work for months, said he took the coal to cook meager rations he was able to purchase from time to time. At the time of his arrest Nelson said he and his wife, who is an expectant mother, had only a half loaf of bread.

YOUTH ADMITS VOTE FRAUD

Clayton Swisher, 20, of Clearfield, Pa., pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today within an hour after he had been indicted on a charge of violating the election laws in trying to register in the First district, Second ward, Old City Hall, September 8.

He said that he was "out of luck," and that someone gave him something to eat and drink. He denied he had been sworn before taken into custody as he sought to register.

Judge James H. Gray said:

"I will remand you to jail until this case can be thoroughly sifted. We should get at the bottom of this attempt at fraudulent voting."

To Churchill B. Mehard, counsel for the Registration Board, Judge Gray added:

"If you need any help in prosecuting this case let me know."

Township Blocks Fire Appropriation

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—The official count of votes cast in a special election in Morgan Township, Greene County, to determine whether or not an annual appropriation of $500,000 would be made to the Jefferson Volunteer Fire Company showed that 335 votes were cast against the proposition to 315 cast in favor of the appropriation.

PHILA. SEIZES WINE BRICKS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (AP.)—Seizure of all wine bricks and arrest of their vendors has been ordered by Director of Public Safety Schofield. He asserted possession and sale of the bricks was a violation of the Snyder act, state prohibition measure.

In a letter to Acting Supt. of Police Joseph Lastrange the director said outcome of the test case against sale of wine bricks in New York would not affect local conditions since the state act outlawed sale of grape concentrates.

Lastrange relayed the order to all police districts and officers began search for brick salesmen.

Fast Swim Stirs Suspicion; $4,000 Recovered

WATHENA, Kan., Sept. 18 (AP.)—Sheriff John Cordinier, seeking motorboat thieves on the Missouri River, couldn't understand why a young man denied transportation across the big stream by two boatmen, plunged in to swim for the opposite shore.

Sheriff Cordinier recruited oarsmen and followed. With his approach the swimmer shouted not to shoot and flung a sack downstream. Cordinier fished him and the sack, which contained $4,000 from the water.

Reaching land, the Sheriff learned the Farmers State Bank of Wathena had been robbed of $4,000. Today the swimmer, giving the name of Russell Morgan, 23, of Los Angeles, is in jail.

YEAR'S TRAFFIC DEATHS 103

With six traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh in August, the year's total increased to 103. Twenty-one of the victims were children and 82 adults, according to City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre. Last month's fatalities included three adults and three children as against four children and 10 adults in the same month of 1930.

Child traffic toll to date this year exceeds that of 1930 by one, while adult deaths have decreased from 103 to 82. Both child and adult fatalities have decreased substantially in comparison with the same period last year.

REVIEW MARKS GREYS' FETE

The one-hundredth anniversary of the Duquesne Greys being celebrated at the General Logan Armory today, Saturday and Sunday, is to feature a regimental review of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, under command of Colonel William R. Dunlap, in the Pitt Stadium tomorrow at 5 p. m.

An address will be given after the review by Maj. Gen. William Price, Jr., commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard, to be followed by the presentation of men in uniforms and equipment representative of the six periods of service of the Greys.

FIFTH AVENUE PITTSBURGH

$12,000 AWARD WON BY WIDOW

A consent verdict of $12,000 damages was awarded Mrs. Mary Stehle of Mayfield street for the death of her husband in the suit against the Nevin Bus Lines, Inc. In Common Pleas Court Lewis W. Stehle, 58, was killed October 18, 1929, when a truck of the Pittsburgh Bus Supply Company, which he was driving was struck by a bus of the Nevin Lines at Fifth and Liberty avenues, Mrs. Stehle asked $25,000 damages for the death of her son, Raymond, in an automobile accident, in the suit against Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brown of Hampton township. Common Pleas Court. The Browns admitted liability in the case, but denied that their son, Bake, was driving the car at the time of the accident. The suit charged

3 DIE BY GAS IN SUICIDE PACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—A Bureau of Standards engineer, his wife and a son, 18, were found dead in their home here yesterday in what police said was a suicide pact.

In an upstairs gas-filled bedroom police found the bodies of S. M. Petrenko, his wife and the son, Vadim. A rubber hose attached to a gas outlet downstairs and piped into the room through a hole bored in the floor was under the pillow of the boys bed. A second hose on the bed between Mr. and Mrs. Petrenko was addressed to police said:

"I, S. M. Petrenko did it with the consent of my wife. The reasons do not concern the police department. We are taking our boy to save him from the cruel world."

The two Petrenko children, Ariadna and Eugene, were not at home. Police said they were visiting relatives. At the Petrenko front door a note in red ink read:

"Do not strike matches."

Soviets Frown On Card Deck Royalties

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Ely Culbertson, contract bridge expert, is back from Russia with a story about royalty. He had a scheme for doubling the sale of playing cards in the Soviets but the man in charge of the syndicate would have none of it.

Culbertson said: "He told me that he had been put on the job for the express purpose of cutting down the sale of cards because there are kings and queens in the decks. He boasted he had slashed the annual sale to 1,500,000 decks. They tried putting out decks without figures of royalty and the Russians refused to buy them."

PITT STUDENTS GO TO CAMP

To assist freshmen at the University of Pittsburgh to become better acquainted with members of the school administration, about 50 first-year men were to be taken today on a two-day camping trip to Camp Kon-O-Kwee near Zelienople, Pa. The camp is sponsored by the University Young Men's Christian Association.

Faculty members in the party are Robert C. Clothier, dean of men; J. G. Quick, university registrar; Dean E. A. Holbrook, Dr. H. C. McKown, Prof. M. C. Elmer and Prof. John Dambach. The committee in charge of the camp is headed by John B. Holbrook, student chairman, and W. W. Mendenhall, executive secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.

MOYLE OCEAN HOP CERTAIN

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Definite announcement that they would resume their interrupted flight from Tokio to Seattle was made today by Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California airmen, in a wireless to the newspaper Asahi from Naarin Island, where they were forced down 24 hours after leaving Japan.

In the dispatch, Allen gave the first description of the hazards he and his companion encountered after they left Saboshiro Beach on an attempt to fly nonstop to Seattle for the $25,000 prize offered by the Asahi.

N. Y. LEADERS URGE HEARST BOND PLAN

Call on Legislature to Pass Bill Urging U. S. Action for Prosperity

International News Service.

ALBANY, Sept. 18. Democratic legislative leaders, Senator John J. Dunnigan and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, today called upon the Legislature to indorse the suggestion made by William Randolph Hearst for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan.

The Democratic chiefs have sponsored a bill requesting President Hoover to call Congress into special session to adopt the plan and will move for passage of their bill, which is still in committee. In a statement today they said:

"The nation has called upon the states to co-operate in this crisis. It is fair for the state to request reciprocal action from the nation. A great liberal of this state, William Randolph Hearst, has suggested an extensive practical plan for economic relief. This plan is predicated on large appropriations amounting to five billions of dollars for public works. The future, benefitted by these improvements, will pay for them.

"The national administration has had this plan under advisement for months. New York, through its legislative branch, can properly advise Washington that it favors the Hearst plan. The distress is of stupendous proportions—the Hearst plan meets it in adequate proportions.

"The emergency requires vision and courage. Mr. Hearst has evolved a scheme of splendid vision and real courage. The nation cannot lag in its public improvements. The nation has a choice of breakdown by inaction and of sublime betterment by the Hearst plan. The choice is easy—let us pass this resolution."

$75,000 Sewer Plan Studied by Council

Construction of a new sewer in Braddock avenue to cost $75,000 was considered yesterday by the Public Works Committee of Council and favorable action taken to satisfy complaints of some of the manufacturing plants of the district. A councilmanic bond ordinance covering the cost of the proposed improvement was authorized to be prepared.

Visiting Clubwomen Help Members Honor New President at Year's First Gathering

One of this season's early club openings was that of the Aspinwall Woman's Club, which took place yesterday, honoring the new head, Mrs. Franklin E. Sturgeon. The clubhouse was comfortably filled with the club members and visiting clubwomen who came from other Allegheny valley towns, from the city and clubs as distant as Ingram to speed the new executive into her administration.

Mrs. Sturgeon made a splendid inaugural address and later in the afternoon introduced her official family, taking a clever allegory as a means of doing so. There was an exceptionally fine and well-chosen musical program of quartet trio and solo numbers by Miss Barbara Bess Wellman, contralto; Miss Virginia Wellman, harp; Miss Alyce Martin, cello; Miss Katherine Rickert, violin, and Frederic Lotz, piano.

The decorations, which were profuse, were from the gardens of the members. The social and hospitality committees under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. V. Hyland and Mrs. M. C. Rodgers, were in charge of the tea hour.

Mrs. I. Blaine Snow is being assisted by a number of the members in arranging for the annual card party of Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. On her committee are Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Mrs. William J. Holland, Mrs. Alfred E. Hunt, Mrs. William D. Hamilton, Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, Mrs. Verner S. Gargin, Mrs. William Maclay Hall, Mrs. David Lindsay Gillespie, Mrs. Howard N. Eavenson, Mrs. George C. Urquhart, Mrs. F. T. F. Lovejoy, Mrs. Charles A. Finley, Mrs. Frederic C. Blackmaster and Miss A. E. Wainwright.

D. A. R. Benefit

The affair, which is a benefit designed to finance the work of the chapter's 26 Children of the Republic Clubs, will be held at the Hotel Schenley on October 5.

At the open meeting of the chapter, next Friday in the Hotel Schenley, two citizenship clubs will present part of the program. They are the John A. Brashear and the Booker T. Washington clubs, which will give a pageant called "The Father of Our Country," under the direction of W. J. Bosley.

Mrs. R. I. Ehmann will contribute soprano solos to the Dormont Mothers' Club get-acquainted program on Tuesday night. The club will meet in the new Dormont New Century Club.

The initial meeting of the Pittsburgh Circle International Federation of Catholic Alumnae will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Ursuline Academy, South Winebiddle avenue.

Mrs. Ehmann

Mrs. R. K. Foust, president of the Seton Hill College Alumnae Corporation, will give a tea for the Pittsburgh-Seton Club in her apartment in the Fairfax Hotel tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the general committee for the Seton Hill Alumnae ball, to be held in the Activities Building on the Greensburg campus October 9, will attend.

While the season's formal opening of the Women's Club of Mt. Lebanon will not take place until October 12, there will be several departmental meetings prior to that date.

Meetings Scheduled

The garden department announces a meeting for next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. V. Hiort, Newburn drive, when Ralph W. Stewart, of the A. W. Smith Company, will speak on "Artistry in Gardening."

Travel department members will meet Monday afternoon at the home of the new chairman, Mrs. R. A. Stoner, Vernon drive, to arrange their program for the year.

The home department announces a change in its meeting day this year. Meetings will be held on the fourth Monday of each month, instead of the fourth Thursday as heretofore.

The Literary Review, the North Side club which was organized last year, is beginning its second season today with a luncheon. The women have elected to study modern literature and India this year and have prepared interesting and varied programs including map talks, book reviews, current events and papers. A Christmas play, a visit to the International Art Exhibit, a lecture and a guest day are extra program events listed in the club's good-looking year books.

Literary Review

Mrs. Earl S. Fenelon is its president; Mrs. C. E. Lamberton, vice president; Mrs. James Mooney, secretary; Mrs. Harold C. Lowe, treasurer, and Mrs. Walter A. Long, historian.

A program of music will be presented Saturday afternoon, September 26, at the tea with which the Dormont New Century Juniors will open their season. The program will be by Mrs. Robert Vroom, pianist; Mrs. Pemberton B. West, soprano; Mrs. Grafton Darby accompanying; the club choral and Miss Marjorie Patterson, violin; Mrs. J. S. Flack accompanying. Miss Marjorie Kraber, with Mrs. Paul Kraber at the piano, will contribute a solo dance.

Junior Program

Invitations will be sent out by the Junior Section of the Homewood Women's Club for a dance to be held October 16 in Wilkinsburg Masonic Hall.

Rizo Sisterhood No. 97, Dames of Malta, will have a card party after their regular meeting at Serbian Hall tonight.

LACE FROCKS NEWEST VOGUE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—It is nice to meet old friends in new surroundings. For that is the sentiment that many of us feel when we meet frocks of lace perfectly at home and at ease amidst the rather new world created by this year's autumn clothes. After seeing so many startling and rather different garments, it is just like meeting a dear friend to glimpse a lovely, simple frock of lace that is just as effective, if not more so than ever this season. Every house showing a lovely lace frock is pretty sure of a purchaser, not only amongst its private clientele, but from within the ranks of the professional buyers. This season's lace evening frocks are extremely good to look upon, as they subscribe to many of the new features, while retaining all of the fragrant, delicate charm that we are wont to associate with lace. And so, if you are a lace frock addict, you may be pretty sure of finding a new and good-looking model amidst the welter of the very new clothes.

WE SHOW TODAY an Irene Dana lace frock that should gladden the heart and eye of any woman, so effective and graceful it is. Saffron colored lace of rather firm but strong mesh is used to make a simple flat bodice belted at the natural waistline. The interest of this model is carried by the skirt in its shirred flounce dipping low in front to suggest a deep apron and lifted sharply at the back to hint at the good old bustle silhouette that was all the thing in the eighteen eighties. The decolletage is bordered with a three-inch band which crosses in front, passes over the shoulder and slopes in a V line quite to the belt in back.

GARAGE RAIDED SECOND TIME

For the second time this month prohibition agents yesterday raided a garage in the rear of 1437 Edgar street, and confiscated 40 gallons of moonshine and two cases of whisky, according to their report. No arrests were made.

A 90-gallon still and 1,100 gallons of mash were reported found in a raid on a house in Kregar, Westmoreland County. Hadie Ulery was arrested, brought to Pittsburgh and held in Central Police Station in default of bond.

Five pints of whisky, three pints of gin and 30 cases of home brew were confiscated at 222 Anderson street, agents reported. No one was arrested.

Premier Bulldog Picked to Grace Museum

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Paple Spring Boddie Boy, a five-year-old English bulldog, owned in Baltimore, had been selected by Yale University experts as the outstanding representative of his breed and after death will be preserved in the university museum of natural history. The owner, Carey W. Lindsey, once refused an offer of $10,000 for the dog.

The selection of the Baltimore dog was made by Leon Bradley Whitney, of New Haven, Connecticut executive secretary of the American Eugenic Society, who is supervising the university's selection of outstanding examples of various breeds of dogs.

GETS 4 MONTHS FOR THEFT

John A. Lauderbaugh, 47, of 7 Norton street, pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to theft of $341 from an interstate shipment from the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland to the First National Bank, Chester, W. Va. He was sentenced to four months in jail by Judge Nelson McVicar.

The theft took place at the Railway Express Agency Terminal where he was employed as a clerk.

Employes Routed By Ammonia Fumes

Fumes filled the basement and the shipping department on the first floor when a gasket blew out on the circulating coils. None was affected seriously.

'WINE BRICKS' RULE ASKED

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, acting director of public safety in the absence of James M. Clark, today asked City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt for a ruling on the sale of "wine bricks," started this week in a Sixth avenue storeroom.

Walsh told Waldschmidt that he was in doubt as to the law governing the sale of the bricks. He said:

"If it's illegal, the police will stop it."

The "wine bricks" are composed of a concentrate which, when mixed with water, becomes a drink, it is said, with the flavors of various wines.

Printed instructions given with each brick tell the buyer "what not to do." It warns the purchaser that if the rules are disregarded the beverage eventually will assume a high alcoholic content.

SUNDAY SUN-TELEGRAPH

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

IT MAY SOUND like a gag, but I happen to know that the story is true. Most of the true stories sound like gags anyhow, so I've decided to stop worrying about that angle of the column. Let's get into the yarn, then, without further ado.

A motion picture director—and he's one of the very best in the business—had been hitting the bottle rather heavily in Hollywood. His company didn't want to give him the air because they knew that any one of three rival concerns would grab him in a moment. But they couldn't find a way to remedy the situation. When the director was on one of his periodic sprees, he was absolutely no good to anyone. And when he was sober, he was liable to go off on a stew at any time. So what to do?

The big shots sat around one of those mahogany tables and mournfully discussed the status of this great director.

"We must use him on that new picture," said one executive. "He's the only one in the business who can do the job as it should be done. He should go into a conference with the author immediately. But what good will anything be if he goes off on a toot."

The others nodded sadly. They discussed ways and means, and some of the world's most fantastic suggestions came to light. Finally, after an hour or so, one of the wise men popped out with an idea that sounded like something.

"I think," he stated, "that this Hollywood atmosphere is what is doing the most harm to Steve. Everybody knows that he's the greatest of all directors, and they're forever toasting him on that fact. Small wonder that Steve goes off on toots.

"I think that we should get Steve out of Hollywood for this story conference. Let him meet the author in some other spot—say, half way across the continent. They could get together there, and they wouldn't have any Hollywood parties to go to.

"We could send a watcher along with Steve to see that he doesn't get out of hand while he's working—and that would be an additional precaution. How does it strike you?"

It struck the executives splendidly, it seems, because they all agreed that the plan should be put into effect at once. What might happen after Steve returned to Hollywood to direct the picture failed to occur to them. After all, why should it? Weren't they picture executives? . . .

About five days later, Steve was registered in a hotel in Detroit, Mich. His author was coming from New York, and was due on the morrow. A guard was with the director constantly, and a phoney name had been used on the hotel books. They weren't even taking the chance of having a newspaperman slip him a drink and starting him off.

Well, you know what happened. Steve is a highly artistic soul—and all this caging was getting on his nerves. More than that, he hadn't had a drink in a week and he was developing a terrible yen. When the guard was certain that his charge was asleep, he threw himself on a couch for 40 winks. He hadn't gone through 10 of the winks when Steve was already in the lobby.

We'll draw a merciful curtain over the next few days and raise it again to find Steve in a hotel room in Chicago. How he got there from Detroit and what happened to him in the interim, he still hasn't the slightest notion. But there he was with a terrible headache. And, to make matters worse, a damsel was sitting on a chair and looking at him.

The director blinked at her. And as he blinked, he shuddered. She was a strange looking woman, and she had a face that would have stopped every clock in the Tribune Tower.

"Oh, my head," moaned the director. "It's killing me. I'm going to die, I tell you."

The woman arose.

"There, there, sweet feller," she cooed. "Just you rest quietly. You're goin' to be all right because I'm goin' to take good care of you."

Steve looked into her face and shivered again. His artistic sense—his great love for beauty—was triumphing over his illness.

"Listen, lady," he muttered, "you can believe me when I tell you that I don't know who you are or what you're doing here. Will you please go away and permit me to die in peace?"

The woman shook her head.

"Not a chance, pardner," she stated. "I like you. Maybe your memory is not so good, but we've been travelin' around Chicago for a coupla days now. I've taken pretty good care of you, pardner, and I'm not going to leave you in the lurch when you're feelin' like you are."

Every time the woman used the word "pardner," Steve winced perceptibly. He moved a weak hand and pointed to his trousers.

"Lady," he moaned, "you're going to drive me daffy. You'll excuse me, I know, when I tell you that I can't look at you. Now listen. Over there, in my trousers, you'll find money. There must be money there. Take all or any part of it, and just go away. Please, please, go away."

No luck. The woman merely smiled.

"No chance, pardner," was all she said.

Steve twisted about in his bed. He must get rid of this horrible woman. His head was splitting, and it would never get better while her face was staggering his artistic senses. Where was he? In Chicago, the woman had said. A tough town, from all he had heard and read. An idea hit him. He faced the woman.

"You've got to leave," he cried dramatically. "If you don't, you'll be in terrible trouble."

His unwanted guest rocked back and forth.

"Go back to sleep, feller," she said, "or you'll be havin' the D. T.'s all over again."

"But you don't understand," Steve went on. "The police are liable to be in here any minute."

The woman looked startled for the first time.

"Yeah?" she cried. "What for?"

The director made his supreme effort.

"While I was away from you last night," he lied, "I got into a fight with a man and they had to take him to the hospital."

The woman leaned back and rocked more furiously than ever.

"Forget it, pardner," she murmured, "that's nothin'. I killed a guy here over three weeks ago and they haven't ever bothered me yet." . . .

URGE WIDENING GARRISON WAY

Members of the Better Traffic Committee yesterday discussed the widening of Garrison way and the resubmission of the uniform codified ordinance to the city Law Department. Frank L. Duggan, general chairman presided at the committee's monthly meeting.

Members believe widening of Garrison way, supplemented by the widening of Seventh avenue between Smithfield street and William Penn way, will produce considerable traffic relief and improve property values. Widening of Seventh avenue could be accomplished through arcading the Chamber of Commerce Building, Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre asserted.

Modern Juliet Averts Tragedy For Romeo

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—And they lived happily together ever afterward.

Frank W. Schneider and Miss Cecilia Coughlin—Mr. and Mrs. Schneider now—today had written the story book ending to a romance that almost developed into another Romeo and Juliet tragedy.

Schneider was pronounced out of danger today at Lakeside Hospital, where he was brought suffering from poison swallowed when Miss Coughlin failed to keep an appointment — the breaking of which had been agreed upon to mean the end of their romance.

But shortly after Schneider was brought to the hospital, his fiance arrived out of breath to explain she had been unavoidably delayed. They were married at once in a bedside ceremony.

INGRAM HOLDS BENEFIT

A benefit entertainment for the unemployed at which admission will consist of money or canned goods will be held tonight in the Ingram School Auditorium under the auspices of the Ingram Welfare Association.

The program includes Uncle Henry and his Children's Radio Broadcasting Band. The association was recently organized to aid the needy and unemployed in Ingram borough during the winter. It is being supported by the Ingram Board of Trade, the Firemen's Association, the Acacia Club, the Parent-Teachers Association, the Junior Women's Club and societies of the First Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches.

Sharp Quake Felt At Fujiyama, Japan

TOKO, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—A sharp earthquake of short duration shook the region around Mount Fujiyama, 60 miles southwest of here this afternoon.

Commenting on the shock, which was similar to the one that shook the Tokio-Yokohama region Wednesday evening, experts at the Central Meteorological Observatory said this was the earthquake season.

Banker Held Captive As Thugs Gets $5,000

MILTON JUNCTION, Wis., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Three men who had held the president and his wife captive all night, robbed the Farmers' Bank of Milton Junction of about $5,000 today.

They got the keys from the president, John Paul, whom they held up in his home last night. The trio looted the bank while two companions stood guard over Paul and his family.

NINE MEN HELD IN VOTE ROW

Nine Negroes were held for court and two others were discharged on charges of inciting a riot yesterday afternoon at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Albert J. Henning, of Carrick.

The men were arrested during an election row Saturday near the Letsche school by state police the officers testified at the hearing.

Those held were Joseph Thomas and Nastroau Farrin, of 4 Miller street; Howard Holmes, of 1408 Colwell street; John Jones, of 1839 Bedford street; Dreacoe Jeter, of 1221 Wylie avenue; Charles Jones, of 1615 Wylie avenue; Robert Badger, of 3 Sachem way; James Bandy, of 1524 Clark street, and James Dunlap, of 142 Fullerton street. "Kid" Welsh and James Beatty were discharged.

YOUNG DIRECTS RELIEF DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Owen D. Young turned his attention today to providing the hundreds of millions necessary to prevent distress next winter among the unemployed.

The New Yorker, author of the Young reparations plan, undertook the task as chairman of a committee in President Hoover's unemployment relief organization.

The committee was called to work out plans with Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, for raising funds through local communities to prevent suffering among the jobless.

Its membership included men accustomed to deal with large sums among whom were Pierre du Pont, of Wilmington, Del.; Fred Fisher, of Detroit; Henry M. Robinson, of Los Angeles, and Walter Teagle, of New York.

WILKINS' SUB FIGHTS WINDS

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Wilkins-Ellsworth Trans-Arctic Submarine Expedition.

(Radio via American Radio News Corporation and Radiomarine Corp.)

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, Sept. 18.—Threading our way through the fog-bound fjords in high winds and guided by two Norwegian pilots, the Nautilus is making fair time and should reach Bergen, Norway, by tomorrow.

In crossing the west fiord between Lofoden Islands and the mainland, in the high seas the Nautilus reared and pitched, the bow coming right out of the water and smacking down like a leaping green whale.

Seas came over the bow and fog obscured vision so that it was difficult to keep our course. As the boat was being turned a broadside almost capsized it. The crew was hurled from their bunks and loose objects were shot from one side of the cabins to the other.

Soon after daylight we reached the shelter of the fiords, and henceforth look to a smooth passage to Bergen.

NAVAL 'MUTINY' FORGIVEN

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—The traditional English attitude that the Navy should be kept out of politics was believed at least partially responsible today for the unexpectedly lenient attitude taken by the government toward the unprecedented "strike" by 12,000 seamen against pay cuts.

While announcing that any future refusals by sailors to obey orders from their commanding officers would meet with regulation disciplinary measures, Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, declared no punishment would be meted to those who participated in the "pay mutiny" at Invergordon, Scotland.

As a consequence of this attitude high officers of the Atlantic fleet met in London with the Admiralty Board to discuss the seamen's grievances while the 16 battleships and cruisers involved in the disaffection were returning to their home ports along the English Coast.

New York to Cheer British Sailors

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—New York will have a chance to cheer up British sailors, suffering from cuts in their pay. It was announced today the British warship Delhi will arrive here next Wednesday for an eight-day stay. The International Labor Defense of America announced a protest meeting here Saturday against any move by the British government to punish sailors implicated in the recent fleet "strike."

Death List Mounts As Belize Digs Out

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Radio messages to the Tropical Radio Company here today indicated that although the death list in hurricane-stricken Belize, British Honduras, was mounting, general condition there were improving. The dispatches predicted the death total would exceed 1,500.

4 Accused in Detroit Of Gang Massacre

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Raymond Bernstein, Irving Milberg, Harry Keywell and Harry Fleisher, all members of the Purple gang, were charged by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy today with the massacre of three gangsters in a Collingwood avenue apartment Wednesday.

Illness Delays Trial Of Pastor in Slaying

LAMAR, Mo., Sept. 18.—Illness of a juror today interrupted the murder trial of the Rev. J. A. Brown, accused slayer of the Rev. George Rider, Kansas City evangelist and former pastor of the Christian Union Church at Halley's Bluff.

COUPLE GIVES POWERS CLUE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—A letter received by Clarksburg police from Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jackson, 124 Kearsarge street, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh, told of a Charles Rogers suspected by the couple of being the man mentioned as a possible associate of Henry F. Powers, held here on charges of slaying two women and three children.

The Pittsburgh couple said the Rogers they had in mind formerly lived in Carrick, a part of Pittsburgh, and that he now was in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson said the man was supposed to marry a girl from McKeesport at Wheeling, W. Va., in May, 1927, and that he later was known to have been in Tampa, Fla., where a girl he married from Warren, Pa., died. The Warren girl, the latter said, had "lots of money."

While in Pittsburgh, the couple said Rogers was supposed to get $2,000 from a girl at a restaurant in Diamond street, Pittsburgh.

ARCTIC WRECK VICTIMS SAVED

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—After nearly a year in the Arctic awaiting transportation back to civilization, a shipwrecked crew of furs traders from Peterhead, Scotland, were landed at North Sydney by the Canadian government steamer Boethic, which had brought them down from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police post at Lake Arbor.

Their schooner, Watts, left Scotland last September to trade in Baffin Land. Capt. John Leonard died at sea and four days later the vessel was wrecked on a reef off the bleak coast of Baffin Land.

The other members of the crew got ashore and lived for a month in a shack that had been abandoned by the mounted police. All they could get to eat was meat of walrus they found frozen near the shack. All they saved from the wreck was a few cigarets.

The following February Eskimos found and took them to the police post at Lake Arbor.

Mother Boy's Rites Arranged by 'Phone

PARIS, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—S. Livingston Mather, Cleveland capitalist, today made arrangements by telephone for the funeral of his son, Samuel Livingston Mather, Jr., who was found dead at his Cleveland home.

Already in poor health, Mather suffered a severe shock when he learned of his son's death Thursday upon his arrival at Cherbourg from New York. He planned to go to Switzerland for a long rest at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Peleny, wife of one of the Hungarian government representatives at Geneva.

Buhl Funds to Aid Social Study

$30,700 GRANT FOR COURSES AT PITT

Director Emphasizes Need Of Thorough Education For Welfare Workers

To establish courses in field training for graduate students in social work, the Buhl Foundation today announced a grant of $30,700 payable over a period of three years to the University of Pittsburgh.

Intended to provide practical training for advanced students, rather than merely theoretical studies, the new program will round out the educational facilities of the city for social workers.

Commenting on the grant, Charles P. Lewis, director of the foundation, said:

"Increasingly, in recent years, the need for more adequate training of social workers has been recognized. The various case and group workers and executives of the manifold forms of social welfare enterprises require not only a broad educational background, but also the practice and theory of highly specialized techniques if they are to meet the challenges of their professional life. This need has been recognized by the American Association of Social Workers in its rigorous requirements for membership."

Plans are ready for immediate institution of the new courses at the university. At the termination of the period of the foundation's grant, it is the intention that the work be continued permanently by the university.

STATE POLICE HERE TO AID CANNING

Captain Mauk Confers With Committee Head Concerning Food Appeal

Capt. Jacob T. Mauk, head of state police in the Butler district, today conferred with Attorney Harry I. Miller, chairman of the Surplus for Needy Committee, regarding the possibility of state police carrying the appeal for food to the farmers.

Capt. Mauk's visit was at the request of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. He went over the plan in detail with Attorney Miller and will report his findings to the Governor.

FOOD STUFFS GATHERED

In the meantime, the gathering and canning of foods in Allegheny County was going steadily ahead. Two car loads of 48,100 cans each have arrived and are being trucked to the canning factory in Spring Garden avenue. A third car is on the way from the American Can Company's plant at Fairport, N. Y.

Large quantities of peaches have been received and are being put up under the direction of experienced canners. The responce from the rural districts to the plea for food has been heavy.

PLAN DISTRIBUTION

Attention of the committee is also being given to develop an efficient distributing organization. Every precaution will be taken to place the food only in the hands of those who are hungry and destitute, Mr. Miller said.

The materials for the cans have been donated by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, the McKeesport Sheet and Tube Company and the American Tin Plate Company, and the manufacturing is being done without charge by the American Can Company.

FRAUD CHARGED IN PROMOTION SCHEME

$50,000 of Washington Firms Issue Bought in This District, Officers Say

Bench warrants were issued yesterday by the Federal District Court for the arrest of six alleged officers of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, of Chicago, and Daniel J. O'Brien, president of the Mayflower Hotel Company, Washington, D. C., indicted by a special federal grand jury on a charge of using the mail in a scheme to defraud.

The other six defendants are William J. Moore, president; Charles B. Moore, vice president; Charles C. Moore, vice president; Harold A. Moore, treasurer; Kenneth W. Moore, secretary, and Hayden W. Ward, vice president, of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, all of whom reside in New York or Chicago.

BOND SET AT $10,000

Bond was set at $10,000 each by Judge Nelson McVicar. The allegations in the indictment concern alleged fraudulent and false representation by the defendants, in the name of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, in the promotion and sale of second mortgage bonds of the Mayflower Hotel Company, a sinking fund issue of $2,400,000, dated March 31, 1928. About $50,000 worth of the bonds were sold in Western Pennsylvania, government officers alleged.

MITCHELL CALLED PROBE

The special grand jury was called at the request of Attorney General William D. Mitchell. The probe was conducted by Attorney Forest A. Harness, special assistant to the attorney general, assisted by United States Attorney Louis E. Graham.

The defendants claimed, the indictment averred, that the second mortgage bonds were a good and safe income investment. Government officers claimed otherwise, by contending the Mayflower Hotel was a losing venture and unable to pay interest on the mortgage bonds, or on a first mortgage issue of $7,500,000.

ROBBER STRIKES GIRL, ESCAPES

Police today were looking for a man who struck Miss Mary Walsh, 23, in the face with a revolver and attempted to rob her at Fifth and Shady avenues last night. She is a domestic in the home of William H. Schoen, Jr., 6400 Wilkins avenue.

The girl was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital and taken to the Schoen home. Police said the man followed her several blocks along Shady avenue before accosting her. When he demanded money and was told she had none, he struck her with the revolver and ran. He was described as being well dressed.

Accused of Invading House by Window

Alleged to have entered the home of Marie Mohl, at 840 Ridge avenue early today, Frank Miller, 45, of 205 Anderson street, was being held for a hearing in North Side Police Court on a suspicious person charge.

Miller was alleged to have entered the house through a rear window. The owner, awakened by noises, telephoned police. Miller is said to have been drinking.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Sept. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Texas had just lost a war to Gov. Murray, so when Gov. Long said they had been influenced by the lobbyists why they called him a "liar" by resolution (thats like calling you a liar by mail). Nothing makes a man or a body of men as mad as the truth. If there is no truth in it they laugh it off. Now Texas is going to raise all the cotton she can—and be worse broke next Fall than this—just to spite Long because he had the only real cotton idea that had been suggested.

Yours, WILL.

WELFARE FUND DINNER TONIGHT

In the initial move toward a $5,500,000 fund for welfare and emergency relief and employment this winter, leaders of industry and business will gather tonight at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association at a dinner at which Frank R. Phillips will preside.

More than 70 men have been sent invitations by Phillips, whose committee will be formed immediately and will be charged with the responsibility for raising a considerable share of the fund.

The corporation is one of six or seven major divisions in the Welfare Fund's joint campaign set for November 9 to 23, of which Joseph Dilworth is general chairman.

GUN 'PAID' FARE, SAYS TAXI MAN

Thomas Hansberry, 30, of 2425 Penn avenue, was being held in Penn Avenue Police Station today, it was reported, for threatening a taxicab driver with a revolver when the driver demanded the fare at Penn avenue and Twenty-fifth street, early today.

Hansberry, according to police, engaged the cab of Isadore Altman, of 2120 Webster avenue, and after riding for more than one hour, refused to pay the fare. When Altman asked for it, Hansberry was alleged to have pointed the revolver at him and ordered him to drive away. Hansberry was arrested an hour later.

Accept Resignation From Dr. Wishart

The congregation of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church has accepted the resignation of the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor since he was ordained in 1891. Dr. Wishart tendered his resignation due to ill health. At the time he became pastor of the church the congregation numbered 40. Since then it has grown to 1,100.

Until a committee selects a new minister, the pulpit will be filled by the Rev. Dr. A. H. Baldinger.

Dr. West to Open 11th Convention Of Region 3

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will make the keynote address at the opening luncheon next Tuesday in the William Penn Hotel where the eleventh annual meeting of Region 3, Boy Scouts of America, will be held. Dr. West has just returned from Europe where he attended the biennial meeting of the International Scout Committee, and Pittsburgh is the first place he has visited since his return.

Hundreds of delegates from Western Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia will assemble here for this meeting.

Harmar J. Denny, Jr., president of the Allegheny County Council, will be toastmaster for opening luncheon.

The meeting will continue for two days and will include scouting officials and experts from the entire United States.

Waterproof Paper Aim of Research

Dr. Marion D. Coulter, a fellow at the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research, has begun research in an endeavor to discover some substance that will render paper boards used in cartons proof against moisture and grease.

In announcing the investigation, Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of the institute, said that if successful, the studies will effect important economies and improved efficiency in distribution, and stimulate package merchandising.

Squirrels Add Peril to Duels Down in Texas

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Texas Senate adopted a resolution calling Gov. Long, of Louisiana, a consummate liar.

Which is far worse than calling a southern gentleman a bad judge of liquor.

That's a fighting word down in Texas unless honor and chivalry have been affected by the general depression.

The usual parliamentary procedure is to insinuate that the esteemed contemporary is slightly mistaken. Then you smack him with a gavel and dodge the ink well.

But when you call a man a liar down there you want to be sure the back door is open.

The action of the Texas Senate calls for a duel under the old oak tree, which is a proceeding dangerous to life and limb. For, even if the aim is bad under the old oak the squirrels are nearsighted and hungry.

Adam E. Daum, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce paint and varnish council, has been recommended for a place on the national directorate for the 1932-1934 term.

Electricity Burns Light Company Man

Thomas Britton, 43, of 3 Thirty-fifth street, an employe of the Duquesne Light Company, was in Mercy Hospital with a seriously burned left arm as a result of coming into contact with a live wire while painting a pole at Fifth avenue and William Penn way early today. Doctors said he suffered three-degree burns. He was taken to the hospital by John Devine, with whom he was working.

2 MEN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Leo Bednarko, 35, of 1315 Sarah street, and Charles A. Hunziker, 40, of 1318 Reddour street, North Side, were killed last night when their automobile collided with a truck and then struck a culvert on the William Penn Highway a short distance from Burgettstown, Washington County, Pa.

The two men were returning from Steubenville in a small closed car at the time of the accident. Their bodies were taken to an undertaking establishment at Burgettstown and then brought to Pittsburgh. Doyle Burbin, of Steubenville, driver of the truck, was released pending the Coroner's inquest.

Bureau Opens Fight On Cash Bond Racket

Inauguration of a campaign against "cash bond racketeers" who demand bonds of prospective employes and leave town without providing positions, was announced by the Better Business Bureau, in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

G. H. Dennison, bureau manager, asked that all persons being requested to post bonds for positions communicate with the organization.

Catholic Women Name Delegates

Four Pittsburgh women will represent this city at the eleventh annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women in Washington October 4 to 7. They are Catherine A. O'Donnell, of 5216 Penn avenue, and Anne E. Felix, of 204 Tennyson avenue, representing the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women; Rachael Good, of 843 Beech avenue, representing the Diocesan Union of Sodalities, and Mrs. Olive Pauline Wright, of 118 Race street, Edgewood, representing Court Swissvale No. 990, Catholic Daughters of America.

Russian Women's Advance Told by Visitors Here

Russia is a place where women are policemen, and bricklayers, where young men shave every day regardless of the bearded Russian tradition; where there is no unemployment, and where only those who work may eat.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel M. Davidove, of Cleveland, just returned from a three-month tour of Russia, are visiting Mrs. Davidove's mother, Mrs. Louis Affelder, 5825 Bartlett street. Mr. Davidove is preparing lectures, magazine articles and notes for a book on Russia. He said:

"Women have come forward tremendously in literature and industry in Russia. Side by side with men, they run trains, cart and lay brick, repair locomotives, drive tractors, build roads and railways. They are section hands, policemen and army officers."

They feel the new freedom, he said, the new possibility of self-expression. Children are assertive and youth is self-confident. They feel they are bringing the message of the U. S. S. R. to the world, he said.

Industrialization and collectivization are the chief themes in both art and literature, which are being temporarily neglected for industry under the five-year plan, he said. Our American system of advertising has been utilized to the fullest extent, but not for manufactured products. Everything is government owned and there is no commercial competition. They advertise Communism to the 150,000,000 peasants outside of Moscow, Mr. Davidove said. Entertainment in Russia is instructive propaganda, at the expense of being amusing.

Dr. Davidove said:

"The educational program in Russia is closely allied with the industries. Besides the three R's, children receive intensive vocational training. Each school is connected with a factory where the pupils are taken to supplemnt their classroom instruction."

Dinner to Mark Opening Of New 'White Way'

Property owners and tenants along Fifth avenue, city officials and representatives of the Duquesne Light Company, will be guests at a dinner in the William Penn Hotel Monday night, given by the Fifth Avenue Association to signalize completion of a modern lighting system in Pittsburgh's "Little Broadway."

Edgar J. Kaufmann and B. Dangerfield, Jr., active in obtaining the new lights, will be in charge. After the dinner the members of the association and guests will witness the turning on of the lights for the first time.

Engineers attending the silver anniversary of the Illuminating Engineering Society at the William Penn Hotel October 13-16 have manifested interest in the new system and will make an inspection.

VISIT OF AKRON UNCERTAIN

No assurance has been given the Chamber of Commerce that the Akron, world's largest airship will visit Pittsburgh on its initial flight next Monday. Executive Manager Frank C. Harper said today.

Harper said James Francis Burke, who has been in communication with the United States Navy, has been informed the Akron's first trip will cover a very short distance and will be made largely for technical reasons. Just where it will go and in what direction, Burke has been advised depends largely on air pressure.

Harper said the chamber has not given up hope of having the big ship come this way, but does not care to hazard a guess as to what Commander C. E. Rosendahl of the vessel may do. The latter has indicated the cruising points will depend largely on atmospheric conditions.

Parochial School Heads to Meet

Teachers and principals of parochial schools of the Pittsburgh diocese will hold their annual fall meeting tomorrow at the Catholic High School, 4720 Fifth avenue. Bishop H. C. Boyle will address the meeting, which opens at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent, will preside.

MOVIES 'DROP' ORCHESTRAS

As a result of a walkout of union musicians last night, officials of the Penn and Stanley theaters said today orchestra music in their houses will be discontinued.

The walkout followed negotiations between the managers and the Pittsburgh Musical Society in which the managers demanded the right to reduce the number of musicians or employ the same number as in the past and reduce their salaries. The musical society refused to accept these terms and members were ordered out.

A statement signed by John H. Hatton, representing Warner Brothers, M. J. Cullen, Loew's Penn theater, and J. O. Hooley, the R. K. O.-Sheridan Square Theater, said they had not shut the door to further arbitration.

The Alvin and Nixon theater managements have a signed agreement with the union to provide musicians for those theaters pending completion of negotiations now under way. The strike will in no way affect the opening next week of the Alvin.

Six Chilean Naval Mutineers Doomed

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Six leaders of the recent naval mutiny were sentenced to death yesterday by a court martial and immediately a movement was inaugurated to obtain clemency for them.

The movement was started by relatives of the sailors who presented their pleas to Admiral Nieto, in command of the Valparaiso naval district. Women tearfully requested the court not to inflict the death sentence. When the sentence was pronounced they stormed the barracks.

2 YOUTHS ROB STORE MANAGER

Forcing the manager of an A. & P. store at 611 Lincoln avenue, East End, to lie on the floor, two armed youths escaped with $10 from the cash register today. The robbery occurred shortly after Manager F. B. McCormick had opened the store.

An armed man escaped with $35 today after holding up Joseph Morrison, 23, manager of a P. H. Butler store at 1109 Liverpool street. Morrison said the robber entered the store while he was alone and fled in a small car.

Married Man Faces $50,000 Balm Suit

Seeking $50,000 damages for alleged breach of promise to marry her, Mary Lysaght filed suit against Walter Krause in Common Pleas Court, and Judge Joseph M. Swearingen has issued a capias for Krause with bail fixed at $300.

The suit alleges the couple became acquainted 15 years ago, made trips together, and lived in the same house from 1921 to 1923. They became engaged November 24, 1930, and he left her April 28, later marrying Nora Scheriff, the suit charged.

Mother Nature's PRACTICAL JOKES!

Note the Ridiculous and Grotesque Nose of the Proboscis Monkey

SOME of the inconsistencies of Mother Nature seem impossible to explain. She often appears to be a rather heartless practical joker—and nobody knows why.

Look at the examples of several of Nature's incongruities pictured here. Don't these things which Nature permits seem quite insane?

Even man has not escaped. Many features of the human body are inexplicable. Do you know of these contradictions of Nature which puzzle scientists? Most of them are pointed out in an entrancingly interesting article appearing in next Sunday's American Weekly. Don't miss it!

35 ALIENS BEGIN DEPORTATION JOURNEY

Pittsburgh Immigration Officers Conduct Group; 10 Leaving Voluntarily

A deportation party of 35 aliens was placed aboard a train last night at the Pennsylvania Railroad station, to be delivered today to immigration authorities at Ellis Island, New York. Later they will be placed aboard steamships and returned to their native countries.

In the party were 10 men and women who are voluntary deportees under the "distress" feature of the immigration regulations. They had asked to be returned to their homelands because they are unable to make a living in this country. The others were ordered deported by the Department of Labor, because of having entered this country unlawfully or for other violations of the immigration law.

The latter were arrested in the Pittsburgh district, and conducted East by immigration inspectors operating under the direction of W. H. Marshall, director if immigration in the Pittsburgh district. The deportees will be sent to Italy, Spain, Mexico, Poland, Czechoslovakia, England and other countries.

4 MINERS DENY RIOT CHARGES

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—Trial of four Greene County miners charged with inciting a riot as result of strike disturbances at Walnut Hill on July 3, when Sheriff James White and state police were attacked by strikers, was started here.

The four defendants are Charles Demol, James Lako, Basin Alli and Joe Bonovich, alias "Radical Joe."

Commonwealth witnesses said the attack on the Sheriff and police climaxed growing indications of violence among the strikers and that in addition to pelting the officers with stones, the miners shouted at them. The defendants were identified by several witnesses as having been among those who engaged in the disorder.

The defendants denied that a riot existed at Walnut Hill on July 3, stating that the appearance of the miners there that day was for the purpose of peaceful picketing, and that no disorder resulted.

Maj. Ludendorff Dies, Relative of General

KASSEL, Germany, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Maj. Eugene Ludendorff, 63, brother of Gen. Erich Ludendorff, died here today. He was inspector of police.

GERMAN CREDIT PACT IN EFFECT

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The American Committee of Bankers which participated in drawing up the so-called "standstill agreement" on German credits today announced the agreement had been signed by all parties and had officially become effective.

The agreement was reached on the recommendation of the seven-power London conference last July, and effects about $1,200,000,000 in short term credits to Germany. Of this amount, about $600,000,000 is held by American banks.

American bankers commenting on the announcement said it marked the bringing to a satisfactory close of complicated and difficult negotiations, and meant the prolongation of credits granted to Germany by the several countries for the financing of Germany's world trade. The agreement was described as highly important to Germany's creditors, as well as to the German people.

12 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 1; whooping cough, 3; chicken pox, 2, and pneumonia, 4.

POMP TO MARK HOOVER TRIP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—President Hoover will go to Yorktown, Va., October 19, to take part in the one hundred fiftieth anniversary celebration of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis amid all the pomp surrounding the Chief Executive on ceremonious occasions.

He will arrive at the Yorktown landing early Monday, October 19, aboard the battleship Arkansas, which he expects to board at Annapolis the preceding Saturday. He will spend the week-end going over the speech which he will deliver at the celebration while the battleship cruises slowly down Chesapeake Bay, or in case of hot weather, puts out to sea off the Virginia capes.

After his speech he will return aboard the battleship to Annapolis that night, arriving Tuesday morning. From Annapolis he will come immediately to the White House.

Man's Body Found In Schenley Park

The body of an unidentified man was found in the brush on a bridle path near Martin's cabin in Schenley Park today. The discovery was made by Amaea Toma of 18 Bates street. Police say the man had been dead two weeks. The body was removed to the morgue.

Walker Wit Flashes Despite New Illness

ABOARD S. S. BREMEN, at Sea, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Troubled by a cold contracted at Southampton when the Bremen's tender was fog-bound for six hours, Mayor James J. Walker rested today on the deck of the liner that is taking him back to New York after an absence of six weeks.

Despite his illness, the Mayor officiated as auctioneer at the pool on the ship's daily run. He made light of his troubled throat and went through the routine with a patter of wit that kept the passengers rocking with laughter.

COUNTY HOME QUIZ PUSHED

The visiting committee named by Judge James H. Gray to investigate the books of the Allegheny County Poor Directors was to resume work today at the County Home at Woodville. All records of the board are being scanned.

It was estimated the probe may require several weeks. Members of the committee, Attorneys E. H. Wirks, G. M. McDonald and Paul E. Hutchinson, will report to Quarter Sessions Court.

LUTHERANS PICK NEW OFFICERS

BUFFALO, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The annual convention of the Eastern District, American Lutheran Church, held its closing session today and approved the officers elected last night.

The Rev. Dr. Walter E. Schuette, Sewickley, Pa., was continued in the presidency for three years. The four vice presidents elected to represent the four conferences in the district included the Rev. Leonard O. Berry, Carnegie, Pa., Ohio Valley Conference.

Other officers are the Rev. Edward M. Waxler, Pittsburgh, secretary, and the Rev. C. F. William Brecht, Chicora, Pa., treasurer.

Dinner Will Honor W. A. Irvin, Wife

William A. Irvin, who rose from messenger to vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, to which post he was recently appointed, and Mrs. Irvin will be honor guests at a testimonial dinner-dance tomorrow night in the Pittsburgh Field Club. WHITEMAN ADVANCES :-: Named Supervisor At Chicago NBC :-: FRENCH MELODIES

WE NOW PRESENT

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

PAUL WHITEMAN has been named supervisor of the National Broadcasting Company's [illegible] Darrell V. Martin have direct supervision of all music going out from NBC in Chicago and points west . . . he will assume his new duties on Monday, September 28 after returning from New York with his bride, the former Margaret Livingston . . . Leroy Shields who has been arranging many NBC concerts in Chicago has been appointed Whiteman's assistant.

Suggestions:

We suggest to our older readers tonight the solo, "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt" sung by Lillian Knowles contralto on KDKA at 9:30 . . . the crisp, spicy Gallic garnishments in Leo Reisman's special audition of new French tunes on WCAE at the same hour . . . the great ingenuity and technical brilliance apparent in Novacek's "Perpetuum Mobile," which Toscha Seidel, violinist, plays on WJAS at 10:45 . . . and beaucoup animation in the all-Saint Saens concert Howard Barlow has scheduled for WJAS at 10:45, including the snappy "French Military March" from his "Suite Algerienne" a favorite of Zoel Parenteau.

Question a Day:

How may I obtain tickets for

Answer—Tickets may be purchased now from radio dealers or at the Duquesne Garden door any night of the show, which opens Monday, September 28 and continues until Saturday midnight, October 3. If you are interested in bringing a caravan of fans from your district write to James A. Simpson, Director Radio-Electrical Show, Grant Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lou Abel's "Radio Rascals" have been signed for 37 weeks — September 28 to April 21, 1932 — in local theaters.

Studio Lights

The blacksmith, the general storekeeper and the town band are to play prominent parts in a special red network program originating in Jonesport, Me., at 6:30 tomorrow night, celebrating the homecoming of Phillips H. Lord who has gone a "Seth Parker" film in Hollywood . . .

Hannah Klein, who celebrates her fourth year as a member of Maj. Bowes' radio family on WCAE at 7:30 tonight, is the proud possessor of a gold medal awarded her in Carnegie Hall by Sergei Rachmaninoff, Harold Bauer and Ernest Hutcheson.

Norman Brokenshire, famous radio comedian and announcer, is a guest this week-end of WJAS executives . . . he will announce the 6:30 program tonight, featuring Rubinoff . . .

Russ Columbo, NBC baritone, has been signed for a commercial to be heard in the early evening hours on KDKA, starting Thursday, September 24.

Ludwig Hommel (he broke his ankle once swatting a ball in the rough) recently won the golf championship at the Greensburg Country Club . . .

One only realizes how far ahead we are in some radio stunts in Pittsburgh when he reads the pan-hoo emanating from New York now and then . . . the good pan-hoo today is about the Big Ben chimes from London to be a regular feature of the Radio World's Fair . . . let's see, was it a year or two years ago that we set our watches by Big Ben over KDKA?

Tonight at 11 is that big celebration for new WBZ studios over WJZ and certain stations in the blue network . . . WBZ on 990 kilocycles is only 10 kilocycles or a few points away from KDKA on your set . . .

B. A. Rolfe has never heard his orchestra over the radio . . . and on the air three years! But virtually every one of the 51 odd members has at one time or another been absent from at least one program and as a result has had an opportunity to listen in.

Nellie Revell, who does a weekly feature on celebrities over WEAF every Wednesday night at 11, boasts that she has exploited everything from a two-headed calf with a circus to a big-headed baritone with an opera company . . .

Milton Cross is to sing "Just for the Day," "Far Apart" and "Where Ere You Walk" on the Slumber Music program over KDKA Sunday night at 9:45.

Today's Tid Bit:

It's a coincidence that Wilfred Glenn, who sings "C" below low "C" also has deep sea fishing as his chief diversion.

LILLIAN SHADE

Starred with Olsen and Johnson in the "Theater of the Air" on WCAE at 10:30 tonight is winsome Lillian Shade, who appeared on the Pittsburgh stage not long ago.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—American jazz, we read, has been banned from the fascist state of Thuringia. A theme for a new George Barr McCutcheon, Jazz crooner visits Thuringia. Woos and wins royal princess, becomes emperor. What then? Makes American jazz the national music of the land.

Jazz continues its conquest of America. Even churches are finding room for saxophones . . . . We'll yet be hearing "Rock of Ages" in fox trot time . . . Wonder whatever became of those fiddlers who once sported red sashes . . . Now it is Seth Parker who finds a road tour helpful to his bank deposits. Sending radio stars upon the highways is the broadcasters' newest thumb-nosing at Broadway showmen . . . Spies say there is always a box office line for a radio star.

Microphone word-shooters pronounce Rialto as "Rye-alto." In these speakeasy days maybe that's the way to pronounce it . . . It will soon be time for the varied pronunciations of Notre Dame. Only the monotony of trying to make a mediocre tune sound like the work of a master keeps many people from becoming dance maestros . . .

Only two new waltzes that can be called tinkly have been heard in New York since Sigmund Romberg went Hollywood . . . "I'll See You Again" and Waltz in ¾ Time" . . . Strange, theres' not more spouting of Marc Antony's funeral oration by radio actors . . . Time consumed in saying "the world's playground" makes it expensive to operate radio stations in Atlantic City . . . Toscha Seidel is the most active concert violinist on the microphones . . . Entertainers under contract to Columbia are getting closer and closer to moving picture cameras.

BANANAS PRAISED :-: Dr. Copeland Recommends Fruit as Digestive Aid :-: LATEST RECIPES :-: Prudence Penny Gives Pleasing Menu Hints

Bananas Are Known to Be Highly Nutritious

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

Many letters have come to me requesting information about the banana. It is time to tell you something about this interesting fruit.

Until recently, bananas were looked upon as indigestible and were rarely given to children. We are more sensible now and better informed.

It had been definitely proved change in opinion. The banana that the fruit is highly nutritious is actually used for feeding invalids. It actually aids the digestion. The tannin, but for this purpose of banana as a certain elements course it must be properly prethat are responsible for gastric pared. health. We must get these facts. In certain diseases of infancy stances such as here particularly in undernourishment.

There has indeed been a marked and in severe diarrhea the banana has a place of real usefulness. There are some doctors indeed who look upon it as the only remedy. Their success in these particular cases has been remarkable.

Of course, if the banana is eaten quickly, actually boiled it will assuredly cause indigestion. In order to get the benefits of this fruit it is necessary that it be eaten slowly and thoroughly chewed.

Further, it is most important that a banana never be eaten unless it is ripe. Unripe bananas, as is the case with every unripe fruit or vegetable, may cause a severe stomach upset. For these reasons, be sure the banana is thoroughly ripe before you eat it.

The ripeness is best determined by noticing the color of its skin. The skin should be allowed to darken before the fruit is eaten. The banana with dark spots is the best.

This fruit contains important mineral salts, protein, fat and carbohydrates. In addition it contains those important substances known as vitamins.

Bananas, because of their natural covering are always perfectly clean. Regardless of what handling the product has undergone when it reaches the consumer, it is always clean and wholesome.

All in all the banana is one of the best of foods. It deserves to be used by every family.

SCANS CANADA RUM SYSTEM

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 18 (AP)—William Phillips, former United States minister to Canada, has arrived to study Canadian methods of liquor control and regulation, he said.

"The various Canadian systems, as adopted by the provinces, have been the subject of either praise or criticism by various American observers and it is with the object of gaining as much first hand information as possible about the systems in force in the Dominion and the conditions ensuing from these systems that I am making my present trip through Canada."

He said he was making the investigation for his personal satisfaction.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

STUFFED EGGS—Shell hard cooked eggs and cut in halves lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash well. Add to mashed yolks a small amount of soft butter, finely chopped mustard cucumber pickle sufficient of the mustard dressing from the pickle to moisten the egg yolks and salt to taste. Fill egg whites with prepared mixture. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

COLE SLAW—One-half small cabbage, shredded, ½ pimento, choped, 1 cup home-made style pickles, chopped, ½ to ¾ cup mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing.

Mix lightly together cabbage, pimento and pickles. Add enough mayonnaise to moisten the mixture. Serve cold.

CABBAGE SALAD UNIQUE—One-half small cabbage, shredded, 1 pimento, chopped, 1 cup home-made style pickles, chopped, ½ to ¾ cup mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing.

Mix lightly together cabbage, pimento and pickles. Add enough mayonnaise to moisten the mixture. Serve cold.

GRAHAM CRACKER PIE—Fourteen graham crackers, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup nuts, broken, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, beaten, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Roll crackers and add rest of ingredients. Pour into pie pan or glass dish. Bake 30 minutes in slow oven. Cool. Top with whipped cream and serve.

GRAPE JELLY ROLL—Three-quarters cup cake flour, sifted, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, unbeaten, ¾ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, grape jelly.

Sift flour once, measure. Combine baking powder, salt and eggs in bowl. Place over small bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually, until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl from over hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Pour into pan, 13 by 8½ inches, lined with greased paper. Bake in hot oven (400 Fahrenheit) 13 minutes. Turn from pan at once onto cloth covered with powdered sugar. Remove paper. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Spread with jelly and roll. Wrap in cloth until cool.

MINIKIN JELLY ROLLS—Three-quarter cup cake flour, sifted, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, ¾ cup sifted sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup red currant jelly.

Sift flour once and measure. Combine baking powder, salt and eggs in bowl. Place over smaller bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually, until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl of hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Pour into two pans, 15x10 inches, lined with greased paper, and bake in hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 10 minutes. Turn from pans at once onto cloth covered with confectioner's sugar. Remove paper. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake, cut each cake into six pieces of equal size, spread with jelly, and roll. Wrap in cloth and cool on rack. Before serving, decorate rolls with rosettes and borders of sweetened whipped cream formed through pastry tube. Makes 12 rolls.

FRUIT GELITIN SALAD—One package lemon flavored gelatin mixture, 1 cup boiling pineapple juice, ½ cup boiling water, ½ cup boiling peach juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup diced pineapple, ½ cup diced peaches, ½ cup diced pears, ½ cup red cherries.

Pour the boiling fruit juices and water over gelatin mixture. Cool. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Pour into shallow mold. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing. Boiling water can be substituted for the fruit juices, if desired.

SPANISH CREAM—Two pounds round steak, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, 2 cups tomatoes.

Sprinkle flour on steak. Heat fat in frying pan. Add and brown steak. Add rest of ingredients. Cover and cook slowly 1½ hours. If preferred steak can be browned on top of stove and then baked for 1½ hours in moderate oven.

STUFFED POTATOES—Six large baked potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Cut potatoes in halves. Remove and mash pulp. Mix rest of ingredients with pulp. Refill potato cases. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING—One and one-half cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1½ squares chocolate, melted, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup milk, 4 tablespoons fat, melted.

Mix ingredients. Beat 3 minutes. Pour into shallow pan lined with waxed paper. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Cut in squares and serve warm. Three tablespoons cocoa can be substituted for chocolate.

MACARONI WITH MEAT BALLS—One pound lean, raw beef finely chopped, ½ cup stale bread crumbs, 1 egg slightly beaten, 2-3 teaspoonful salt, ⅛ teaspoonful pepper, ½ pound cooked macaroni, Few grains nutmeg, 3 slices fat salt pork, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 1¾ tablespoonfuls sauce.

Combine meat, crumbs, egg, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Make into balls 1½ inches in diameter, mixing lightly. Cover and let stand one hour. Brown meat balls in pork fat. Melt butter, add flour and stir until well blended, then pour on the brown stock gradually, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling point, season with salt and pepper and add the cooked macaroni. Heat the macaroni through, then add the balls to the mixture,

STUFFED WHITEFISH—Wash and wipe fish, sprinkle inside and out with salt, pepper and lemon juice. For stuffing: Combine ½ cup cracker crumbs with ½ cup soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, a few drops of onion juice and ½ cup hot water. Sew up fish, place on buttered heavy paper on cooking sheet, brush the outside of the fish with cooking oil and bake 12 minutes in hot oven; reduce heat as it browns and bake 30 to 45 minutes according to the thickness of the fish. Allow 10 minutes per pound up to four pounds, then allow five minutes for each additional pound.

DEVILED CORN SCALLOP—Two 8-ounce cans corn, 1 2½-ounce can deviled ham, salt and pepper, 1 3 cup milk, ½ cup crumbs, 2 tablespoonsful butter.

Mix together corn and deviled ham, salt and pepper. Pour half into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with a few crumbs, add rest of mixture and pour in the milk. Cover with the rest of the crumbs to which the melted butter has been added. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serves four.

GEORGIA MEAT LOAF—Run ⅛ ounce can whole grain corn through a food chopper and add 1 pound ground beef, 1 cup crumbs and 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 2 teaspoons salt and a few grains pepper. Mix thoroughly. Add ¼ cup milk and 2 beaten eggs and pat into a greased loaf pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 45 minutes. Serves six to seven.

CHEESE CAKE—One-half package zwieback, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 eggs, 1 3 cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 packages cream cheese, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons flour. Roll the zwieback into fine crumbs and add to the butter and the 1 tablespoon sugar. Rub this mixture until thoroughly blended, place in the bottom of a spring form mold and press down firmly. Sift the 1 3 cup sugar with the flour and salt and work it thoroughly into the cream cheese. Add vanilla and egg yolks, slightly beaten, and then add milk and mix well. Fold in the beaten egg whites, pour the mixture on the crumbs and bake in a very moderate oven about 45 minutes or until the center is firm when touched with a finger.

CHICKEN ROULETTE—Make a biscuit dough by sifting together 2 cups sifted flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt, cut in 4 tablespoons butter, add a beaten egg and ⅔ cup of milk, and mix well, then roll out a quarter of an inch thick.

Mix contents of a large can of boned chicken cut small with ¾ cup of white sauce made from canned chicken soup; spread over the dough, then roll up like a jelly roll and place in a well-greased baking dish; brush over with a little milk and bake in a quick oven, 450 degrees, for 18 to 20 minutes. Serve on a hot platter with white sauce poured around.

CHICKEN CROUSTADE—This is an excellent dish for Sunday supper. Melt 3 tablespoons butter and simmer a small minced onion in it for about 5 minutes; add 3 tablespoons flour and stir until sauce is thick; put in ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and finally the contents of a large can of boney chicken, cut small.

CHICKEN MOUSSE—Soak 2 teaspoons gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold water 5 minutes; heat a cup of chicken soup and stir the gelatine in it to dissolve; add a small can of minced boned chicken, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons minced celery, a tablespoon minced olives, ½ teaspoon minced parsley and cool. Have the whites of 2 eggs stiffly beaten and separately beat a cup of whipped cream; add them to the chicken mixture, pour into buttered molds and chill in icebox.

PORK TENDERLOIN AND CABBAGE—A pork tenderloin usually weighs about ½ pound and makes one large or two small helpings. Sprinkle the required number of tenderloins with salt and bake for 30 minutes in a covered casserole in a moderate oven. Cut cabbage into small shreds and cook in rapidly boiling water for 20 minutes. Place the tenderloin above the cabbage on a platter garnished with small apples which have been boiled slowly in syrup for 15 minutes.

BARBECUE SAUCE—One pound butter, 1 quart water, ½ cup vinegar, 1 small onion, chopped, 1 clove garlic, minced, 1 tablespoon tobasco sauce, 1½ tablespoons salt, black pepper, 1 tablespoon worchestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons chili powder, ½ cup tomato catsup. Bring the ingredients quickly to the boiling point; then simmer for 30 minutes. Swab this sauce over roast about every 10 minutes.

STEWED TOMATOES—One quart canned tomatoes, 2 cups cut celery or cabbage, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons butter or other fat.

Simmer the tomatoes and the celery together for 20 minutes, or until the celery is tender. Season with salt and fat and serve. This is an excellent way to use stalks of celery that are undesirable for serving raw. Or, after the tomatoes have cooked alone for about 15 minutes, add finely shredded cabbage instead of the celery. Cook the tomatoes and cabbage together for from 5 to 10 minutes, add the seasoning and serve at once.

STEWED GREEN TOMATOES—Eight large green tomatoes, 1½ teaspoons salt, pinch of pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons bread crumbs, scraped onion for seasoning.

Scald the tomatoes and remove the skins. Cut into small pieces, boil until tender, season and thicken with bread crumbs which have been browned in the butter.

PICCALILLI—Two gallons green tomatoes, 2 or 3 green, sweet peppers, 2 hot peppers, 1 quart onions, 3 quarts vinegar, 4 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons mustard (seed or ground), 1 cup horseradish (grated).

Chop tomatoes or slice in ½-inch slices. Soak chopped tomatoes and chopped onions and peppers over night in one pint salt and enough water to cover. Drain thoroughly. Mix sugar, spices and vinegar. Heat vegetables in mixture until tender, not reaching boiling temperature. Note—Onions may be omitted.

CATSUP—Select red ripe tomatoes, wash and cut into pieces, rejecting discolored portions. To each 10 pounds of prepared tomatoes use as follows: 3 medium-sized onions, sliced; 2 large sweet red peppers, sliced and seed removed; 1 cup vinegar, ¾ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons ground paprika, ¾ teaspoon ground mustard, ¾ teaspoon celery seed, 3 teaspoons salt, ½ tablespoon whole allspice, ½ tablespoon whole cloves, 3 pieces stick cinnamon 2 inches long.

Cook the tomatoes, onions and peppers about 30 minutes, then press through a fine sieve. This pulp will be thin and watery, so cook again until somewhat thickened. Add the vinegar, sugar, paprika, mustard, celery seed and salt. Tie the spices in a cheesecloth bag and cook the mixture, stirring frequently until the right consistency. Fill sterilized bottles with the catsup, use new cork stoppers, and then dip the bottle tops into paraffin or sealing wax. Store in a dark, cool place. This quantity of tomatoes will yield from 1 to 2 quarts of catsup.

SCALLOPED EGGPLANT WITH TOMATOES—One large eggplant, 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, 1 green pepper, chopped; 1 small onion, chopped; 2 teaspoons salt, pepper, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 quart canned or chopped raw tomatoes.

Pare the eggplant and cut it into small, even pieces. Melt 2 tablespoons of the fat in a skillet, add the green pepper and onion, and cook for a few minutes. Add the tomatoes, eggplant, salt and pepper, cook for 10 minutes, and place the mixture in a shallow greased baking dish. Melt the remaining fat in a skillet, stir in the bread crumbs and sprinkle the crumbs over the eggplant. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes, or until the eggplant is tender and the crumbs are browned.

CHOCOLATE PARFAIT—One-quarter pound chocolate, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup hot water, 6 eggs, separated, 1 pint cream. Cook the water and sugar to a thin syrup, add chocolate, grated. Pour this gradually on the 6 beaten egg yolks, add the 6 whites, beaten stiff; cool, then add the cream whipped stiff. Pour into a mould, pack in ice and salt, or place in trays of a mechanical refrigerator. Let stand until mixture holds its shape. When ready to serve, line tall glasses with halved lady finger and fill with chocolate mixture. May be garnished with a dab of whipped cream and chopped nuts.

FUDGE CAKE, Part 1—One cup sugar, ½ cup milk, 4 ounces chocolate, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Part 2—One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 whole eggs, ½ cup milk, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Put the first three ingredients of Part 1 in a double boiler, cook until melted. Cool, add egg yolk and vanilla, then add to Part 2 which has been made as follows:

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs, one at a time, flour sifted with baking powder, and milk alternately. Mix well, and bake in two layers in moderate oven. Put together with a frosting made in the following manner:

One cup unsalted butter, yolk of 1 egg (beaten), 2½ cups con-

(Prices)

There'd be no need for A&P if you could deal direct with the farmer. For in the "good old days" what the housewife paid for food and what the farmer received for it were exactly equal. But as towns and cities grew, the farmer received less and you paid more—because of a clumsy, round-about system.

By cutting out many wastes, A&P is able to charge you less, and pay the farmer a larger share of the retail price. We bridge the gap between the farmer and you.

Caution Needed in Marriage Same as Business

If you were about to marry a divorced man or woman

Would you feel you had a right to ask "Why couldn't you get along with mate No. 1?"

Or would you feel that you must take love on trust and that the reason for the ex-one breaking was none of your business?

Dolly wants to ask. But she's not sure she should.

What's your answer?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Has a young girl of 20 who is about to marry a divorced man a right to ask him why he couldn't get along with his first wife?

"I am in a tight place and I don't know just what to do because although he has made me understand that he was to blame as much as she was he has never once said what it was that caused them to live apart for seven years before they separated.

"He seems to be a splendid young man and he won't say a word against anybody no matter how much he has been mistreated. So I don't know whether or not I should make him tell me what it was he objected to in his ex-wife."

WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

"Still it seems to me to more than right that I should know what it was all about so that if possible I can avoid anything that will cause our home to be broken up as his first one was.

"I figure that I should know it, if he objected to her because of the ideas she had or if he just didn't care for her as he says he cares for me or what.

"I surely don't know what I should do about it but I do know that I feel that unless I know just where I stand and what the trouble was I can't venture into such an important enterprise where even the smallest thing means so much.

"I hope you won't think this is just a silly young girl as the whole thing surely has me worried and I would like to know what to do about it. I will be awfully thankful to you if you will help me. DOLLY

You silly!

SHOULD KNOW

If the grocers down the street had a row and busted up, wouldn't you think it was a good idea to know what caused the rackets before you went into partnership with one of 'em? You'd think you needed to know for your own safety, wouldn't you? Sure you would. You wouldn't go into any business partnership blindly.

Then why not use the same amount of sense when you plan on going into the most important partnership any human can enter?

But marriage isn't like business partnership, you object. It's built on love and shouldn't be put on such a material basis.

True. It's built on love. But it will have to keep that love, too. It will have to use the same caution and intelligence that you use in any other kind of partnership. To do that you need to know your partner and yourself. You have to know how you'll be able to hit it off together, how to get along with each other if you do decide to team up.

So my dear, put it up to him. Tell him you're not doing it to be snoopy but because his happiness as well as your own depends on your knowing him, knowing what makes him happy or unhappy and how well you'll be able to work together.

Silence Best Expression of Trust, Inspires Confidence, Says Fay King

WHERE DID YOU GO? WHOM DID YOU SEE? WHAT DID THEY SAY?
IT DRIVES ME CRAZY THE WAY THEY CROSS-EXAMINE ME ABOUT EVERYTHING
I KNOW. THEY DON'T MEAN ANY HARM - JUST WANT TO SHOW THEY'RE INTERESTED
IT ISN'T THAT I DO ANYTHING I SHOULDN'T TELL ABOUT - BUT I RESENT BEING QUESTIONED
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Nothing starts more trouble than asking questions!

The fact that a person resents being questioned does not necessarily mean there are reasons for not answering or the wish to keep something back.

When one is worried, upset, uncertain, disappointed and in doubt about anything, to be questioned about it only irritates and the answer is apt to be curt and sharp.

This is only because the one questioned is not in a mood to go into the infinite details that would be a proper answer.

And because of this uneasy state of mind, questions take on an inference of undue curiosity, cross-examination, or even distrust and suspicion.

Silence is the best expression of trust and inspires confidence. It avoids quarrels, and brings answers in time.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Shocked by Mary's Startling Revelation

Mary, after has startled me with her keenness, but never more than at her response to my announcement that Harry and Lillian Underwood would not permit Marion to go to the Brintons' house party if Mary could not accompany her. With a knowing look she had said that she supposed the condition was made on general principles and on account of darling Uncle Charlie Owen.

What do you know of Mr. Owen? I asked a little breathless at the sudden emergence of this name so dreaded by us at the farmhouse.

Enough and plenty, and then some, Mary returned flippantly but with a serious tone supporting the lighter one. "Don't forget I'm the only person even approaching Marion's age in this house as yet, of course. Hank and Bill will be along tonight, but they're younger anyway and terribly hobbledehoy. She wouldn't be confiding in them."

Despite my anxiety as to what she meant by her reference to Mr. Owen, whose name was sinister portent to anyone of our family, I forgot it for the moment in fierce resentment at the patronizing elder-sister note in her voice as she spoke of her two brothers whom Dicky had gone to the city to fetch.

I don't think you'll find them hobbledehoy, Mary, I said severely when I could control my voice.

"What—oh, I beg pardon, of course not." Mary was stumbling over her words confusedly. I did not just mean that. I meant to emphasize the fact that I was really the one around here who knows most about what Marion is thinking."

There was no boastful in her voice, merely matter-of-fact conviction, and I forgot the defensive anger for the boys which had come to me. I suppose it is because both boys so appreciated the mothering I gave them Christmas and have written me such wonderful letters concerning their school that I have a warm place in my heart for them. I knew that even as if I were their real mother, I should count the hours until Dicky arrived with them.

But I had a more important subject than the boys before me just now. The feeling that I was about to learn something of deep concern to us was strong upon me, but I controlled my voice to casualness as I asked:

Is there anything you particularly know about Mr. Owen which you think we should share?

Yes, there is." Her eyes met mine squarely, but I saw a worried light in them. "Now, remember, Marion has told me nothing of this, so I'm not betraying any confidence, but from little things I've noticed, and little things I've overheard in conversations between Marion and Carolyn I know that old Uncle Charlie is giving Marion an awful lot of time."

I stared at her uncomprehendingly for a second or two, then as the horrid truth began to dawn on me I actually choked over the question I pumped up from my panic-stricken heart.

Mary, what do you mean? You cannot mean that that old man—

I stopped, unable to voice the interpretation I first had put upon her words.

"He isn't so terribly old," Mary said judicially. "Such things have happened. And by giving her a lot of time I mean what you used to mean by 'courting' 'wooing' paying a girl marked attention' the marry sort of thing, you know."

"Oh!" I sank back into my chair, too spent for the moment to rise or speak. Even to speak of the scoundrelly Charles Owen in the same breath as Lillian's winsome daughter seemed sacrilege.

Marion doesn't know, does she?" I asked when I could make my voice articulate.

She does and she doesn't," Mary answered. "She's terribly flattered at his attentions because he's such a polished thing, and the girls at Whitney Hall have all sorts of romantic stories floating around about him—I believe he's supposed to be a duke in disguise—all that sort of thing, you know. But she really doesn't understand what it's all about—Marion's an awful kid in a lot of ways, if she has graduated from preparatory school, and of course Owen's mighty careful not to come out into the open—he's most circumspect, does the devoted uncle act to perfection. But anybody with half a real eye can see what he's about. He means to marry Marion if he can get her, which, of course, he can!"

Has anyone else noticed this?" I asked, and received the surprise of my life in answer.

"Mr. Underwood has," Mary replied. "In fact, it was he who tipped me off to keep an eye out for the elegant Mr. Owens.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Growing Child Must Have the Building Foods

Every child, and, for that matter, every adult, must have certain foods every day if health is to be maintained. It is important that the mother should be informed regarding such foods in order that she may not go astray.

Dr. Copeland

Child feeding differs from adult feeding for a very obvious reason. The adult eats in order that he may have energy and enough of the repair foods to maintain the perfection of his body.

You see, it is quite a different matter when we come to the feeding of a child. He needs the energy-giving foods in quite the same quantities that the adult requires, because the ever-active child wears out more energy even than does the average adult.

In consequence of his activity, he wears down his muscular structure and must have repair material to restore it. But in addition to this the child is growing. He must have foods, not alone to restore what he destroys every day, but also to supply material for the growth of his body.

You can see, dear mother, child feeding is a pretty complicated thing. I would not have you become worried and distressed with the fear that you are not doing your duty by your offspring. My one thought is that you learn enough of scientific value to make sure that your baby is being fed just right.

From time to time I shall tell you more about child feeding. My last word today is an appeal to give the baby plenty of good water to drink. By the way, this is good advice for the adults. Most of us drink entirely too little water.

Because a baby, whether a nursing baby, a bottle-fed baby or a weaned baby is getting a lot of milk is no reason to neglect the giving of water. When you learn to regard milk not as a beverage but as a food, you will then realize that drinking water is just as necessary to the little child as it is to the grown-up.

Many a baby cries because it is thirsty. It is perfectly surprising how many times a crying baby can be made happy by giving it a spoonful of water.

I need not tell you that the water given to a little child must be water of known purity. The only safe way to guarantee this is to use boiled water which has been cooled.

Answers to Health Queries

Troubled: Q—What foods are rich in elements which go to make rich blood and increase the blood supply?

A—Fresh green vegetables, milk, eggs, beef juice, liver will all tend to bring about the desired results. These foods should be included with the other staple foods in the daily diet.

A. J. R. J. Q—What do you advise for constipation—the bowels move very irregularly, accompanied by pain in the back, etc.?

2—Would this condition account for the fact that I have a coated tongue and sour mouth as well as slight muscular pains throughout the body?

A—Proper attention to the diet as well as regular exercise should help to correct these symptoms.

2—Yes, these are all indicative of sluggish elimination. Clear up the constipation and you will notice improvement.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Highly energized women, those gals who are full of ginger and who are fun to know, nearly always have full, high chests, we've noticed. Being on their toes, interested in what is going on, they are good breathers. It's the lazy little lout who doesn't sweep fresh air into the lower lobes of her lungs. A good chest makes for a snappy shape, deep breathing puts shines in the soul windows, lays a film of coral pinkness on the complexion. More attention should be paid to the matter of keeping lungs washed free of stale air.

No sense in pouncing upon some innocent cosmetic-powder, cream or lotion—and drag it before the bar of justice because the complexion suddenly goes blotchy, flares up with red beacon lights or developes some other form of irritation. More likely the cause is to be found in a digestive upset, inactive intestinal tract or local infection for which cosmetics are in no way responsible. Commercial creams are all fairly safe. But there are complexions that have sudden complexes. All cosmetics are not suitable for all skins. One must experiment.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Let Father Do It

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There is a little dispute between my mother and father regarding an incident that occurred last summer and which has not yet been settled. In order to avoid it this year I am appealing to you for enlightenment.

Mother had been at a mountain resort for two weeks last summer and father had gone out for the second week-end to bring her home. When their luggage was brought to the car mother insisted upon giving the tip for the service extended during her stay. But father insisted that it was his place to pay all expenses, including tips and so forth.

Will you please tell me who is correct? S. S.

Your mother should be so proud of having such a gallant and thoughtful and masterful gentleman as her husband that she should make up her mind to have a fine time accepting this sort of courtesy. Although it was not exactly incorrect for her to offer to fee the porter, it would certainly be unwise of her not to glory in having a gallant and protecting beau as her husband. Tell her, for me, please not to make a motion to do her own tipping this year . . . let father do it!

A Visiting Guest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly advise me which is correct. A has a married daughter visiting her from a distant city. This daughter is a stranger to B although A and B are very good friends. Is it B's place to call upon A and her married daughter first, or should A bring her daughter to call upon B first? J. M.

It is B's place to call on A and her married daughter, since the daughter is the "visiting guest."

The Suggester Pays

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I consider it a duty to myself to read your column every day because it is so helpful and up to now you have answered most of my doubts though I haven't written to you before. Here is my problem:

Recently my girl friend had a birthday. Her boy friend came from out of town and called me up and suggested we get together for this girl's birthday. I suggested a party and called up her mother and made the suggestion. She told me the one who suggested the party was obliged to pay for it. I have never heard of it before and because I didn't want to seem cheap I didn't back out of it and hence paid my share of it.

I would be very thankful to you if you can tell me if it is correct for the one who suggests the party to pay for it. Of course the party is over now but I want to be prepared before I go suggesting parties again at my expense!

GRATEFUL

It is quite reasonable, my dear girl, that the one who suggests that a party be given nominates herself as the hostess, and as the hostess it is her privilege to pay for the entertainment that she suggested. So I am afraid that you must stop suggesting the giving of parties if you don't wish to be the hostess! I'll admit, that the mother might have said that if she could have afforded to give a party she herself would have given it and have diverted your enthusiasm in this more subtle manner, but really there was no reason for her giving a party when you suggested it.

The Cardiac Clinic

By DOROTHY ROE

Here's the rawdest blow of all
For the younger generation—
They're saying drinking isn't how—

Bring on your indignations!

Excuse it, please.

I seem to have made a terrific mistake in announcing recently that young people didn't drink so generally before the passing of the Eighteenth Amendment.

I still believe I'm right, but some other people believe I'm wrong, and I'm willing to be convinced.

I'm laboring under the impression that high school girls and boys hadn't adopted the gin bottle in the days before 1918—but maybe I'm wrong.

Maybe prohibition isn't to blame.

Maybe it's something else instead.

Here's a young lady from Chicago who doesn't mince her words:

"Dear Dorothy Roe:

"No, you are wrong.

"Prohibition is NOT the cause of drinking.

"Drinking has decreased in general and if prohibition were repealed drinking would be increased, especially as far as the average working man goes. I know personally of men who would go in a saloon if there was one on every corner. But they won't go out of their way for a speakeasy.

"It's the no-good type that cares enough for drink to do anything to get it that patronizes speakeasies—and this sort will do that always, whether or not we have prohibition.

"A favorite argument of anti-prohibitionists is that 'there is no drunkenness in Europe, where prohibition is not known.'

However the following appeared in a Chicago paper recently. 'Holland drys want local option, too many drunks.'

"Another article appeared in a Sunday newspaper about the 'moral laxity' and increased drunkenness of the young people in Ireland.'

"It is too bad that Europe has no excuse for its drunks, as has the good old United States. It is quite consoling, of course, when a drunk staggers down the street (very rarely nowadays, you know) that some intelligent person can mutter, 'Ah me, the curse of prohibition!'

"Am I right, or am I right?"

"Yours, J. C. P."

Far be it from me to decide whether you are right, J. C. P.

My own personal opinion is that you are wrong—but I'm no oracle.

However, if only the old soaks make up the clientele of speakeasies, how do you account for the presence there of young boys and girls who had barely given up their milk bottles at the dawn of prohibition?

That drinking is almost universal in modern debutante circles is an uncontested statement.

It's the drinking among the young people that convinces me that prohibition has something to do with it. In the old saloon days, drinking emporiums weren't as smart and sophisticated and beguiling as they are today. They didn't have speakeasies with silver floor cushions and little modernistic tables. They didn't go out after the debutante trade.

And the reason is—prohibition has made drinking fashionable.

Am I wrong? Write me, care of Universal Service, 63 Park Row, New York City.

The 'Good' Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Speaking about a new baby a woman made the remark: "He sleeps all night long. He's such a good baby."

Good to whom? The parents who want to sleep, of course. Incidentally, he's good to himself, through no fault of his—by sleeping at this time in his life when he's supposed to sleep. But I'm sure that wasn't what the woman had in mind when she said he was "good."

And the too bad part of it all is that we gauge, not only an infant's behavior, but all the behavior of a child by whether or not he is good to US.

The child who sits quietly and merely stares at company is called a "good" child. Usually there is something definitely wrong physically with a child who is content to merely sit when most children are busy exploring, asking questions, feeling precious vases and generally doing things which we adults mistakenly term "bad."

For we have come to use those words "good" and "bad" to merely indicate whether or not a child annoys us or does not annoy us. And that is a great pity.

A child may be good as gold, and still be yelling with such gusto that we can't compose our thoughts to finish the letter we've begun. Maybe he's dramatizing himself as an Indian, or maybe he's just letting off steam. But surely one can't call either activity "bad." Yet sometimes one does.

It is well, before you condemn a child as being "bad" to stop and consider whether it isn't just the fact that he is doing something you'd rather he wouldn't do which prompts that epithet.

And when a child disturbs no one don't always call him a "good" child. He may be a sick child, or a child whose mentality needs spurring on. And because your infant cries more than he should, he isn't necessarily a "bad" baby. Find out WHY he cries too much.

Personally I should be most awfully worried if I had a "good" child around the house, "good" in the sense that he never disturbed anyone with his perfectly healthy, normal activities.

Household Hints

Have you a plant of fresh mint growing in the back garden for mint sauce, iced tea, etc.?

Let the chemist help you with your housework. Chlorine compounds, carefully made, are easily and cheaply bought. For example, a tablespoonful of such a compound in each gallon of washing machine or tub water will whiten cottons and linens.

Scrambled eggs are a tasty, nourishing dish for the hurry-up meal and many people like them just as well for luncheon or light supper as well as for breakfast. They can be made into quite a distinctive dish by adding a few mushrooms that have, of course, been already cooked and diced in small pieces.

The old-fashioned test for mushrooms was to put a silver fork in the kettle with them, and if it turned dark the mushrooms were poisonous. This has proven a poor test, as even the pure mushrooms may turn silver dark. Instead test them by peeling. Only a real mushroom will peel readily from the edge to the center by merely pulling gently with a knife. The poisonous variety will not do this. The real ones have a decidedly mushroom odor.

SLENDERIZE with SALADS

BEST FOODS has made millions Slender-Wise. It has done this by making the salad-meal a daily treat. You, too, may share this secret of slender-loveliness: A Salad-a-Day . . . made doubly alluring with BEST FOODS Mayonnaise. Once you taste BEST FOODS, only BEST FOODS will do. And BEST FOODS is such an easy name to remember, when you order Mayonnaise.

Today's Suggestion

On a bed of small lettuce leaves, radiate sections of honeydew, watermelon and orange from a center mound of cream cheese mixed with Best Foods Mayonnaise. Place watermelon balls in center of cream cheese. Cut all melon sections about the same size as the orange. Cut honey dew melon ahead of time and squeeze lemon juice over it and allow to stand in ice box. Pass the Crystal Jar for additional helping of Best Foods Mayonnaise.

PRUDENCE PENNY :-: Appetizers to Suit Tastes of All

confectioners' sugar, 1 ounce grated chocolate (melted over hot water), 1 teaspoon vanilla, coffee extract to taste.

Wash salted butter in cold water, remove all water and beat to a cream. Add beaten yolk and gradually the sugar, melted chocolate, and the flavorings.

MAPLE APPLES — One cup maple syrup, 1½ cups water, 6 tart apples, peeled, pared and cored.

Heat syrup and water to boiling and add apples. Simmer apples gently, turning frequently to insure even cooking. When soft, remove apples from saucepan. Cook liquid until thickened and pour over apples. Serve with cream. Sufficient for six.

MAPLE BUTTER FOR WAFFLES—One cup maple syrup, ¾ cup butter, melted.

Cook syrup until a small amount forms a soft ball in cold water. Add butter and beat with rotary eggbeater until thick and creamy. Serve warm. Also delicious on gingerbread. Makes 1½ cups maple butter.

CORN FRITTERS — One cup canned corn, ¾ cup flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains paprika, 1 egg.

Chop corn, drain, add dry ingredients mixed and sifted. Add egg yolk, beaten until thick. Fold in egg white, beaten until stiff. Drop by spoonfuls and fry in deep fat. Drain on paper.

MACEDOINE OF VEGETABLES—One and one-half cups fresh green peas, 1½ cups finely diced carrots, 1 cup finely cut celery, 1 cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, dash of pepper.

Simmer the vegetables in the boiling salted water for 15 minutes or until tender. Add the butter and pepper and serve at once.

POT-AU-FEU — Large soup bone with meat (6 pounds), 3 quarts cold water, 5 carrots—scraped and cut in half, 4 turnips—pared and cut in half, 4 leeks (white portion), 1 bay leaf, 8 or 10 sprigs parsley, tied together, 1 medium sized onion, 3 cloves, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, pepper, small rounds of crisp toast.

Cover the well-washed soup bone with water, allowing 1 pint of cold water to each pound of soup bone. Heat slowly to boiling and remove the scum. Add 1 cup of cold water, again slowly bring to the boiling point, and remove the scum. Add the vegetables and the seasonings and simmer for four or five hours. When the meat is tender, remove and cut the meat from the bone. Discard the parsley, drain the vegetables and serve around the meat. Allow the soup to boil rapidly. Take up the soup from center of the boiling mass, and serve over small rounds of crisp toast.

BAKED PORK CHOPS—Six rib chops, 1 cup fine bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, ⅛ teaspoon celery seed.

Cook the onion, celery and parsley in butter for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir until well mixed. Cut a pocket in each chop. Sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper and rub lightly with flour. Sear the chops in a heavy hot skillet, browning the fat edges first. Fill each chop with the dressing and skewer the edges together with toothpicks. Lay the stuffed chops on a rack in a covered pan. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes or until the chops are tender. Remove toothpicks and serve at once.

PORK CHOPS WITH SPINACH—Purchase 6 shoulder pork chops. Dredge with flour and season with salt and pepper. Sear both sides; reduce the heat and cook 30 minutes. Put a layer of hot cooked spinach in a casserole, and arrange the chops on top. Have ready 1½ cups thin white sauce and just as you remove it from the fire, add 2 beaten egg yolks to it. Pour sauce over chops and spinach and sprinkle liberally with grated cheese. Place in a hot oven or under broiler flame to melt and slightly brown the cheese.

CARROTS AND PEAS—One can peas, 1 teaspoonful salt, ⅛ teaspoonful mace, 2 cupfuls cooked, diced carrots, ⅛ teaspoonful pepper, 2 tablespoonfuls butter.

Drain and rinse the peas and mix the carrots, which have been diced the size of peas. Add the salt, pepper, mace and butter. Serve very hot. Serve 6.

CAULIFLOWER DUCHESSE—One head cauliflower, 3 tablespoonfuls vinegar, 2 tablespoonfuls chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, ¼ tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoonfuls chopped pimiento.

Cook the cauliflower until tender, drain and leave whole or separate into flowerets, as preferred. Pour over a sauce made by melting the butter, and adding to it the vinegar, salt, pepper and pimiento. Serves four.

CORN AU GRATIN—One cupful canned corn, ½ green pepper, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, fat or oil, ⅛ teaspoonful paprika, 1 tablespoonful minced onion, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 cupful steamed rice, ½ cupful grated cheese, 2 egg yolks.

Drain the corn and chop it fine. Add to this the egg yolks well beaten. Saute the green pepper, minced fine, and the minced onion in the fat, and add to the above mixture with the salt and paprika. Fold the rice into the corn mixture very lightly with a fork. Turn into a greased casserole, sprinkling half the grated cheese on the mixture as a center layer, and the remaining cheese on top. Bake at 500 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Serves four.

BEEF TENDERLOIN AND OYSTERS—One beef tenderloin, 1 pint oysters, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons salt, pepper, ½ cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons parsley, minced. Brown the beef tenderloin well under the broiler flame. Season with salt and pepper. Wash and drain oysters and heat over direct flame for just a little. Spread the oysters over the top of the tenderloin which has been placed in a roasting pan. Make a sauce of the butter, lemon juice, parsley and boiling water. Put in a moderate over (375° F.) and bake for from 30 to 45 minutes.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

The "Scandals" Sirens

The newest shipment of George White hopes were affectionately embraced upon their return to the Broadway Scene last Monday when the new "Scandals" (musical) was deposited in the Apollo Theater.

Meet the girls.

Joanna Allen, a "Dresden-doll" blonde from Manhattan, is sun-burned all year around. From October to April she acquires her tan from the sun lamps and she likes a Chicago lawyer.

Gay Hill, Miami, Fla., is only 20. Her big toe on her left foot always hurts before a storm. Cap of snow. She is a blonde who gives her private phone number to Men Who Amount to Something.

Baltimore contributes Dorothy Keene, 18, a brunette. Her boast is that she is a one-man woman. His name is Andy. She has a tremendous appetite for all dishes except the kind served in restaurants.

Betty Allen, 17, comes from San Diego. She is the wisecracker of the troupe. The only dress she owns is a sarong. She is a blonde who seeks the one-woman man type, which probably is one of her flaws.

Hazel Nelson, 18, a redhead from Brooklyn, has eyes to match an umbrella. Her roommate says she has a dimple on her left cheek. Probably the most perfect dimple in the world.

Beth Eddy, 18, of New York City, has pleasing prospective chorine-ish ways, but fails to register. She is a take-in. Scarcely sung by Vallee after Mr. Sing. Beth's entire repertoire consists of the backers-on-oh-Kate with "St. Louis Serenade." When Beth first hears the latter she yelps: "Say, isn't that stuff from something?"

Jacqueline Feeley, brunette, 20, from N. Y. Likes St. Patrick's Day, despite beliefs to the contrary. Loves to start a battle and finish it. She devours a pack of gum hourly.

Brooklyn also gave Florence Johnson, 18, a redhead, chilly chorus girl in the world ever to skip a show with the pneumonia. It was in Atlantic City and she threw pearls among the audience into spasms.

Gloria Pierre, 18, is a N. Y. product. Proud of the dental profession. Poses for toothpaste ads. Has a yen for prize fighters, according to some of the Scandals-mongerers, but she insists of a big steel man from Pittsburgh. She insists steel is how you spell it.

Youngstown, O., is responsible for Gloria Moorman, 17, a blonde. Her first show. Papa a doctor. Accomplished dancer. Has studied with mastery and is in the chorus for experience.

Johnstown, Pa., is noted for two things. The flood and Cornelia Rogers, 18, a brunette. Her cheeks are rosier than two apples and no rouge either. But she whistles incessantly. His first name is Ross.

Pearl Bradley, 20, black hair, is from Philly. Always dreaming. As quiet as Philadelphia. But she sends home money.

Adele Baker, 18, has golden-brown hair. Typical New Yorker with a Southern accent. Wants to be a nurse. Poor for riding horses. Talks in her sleep but not out of turn. Likes horses, but prefers men.

Mr. White's favorite redhead is Mae Slatery, 21, of N. Y. Said to be the wealthiest showgirl on the stage.

From Germany comes Margaret Haller, 18, hoofer. Fascinating accent. Speaks 3 languages: Swedish, German, Russian and 50% English. Imitates people five minutes after meeting them.

Joan English, 18, redhead, is from Pittsburgh. Likes scallops and ice cream, but both hate her.

Ethel Lawrence, 21, blonde. From Aberdeen, Scotland. Most amiable girl in the show. Likes everything but Shurfine eggs. Has a wooden leg for storing beer or gin.

Hilda Knight, 20, redhead, is from Hudson, Mass. And do her toe-nails get red! She paints them with rouge, you dope. Forever combing booking agents out of her hair.

Patricia Haywood, 18, is a brunette from Brooklyn. Intelligent, quiet. Likes books by Russians. And probably without their books.

Lou Erkhart, 20, blonde. From Long Island. Likes old shoes—the better to kick you around, m-dear.

From Dallas we have Gay Deals, 19, blonde. Her so-called friends say she changes her name with her hair. The cats.

Hazel Boffinger, 19, is a blonde. Will walk a mile for a chicken sandwich. Temperamental about her photographs. Renee Johnson, 21, a blonde, has been in three White shows. From Minneapolis. The only real golden blonde in the troupe. Mysterious and quiet—the lone wolf of the outfit, but beautiful. Mary Carr, Hollywood's gift to New York, is a rare specimen. Type of person who insists, to the press agents, that pictures of principals instead of her be used, because they bring money to the box office. She is 18 and has golden-brown tresses. Favorite color is Brown. Inez DuPlessis, 21, blonde, also from Hollywood. Married to a drummer. Likes married life, but hates to cook. Patsy Clark, 18, a blonde from Chattanooga, Tenn., is a darling girl. Likes to drink ginger ale in a speakeasy. Shines in her sleep, but says she's only humming the hit songs from "Scandals." Alice Faye, 17, blonde from here, wants to be an Ethel Merman. Dorothy Daly, 17, reddish blonde, N. Y., has a passion for chocolate floats. Drinks five a day and keeps her shapely figure yet. Marion Thompson, from Beacon, N. Y., has black bushy hair like a cannibal. Won't tell her age. Mildred Green, 18, Long Island brunette, is an accomplished pianist, but they're not using them this season. Myra Gerald, 18, blonde, is from Brooklyn. Studious, always reading. Minds her business, there being no other kind to mind. Peggy Moseley, 21, brunette, is from Virginia. White calls her the most perfect show girl. She's happily married, however. And then there's Peggy Ring, who is 19 and from Boston. Lucky girl. Peggy says that she likes to sleep and read philosophy. Probably means Read philosophy and sleep.

Alvin, Nixon To Open

Managers George M. Young of the Alvin and Harry Brown of the Nixon state that the walkout of musicians in the Penn and Stanley theaters does not affect plans for the opening of their theaters. Sally Eilers Wins Feminine Lead Opposite Former Guild Player

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18.

The big break has been a long time coming for Sally Eilers, but "Bad Girl" seems to have opened the way.

Fox will give her the lead in "The Devil's Lottery," and is looking for a story to follow up "Bad Girl." James Dunn, of course, will be her teammate when they find one.

In some respects "Devil's Lottery" is like "Grand Hotel" and hoax now plans to do a burlesque the recent film "Transatlantic." It follows the fortunes of a number of important characters all of whom are gathered together at the start of the action. The association does not continue however, as in the Vicki Baum play and the William K. Howard picture.

Sally Eilers

Alexander Kirkland, recent importation from the Theater Guild, will have the masculine lead in "The Devil's Lottery."

Incidentally, Sally Eilers is a blonde these days. I caught a glimpse of her among the 500 people at that famous Gleason anniversary party. Husband Hoot Gibson was along.

Ernst Lubitsch has dieted off 30 pounds. Bess Meredyth and Mitchell Cuttu are furnishing their new home. They are importing antiques from Europe and will have the living room rug woven in China. Yacht-over the week-end were Joseph M. Schenck, Jack Gilbert, Edmund Goulding, George Fitzmaurice and Buster Keaton. Fitz spent three hours catching a 160-pound swordfish. Saw Lily Damita and a six-foot companion in the M. G. M. commissary. Ken Harlan's place in Reno is called The Jade Room. It has a three-piece Hawaiian orchestra and a girl who dances. Victor McLaglen is buying an airplane. And Mrs. Frank Bezzage made her first solo flight on Tuesday. Ann Harding, Tay Garnett and everybody connected with Ann's new picture have cabled Leslie Howard in London, asking him to return to play the masculine lead. Jaynia Ralston is ill with flu. Lou Sarecky, radio official, is leaving for Mexico City to get the scripts of "Marcheta" and "The Dove." They don't want a repetition of the ban that Mexico placed on Norma Talmadge's silent version of the Willard Mack stage play.

Chaplin to Make Talkie, But Keep Silent

LONDON, Sept. 18. Charlie Chaplin's next picture will be a full talking picture, but Charlie will remain silent, confining his acting to pantomime, the noted screen comedian informed International News Service today in an exclusive interview.

Chaplin also revealed that he had found several new leading ladies, but declined to reveal their identities for the present, saying that some were bound to be disappointed when the final selection is made.

"My holiday is over. I am returning to work now, and will spend the next few months working on a new film," Chaplin said.

"Three Little Girls" — and three" is a charm, as the saying is, will open the Alvin next Monday. Not with ummies and burglarious intent, but with music, for "Three Little Girls" is an operetta that will be our first legitimate theatrical event of the new season. Josephine Huston, Clifford Newdahl and Greta Alpeter are included among its numerous population. For the daylight clientele there will be afternoon shows Wednesday and Saturday.

Small Timer, making his entrance as the dancing ensemble exits, remarks that modern stepping runs more in the direction of north and south than east and west.

Guinan the Tex will tour the ballrooms of the country with a company of 45 girls, who depart from New York, with the blessing of Broadway, on the morrow. The famed night-clubber who made the "big-hand" plea famous, will be transported here and there, as well as hither and yon, by autobile bus, the first stop being Bridgeport, Conn., where Mr. Barnum used to live, if that means anything to Tex. It is said an escort of 50 cars will conduct La Guinan to the city limits. Maybe there weren't so many cars, but the same thing happened to our heroine in France.

Small Timer says that maybe Europe is attempting to hate us into trying to make up with her by forgetting that anything is owing in the way of money.

George Arliss will act for the screen next in "A Successful Calamity," which will be made in Hollywood. Mr. Arliss has been abroad during the summer, but is expected to return to the United States in two weeks and proceed directly to the capital of Movieland.

Small Timer says that "bread-and-butter" speeches may be food for thought, even for the man who made them, in these days of political repression.

Our Bad Girl Is Good in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

A girl, tired of flirting, pawing men . . . A boy that is different. . . . A chance meeting on a Coney Island steamer . . . Awakening romance . . . Comes the dawn . . . Crude love stumbling into parenthood.

Of such ingredients is fashioned "Bad Girl," film based on Vina Delmar's story and stage play, which opened yesterday in the Fulton. Hollywood may have made better pictures, but it never made a more human one.

James Dunn and Sally Eilers head the cast. Neither are so well known to movie fans, Mr. Dunn least of all; but don't let this keep you from the picture. Both are glorious, with Mr. Dunn having an edge on the glory she as the girl surprised into love when she meets a boy who doesn't want to flirt and he as the roughshod yet likeable Romeo.

BORZAGE'S KEEN HAND

However, and in spite of an impressive scene Mr. Dunn has with a maternity doctor, the grandest individual acting bit in the film is done by a lady, name unknown to us, who telephones the news of her mother's death over a tenement house phone. It only lasts a few minutes, but memory of it will last as long as the picture itself is remembered.

We don't go in very much for bragging about the directors. We take it for granted that they should know something and show something without being lauded about like Heaven's greatest gift to drama. But in the case of Frank Borzage it is different. It is his keen directorial touches that make this film what it is.

NOT WITHOUT LAUGHTER

He has slapped "Bad Girl" into a drama which, by virtue of its great humanness, arouses you like the midnight whimper of a baby in your own household; moves you like the smell of funeral flowers in a neighbor's parlor; inspires you like the feel of a childish hand clasping your own. And withal Mr. Borzage never forgets for an instant that life is not without its laughter.

If it is good to be human, "Bad Girl" is a good picture. If it is great to be human, it is a great picture.

One of Three

Germany Blames Crime on Drugs

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Narcotic peddlers, hard pressed by the tightening of restrictions on manufacturers and distributors, are blamed by police for a wave of robberies in which only narcotics were stolen. Doctors' offices and hospitals particularly have been singled out but the amounts secured have been insufficient to supply with the demand.

Washington Man Injured in Crash

RADIO ARTIST FINED IN ROW

James Doyle, 21, of 407 Baldwin street, a radio guitar player, was fined $15 or 15 days in jail today by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court after he testified that he had quarreled with his sweetheart, Thelma Snyder, 20, of 674 Glass Run road, Carrick, and threatened to kill himself. Doyle was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Ann Bechtol, of 407 Baldwin street, with whom Doyle resides, who said Doyle had chased the girl into the yard with a knife. The girl corroborated Doyle's testimony and added he had carried her into the yard after laying the knife down.

TOWN ELECTED G. A. R. HEAD

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Gen. Samuel P. Town, of Philadelphia, new commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, today had realized a lifelong ambition.

The 85-year-old veteran has been active in G. A. R. affairs since 1873. His election and the selection of Springfield, Ill., for the 1932 encampment yesterday were major events at the closing sessions of the veterans' sixty-fifth national encampment here.

Resolutions were adopted by the 1,800 veterans asking Congress to grant all veterans over 80 years $100 monthly; to pension veterans' widows married five years, and to authorize a United States Navy built up to the London naval treaty limit. New York was criticized in a resolution for its failure to complete construction of Grant's Tomb.

Bankrupt's Assets Include $3 Watch

Listing a watch valued at $3 and $20 in clothing as assets, A. R. Watson, proprietor of a service station at Enon Valley, Lawrence County, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court. He listed liabilities of $525.

Ralph J. Evans, West View carpenter, listed liabilities of $10,379 and assets of $500 in filing a voluntary bankruptcy petition.

Sticks Out Tongue At Judge, Gets Double Term

Billy Bird, 22, of 269 Lombard street, who says she hails from Georgia, stuck her tongue out at Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today as she passed the magistrate after he had fined her $25 or 30 days in the workhouse on a charge of being a suspicious person. Calling her back, Magistrate Jones doubled her fine and jail sentence.

The girl had been arrested at the Lombard street address in company of two Negroes.

Man Kills Three Alleged Kidnapers

ATLANTA, Tex., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Three men were shot to death and a fourth was wounded seriously near here last night by J. H. Boyd, 50-year-old Louisiana gasoline station operator, who said they had lured him from his station and kidnaped him.

Officers identified the dead men as Hardy Luce, 45; Bill Fish, 38. Boyd's stepson and Early Sullivan, 28. Physicians said they did not expect Bill Sullivan, brother of Early Sullivan and brother-in-law of Fish, to live.

LIGHTNING KILLS MAN, STUNS 50

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, Sept. 18.—(AP)—One person was killed, five were injured seriously and 45 were stunned when lightning struck a tent in which a fish fry was being held last night at Brown's Chapel, four miles southeast of Clarksburg in Ross County.

Willard Ater, 50, caretaker of the chapel, was killed. Alexander Mace was paralyzed by the bolt and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson were badly burned. Colt Carter was blinded by the flash but it was believed the blindness will be only temporary. Others in the party were knocked to the ground but not badly hurt.

The lightning struck a wire which led into the tent.

Maine Man Heads Attorneys General

Rescuer Meets Man Saved 23 Years Ago

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Twenty-three years ago Deputy Coroner Archie C. Cracraft was rescued from drowning by a stranger at Michigan City, Ind.

Yesterday Coroner Herman Bundesen hired a new night clerk, and left instructions for Cracraft to give him his preliminary coaching. One of the first questions Cracraft asked the new man was his name. He said it was Walter J. Kreuger.

Cracraft said:

"A fellow named Kreuger saved my life down at Michigan City 23 years ago. I've often wondered what become of him."

Kreuger replied:

"I'm the man who did that. It took us a long time to get together again."

Man Held, Attempt To Kill 6 Charged

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Sept. 18.—Charged with an attempt on the lives of his wife and five children, Robert C. Hagner, New Sheffield, was held without bond for court by Justice M. J. Kane. Mrs. Hagner, who made the charge, alleged her husband opened gas valves in the bath room and basement of their home.

CAPITAL DENIES CENSORSHIP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(Universal)—White House correspondents today were still puzzled to account for the latest move from the executive offices to "co-operate" with them in their writings.

The four press associations yesterday were handed a highly confidential memorandum which was interpreted as implying a censorship on all news emanating from the executive offices.

Later in the day a subsequent confidential memorandum was read to the writers making an unqualified denial of any intention to supervise anything written by the correspondents and that the intention was to co-operate with them.

This marked the third time that the implication of a censorship on news in the Hoover regime had caused widespread resentment among the writers. Recently the White House attempted to close all sources of information to the reporters following a series of so-called new "leaks."

O'NEIL IS SILENT ON RUM ISSUE

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Interest in the attitude of the 1931 national convention of the American Legion regarding proposals for the repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment grew following the arrival in Detroit of National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil of Topeka, Kan.

Commander O'Neil was met at the Union Station by a reception committee headed by Harold H. Emmons. Newspapermen immediately asked the commander his attitude on the prohibition question. O'Neil said:

"What my attitude will be I can't say at present. If the matter is brought up it will be my duty to make a ruling and it wouldn't be good taste for me to say in advance what that ruling will be."

The attitude of the various state delegations on the issue is expected to be determined at a series of pre-convention caucuses here during the week-end.

BOXING DATES CLOG LOCAL CALENDAR

As a result of the postponement of last night's boxing show at Hickey Park Millvale and the conflict of indoor and outdoor [illegible] promises the Pitts- [illegible] d still show fans the prospect of [illegible] pportunity to [illegible] sessional [illegible] shows within [illegible] nights.

Harker Boa- [illegible] sk of Elyria, Ohio, and Mandy Mac- [illegible] of Boston are pa- [illegible] ed for the 10-round [illegible] the Millvale [illegible] be put on tonight weather permitting, despite the fact that it will have to buck a counter attraction in the Dukes-Cleroux fistic game at Forbes Field.

On Monday night the Metro Bowl North Braddock stages its final outdoor show with Tiger Joe West local middleweight, and Paul Pirrone of Cleveland, in the 10-round windup.

McGIRR CHANGES NIGHT

Next Wednesday night Jim McGirr veteran McKeesport promoter will reopen his Palisades roller rink for bouts with Tiger Joe Randall of Elizabeth mixing with Marty Simmons of McKeesport in the windup. Thursday is his regular night but he will use Wednesdays until Hickey Park decides to call it a season and the Millvale club is expected to continue to run outdoors as long as the weather is sufficiently mild. A match now is in the making for Thursday night of next week there between Mose Balch of Oakland and Jackie Wood, promising Negro bantamweight of the East End who has been fighting rapidly ahead in recent months.

On Friday night of next week Appies Meyers, through at the Bowl proper, pulls out his first show of the indoor season at the old stand in the Moose Temple, Downtown, and on the same night Monday Million Dollar Garden reopens its doors following the usual summer shutdown of boxing. Tony Herrera of Chicago and Joey Goodman of Cleveland will appear in the main bout.

Six shows within 10 days. Well! And in these times, when even fight managers of the order of Joe Glaser of Chicago, who was a visitor here yesterday, have forgotten the meaning of the word "grand."

MARTIN OUTWEIGHED

The card will stand intact for tonight's postponed show at Hickey Park. The boxers weighed in yesterday as follows and will not have to scale again today:

Andy Martin, 128½ pounds, and Frankie Bozarski, 132, for 10-round main bout. Eddie Hebner of Clairton, 156, and Benny McArthur of McKeesport, 156, for eight-round semi-final. Sammy Burns of the Hill, 129, and Steve Senich of Homestead, 129½, for the second bout and Johnny Hoffman, of Scranton, 159½, and Silver Montini of Aliquippa, 158, for the opener, scheduled for 8:45 o'clock. A heavy downpour washed out the show last night.

This will be Jim McGirr's seventeenth season at the Palisades, making him the dean of local promoters although he's still quite a young man. He became a partner of the late John Davenport in the same spot in 1914, and between them they have run their string of boxing promotion through more than a quarter of a century. Davenport who died six years ago staged bouts in the old Orpheum Theater and the Ninth Avenue Rink before moving into the Palisades a season or two before he was joined by McGirr.

SIMMONS' RECORD

Simmons is no stranger hereabouts. He has beaten Joe Walcott, drawn with Tom Maloney and lost a decision to Harry Roberts when the latter was going well in bouts in these parts. Around Saginaw, Mich., he is home he has boxed men of the caliber of Mel Tipton, Billy Sherman, Billy Shaw, Chuck Manilla, Jack December and Butch Otto. He is only 19 years old.

Between Rounds

A change will have to be made in the preliminary card at the Bon Air Casino in Canonsburg on the evening of October 2, Chuck Randall at McKeesport, Matt Wesolowski, Jimmie Barry, to be selected, and Johnny Kilbane, who was scheduled for last Wednesday and was refereed by Mike Gibbons, are now refereeing a match between Walter Mrozowski of Bagdad and Joe McKeesport ring star.

The tip is out that Tex Landon is to be the world heavyweight wrestling champion Sunday for 10 days at the Philco Park in Philadelphia, tonight and then take a long rest. Followers of Tex say he will return to Pittsburgh to defend his title, so what we say, see.

The Linwood A. C. will stage a show of eight amateur bouts in the Tuxedo eighth Signal Corps armory, East End, one week from tonight. Johnny Risko will box Edward Jackson in the windup.

Roger Bernard knocked Frank Saunders and Frank Battaglia down Bill Wright in 10-round bouts in St. Paul tonight. Tiger Barbara broke Karl Mundt's shoulder and Johnny Tapia and Tommy Rowe were paired in Philadelphia. HARRY KEck.

GRID ELEVENS CARD GAMES

By TOM BIRKS

With the Independent Conference opening its season a week from Sunday, a number of managers have carded stiff games for Sunday so the coaches can get a good line on the material against tough opposition.

At West View the Mingo Indians of Mingo Junction, O., will clash with Murrin's team at Olympia Park, McKeesport. The Olympias will tangle with the Ellwood City club. East Pittsburgh Firemen will have the Armstrong Bulldogs of the South Side at the Quarry Field.

This line of games will give fans following the Independent loop quite an afternoon's sport, as all the teams situated up against the Conference clubs are augmenting with quite a few

FLESH TO PLAY

Paul Martin is trying to get Mose Kelsh at fullback against the Indians. The all-star Conference fullback needs a workout and Art Rooney gave his consent for the veteran to appear with Martin's club in this game.

Whitey Dummer has been working hard with the Red and Black line and a big crowd likely will watch a free-for-all game. Bill Boyer and Sonny Reed will send the Tube City sluggers against another good club that has been trying to get recognition in this district. Ellwood City is out to beat the McKeesporters and beating the Black and White is a tough job for any outfit.

Manager McFlashan of East Pittsburgh certainly wanted to give the followers of the Firemen a real game when he booked that hard-fighting gang from the South Side.

PRACTICE CARDED

However, Coach Paull wants to see just what he has in the line of material and the Bulldogs will point out the playing qualities of the Firemen.

The other members of the Conference will undertake scrimmage practice. Andy Cutler will stage a scrimmage practice for East Liverpool and Bill Priest, former Geneva fullback, will be in the game. Purl Daily, manager of the Potters, is trying to negotiate with the high school officials to install his lighting system on the high school field, and if the deal goes through the Conference schedule will be night games.

If this does not materialize Sunday games at Newell will be played. East Liverpool had a tentative game with Washington on Sunday, but this fell through.

M.-A. SERIES IS RESUMED

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 18 (AP).—The second game of the Middle Atlantic League championship play-off between Cumberland and Charleston was postponed last night because of rain. The contest will be run off tonight, weather permitting, and the next three games will be played at Charleston on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

If a sixth game is necessary it will be staged here and if it takes seven to bring a decision a flip of a coin will be made to select the site.

Houston Squares Dixie Series, 3-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 18 (AP).—Dick McCabe, right-hander, borrowed from Fort Worth, pitched the Houston Buffaloes to a 3-to-0 victory over the Birmingham Barons to square the Dixie series at one-all here yesterday.

Six Teams Form Lightweight League

Division 1 of the Pittsburgh Lightweight Conference was completed last night with six teams in the fold. They are: Rox Rangers, Glendale Tigers, Pleasant Valley Smilers, Christy Park, Armstrong Bulldogs and Etna Sycamores.

The opening games a week from Sunday find the Rox Rangers at Glendale and Pleasant Valley at Christy Park. October 1 finds the Armstrong Bulldogs at Etna Sycamores.

M'GRATHS AT RANGERS

The Rox Rangers again invade the roosting of Tony Checa, will open their season Sunday against the J. J. McGraths in Mc Kees Rocks.

Another Pitt Standout. | Harris' Tough Defeat.
Susce Going to Tigers. | Big Year for Gehrig.

HELLER LOOMS AS FINE BALL CARRIER

THERE IS A possibility that Pitt may have another of those outstanding ball carriers this year to run from a halfback post, the position from which such stars as Tom Davies, Jakie Bohrer, Gibby Welch, Toby Uansa and others have started on long touchdown dashes. On account of the brilliant manner in which Warren Heller is shaping up at that berth in the Panther lineup during the practice sessions at Camp Hamilton, an unusually good season is being predicted for him by close observers and form students.

Warren Heller

This Steelton youth, who last year surprised everyone by winning a regular starting position on the varsity after failing to make the freshman team the season before, has been doing everything that a good halfback should do, and doing it well. His passing, in particular, has improved a lot, and right now he is doing a better job of throwing forwards than any other back on the outfit which Coach Sutherland is drilling as Pitt's first team.

AT RUNNING WITH the ball Heller is starting just where he left off last fall, when he was a big factor in the victory over Penn State. Possessing a knack of throwing his hips to avoid or shake off tacklers, he is fast afoot to come when the occasion demands.

Only in kicking has Heller's work left much to be desired. However, with Bobby Hogan at quarterback Heller will hardly be called upon to do any booting. Hogan, by the way, is showing consistent improvement in his kicking. He has been gradually bettering the length of his punts and also the placing of them.

WHEN THE DUKES open Pittsburgh's football season tonight against Geneva at Forbes Field, Joe Bach, assistant coach on the Bluff, will be among those watching the result of his preliminary labors in his third year of rebuilding the Duke line.

Bach has made the forward walls at Duquesne harder to crack than ever before in the history of the school. The Dukes like Joe are hoping that the 1931 line will be no exception.

THERE IS NO doubt that a strong defense will be needed against Coach Howard Harpster's Geneva gridders. Bach today was fairly confident that his new line would stand the gaff. And Joe is an authority on lines. In his own playing days he was rated one of the best forwards in the country by the late Knute Rockne, under whom he starred at tackle for Notre Dame in the time of Elmer Layden and the other members of the famous Four Horsemen combination.

George Susce

GEORGE SUSCE, Oakland trader and former diamond and grid star at Schenley High School, is back home for the off-season in baseball after a batting year as catcher for the Springfield, Ill., club of the Three-I League.

Susce returned to Pittsburgh with a dislocated right thumb, the husky receiver having suffered that injury last Saturday night at Quincy, Ill., in the fourth game of the pennant play-off between Springfield and Quincy, first-half and second-half winners, respectively, of the split-season in the B circuit.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS, Susce has been sold to Detroit by Beaumont in the Texas League as a result of his fine showing, batting at .88 games he batted .312 and was regarded as the leading receiver of the Three-I League, being chosen for the catching post on an all-star club selected by the eight managers of the loop. Included among the Oaklanders hits were nine home runs.

An agent of the Detroit club conferred with George when the latter was going at his best. About that time it was announced that Susce had been sold to Beaumont, and as that club has affiliations with Detroit it is believed he is slated to go to the Tigers.

AT ONE STAGE of the season Susce was fined $100 following a run-in with Manager Bill Wambsganss, former Cleveland star, but the money was refunded before George left for home. He thinks Wambsy will eventually become a big league pilot. Susce had to leave his club before the league title was decided. He is being treated here for his injury. Another district catcher who worked in the Three-I League and returned home just ahead of Susce is Johnny O'Connell. He served under the hat for Chic Fraser, the old Pirate scout who managed the Peoria club. O'Connell, a native of Verona, still belongs to Baltimore, of the International League. He caught for Atlanta in the Southern Association before being optioned to Peoria.

BILL HARRIS probably thought his old Fort Worth jinx had camped on his trail again when he suffered his first defeat as a Pirate yesterday after holding the Braves to a single run. In three full games Harris has allowed only two runs and 15 hits. That he failed to hang up three straight victories with that kind of pitching indicates that Bill still has his card of membership in the Hard Luck Club.

No matter how good the pitching on their own side happens to be, the Bucs are rarely able to beat Tom Zachary. Since he came into the National League last season the veteran left-hander has trimmed the Rovers seven times in nine meetings. In his last six games against the Pirates, Zachary has given them a total of only seven runs.

WHETHER MARVIN HART, who died at his home near Louisville, yesterday at the age of 55 ever had a valid claim to the world heavyweight championship is a question that will always remain in dispute, but there is no doubt that Hart deserved to be ranked with the best and busiest big fighters of his time.

From 1899 to 1909 he dodged none of them. He won a decision over Jack Johnson in 20 rounds in 1905 and he fought practically all the other topliners—Choynski, Maher, Gardner, Ruhlin, O'Brien, Creedon, Root, Carter, West, Ryan, Bonner, Willie Hanrahan and many more. One of his last fights was with Tony Ross, of New Castle, from whom he won on a foul in 13 rounds at New Orleans in 1909.

Lou Gehrig

WHILE EARL WEBB, of the Red Sox, was making his sixty-fifth two-bagger of the season yesterday to break the major league record of 64 in a year, set by George Burns, of Cleveland, in 1926, Lou Gehrig pulled up to within one tallys of the American League record for runs knocked in during a campaign. The Yankees first-sacker himself set that mark at 175 in 1927. He now has 174 to his credit, and with 10 games yet to play he is not only practically certain to hang up new figures for his league, but may have a chance to beat the record for all majors, set at 190 last season by Hack Wilson. Gehrig is having the biggest year of his career, all around. He made his 200th hit of the season yesterday, along with Lloyd Waner and Bill Terry; he is within three of his best home-run record of 47, made in 1927, he leads both leagues in homers with 44 to Babe Ruth's 42, and he ranks fourth in the majors in stolen bases with 17. Incidentally he is keeping up his record for consecutive play, having taken part in 1,032 straight games to date without a break.

DUKES OPEN GRID SEASON

ENS MAY USE BRAME AND OSBORN TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Barring new postponements, the last doubleheader of the Forbes Field season is on for this afternoon, the bargain attraction to feature the Pirates and Braves. Ervin Brame and Bob Osborn may be Manager Ens' choices for slab duty, although there is a chance that Jewel will get one of his left-handers into action. Skipper Bill McKechnie, of the Tribe, has Eddie Brandt and Bill Sherdel, two southpaws, ready for slab duty. The first game will be started at 1:45.

Only six more contests remain on the slate for the Oakland Orchard. The Braves will say their season's farewell tomorrow with a single game. Sunday will see the Pirates resting, but on Monday they will be all set to repel the last rush of Burt Shotton's Quakers, who have not been doing much rushing, by the way. As a rule the Phillies fold up when they get out of their notorious bandbox park.

Eight games are on the Pitts-

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THOMAS J. LENNON—THE BELOVED JUDGE OF CALIFORNIA—Justice Lennon, of the Supreme Court, of California, popularly known as "The Beloved Judge," was so highly esteemed by his fellow citizens of the Golden State that on August 31, 1926, they gave him 263,818 votes for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court out of a total of 737,654, despite the fact that his death on August 14 of the same year was announced in headlines throughout the state. He had a majority in eight counties. It is indeed singular that the affection of a commonwealth for one of its lost leaders and friends should be shown by such a tremendous "complimentary" vote at the polls. NEW YORK TO LOS ANGELES ON $11.22 WORTH OF FUEL—In August, 1931, a Cummins-Diesel test truck made a trip from New York to Los Angeles, a total distance of 3,214 miles, with a total load of 16,000 pounds, and used only $11.22 worth of fuel, at the same time setting a new record for a coast-to-coast truck trip of 97 hours 20 minutes. The truck was equipped with a duplicate of the engine used in the 500-mile race in Indianapolis.

Pop!

That's the lid going off the college football season of 1931 so far as the Pittsburgh district is concerned. It will pop with a loud pop at Forbes Field tonight, when Duquesne University, of Pittsburgh, and Geneva College, of Beaver Falls, swing into action against each other.

Howard Harpster

It will not be merely a case of the rival elevens clashing. A duel of coaches also is on tap, with Elmer Layden, of the Dukes, and Howard Harpster, of Geneva, on their mettle against each other once more.

Last year, Harpster's first season at Geneva, he rallied his team from a crushing early-season defeat by Bucknell to beat the Dukes, 7-0. This year, the former all-America quarterback at Carnegie Tech is anxious to repeat, but he has his misgivings. As for Layden, former member of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, he wants to square accounts with Harpster and has hustled his squad into prime condition for the fray. Layden is beginning his fifth season as coach of the Dukes—doesn't the time fly! and he wants to try to get back to the state of affairs in the relations with Geneva that existed prior to the advent of Harpster there. It will be recalled that in 1929 the

NEALE OPTIMISTIC OVER W. VA. PROSPECTS

MOUNTAINEERS HAVE VETERAN ELEVEN

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent

Coach Neale

The colorful and peppery Greasy admits he'll have a pretty fair team, an unusual act on the part of a coach. He is in a tough spot, for there is an element among the Mountaineer alumni ready to suggest not a few mentors they'd rather see as the big boss here than Greasy, and if the West Virginia record for this fall isn't a distinct improvement over that of last year, the wolves will break loose.

Like Rockne, Neale is a firm believer in the game and one of its most ardent supporters. Rockne was one of the few coaches who talked back to the Carnegie Foundation report and Greasy is willing and ready to take his place. He's working day and night to perfect a big league eleven able to battle through the rugged schedule Harry Adam Stansbury has arranged. Results to date indicate that he and West Virginia are due for no small portion of success.

MUCH SEASONED TALENT

Coach Neale inherited from his predecessor, Ira Rodgers, who has been retained in the capacity of assistant coach, a veteran squad, and from Trusty Tallman, the freshmen mentor, some promising sophomores. In fact, there are some lettermen who'll have difficulty in staying in there; some regulars of past seasons who'll spend a lot of time riding the spinners.

Greasy the Great is fortunate in having 14 lettermen, 13 of them holdovers from last year, and one big Larry Beall, back from the 1929 team. He has a set of veteran guards in Leland Brown and Ike Lewis (although one of the two may not make a starting job), one of the best end prospects in the East in Wilbur Sortet, a fine line plunger in Leo Dotson, and a smart and alert leader in Capt. Johnny Doyle.

On the other hand Neale is not just certain about his center job, the leading candidate, Floyd Schwartzwalder, being dangerously light and there is some question as to whether Bill Karr, a junior, will be able to handle the other terminal job.

Sortet and Karr are the first rank wings, Sortet being certain of his place. Johnny Sowers, a sophomore, Bon Hamilton, a letterman in 1929, Charley Zirbs, a reserve tackle and end with one year of varsity experience, and Ross McCracken and Earl Sprouse complete the end roster.

PAIR OF BIG TACKLES

Fred Schweitzer and Beall are outstanding among the tackles. Beall goes 230 pounds, Schweitzer 205. Paul Martin, Frank Louth and Loyall Mackey, also lettermen, along with Louie Ferraro, Malcolm Arnold, Warren Bodkin and Frank Bilotti, guarantee A-1 reserve strength.

Ike Lewis and Sophomore Chuck Anderson appear slated for the guard jobs. Anderson is rated by Neale as a future great. He played a tackle on last year's frosh eleven, but has been shifted to a guard this fall. He has weight and speed, and best of all, football sense. Other guards are Mazzie, Fitzer, Copeman, Gwynne and Forte, all having had some varsity experience, save Mazzie and Forte.

Carl White, a reserve center for two years; Gene Wright, a sophomore, and Dick Mentzer, a holdover from last year, are pressing Schwartzwalder for the snapper-back position. If Schwartzwalder can stand the gaff (he only goes 157 pounds) he'll get the call because he's steady and dependable and a deadly tackler.

Francis (Tarzan) Glenn and Eddie Bartug were the only men lost from last year's backfield, but the new coach has done some tricks with the ones remaining. He's using Bill Parriott, a speedboy, at quarterback, with Doyle at one half and either Jake Sebulsky or Tom Canich at the other. Dotson has an edge on all others for the fullbacking post which he is capable of filling very nicely.

Canich isn't very big, going

JACKIE FIELDS BEATEN BY YOUNG TERRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Jackie Fields of Los Angeles has run into a serious setback at the start of his projected campaign to add the middleweight championship to the welterweight title he once held, and Young Terry, the husky youngster from Trenton, N. J., is one step nearer title contendership in the same class.

Facing Terry in his first bout since he broke a hand last January, Fields took an artistic walloping for seven rounds at Madison Square Garden last night, and only a late rally kept him from being completely overwhelmed. Scaling 150 pounds, Fields was outweighed 3½ pounds.

Another Trenton battler, Paulie Walker, showed about as much promise in the semi-final as Terry did in the main bout. It took Walker just one real wallop to dispose of Vincent Hambright, Cincinnati welterweight.

Dear Sirs,
"At the request of Mr. F. J. Niles, we have been individually working for some time in the preparation of a complete wardrobe of Bespoke Boots and Shoes.
The final selection of each model was based on the collective advice of our best dressed clients living from Cambridge to Singapore.
Few men in the world possess an complete an outfit of hand made footwear and we doubt if any single collection is as authentic in every detail.
Individually, we are proud of the selection made from each of us - collectively we take pleasure in sending these splendid examples of English and Scottish craftsmanship to America - and with perfumable pride we name this wardrobe "Fit for a King".
Yours faithfully,

Actual photograph of section of Regal Store Window Showing Originals and Regal Reproductions of a complete line of Shoes for Street, Dress and Sport, Designed by the Master Bootmakers of the World, which they describe (see letter) as a Shoe Wardrobe "Fit for a King."

No Shoe Manufacturer or Retailer in America or elsewhere ever attempted to produce a line of shoes of this Quality with this complete range of Expensive and Exclusive Styles to sell at TWICE our one price $6.60.

When you see a Hunting Boot 16 inches high for $6.60 made of Genuine Weather Grain Leather with Viscolized full double Oak Soles and steel slugged solid leather heels, it makes everybody sit up and take notice and wonder how it can be done.

But it is more difficult to see the difference in Quality in a Smart Street Oxford. That is why this year so many are apt to be fooled by a Price Ticket on a dolled-up window shoe.

We thought the easiest way for you to make a comparison and the best way for us to prove unusual Value in a Stylish Town Shoe was to buy the best shoe made by the King's own bootmaker and put the Regal Reproduction right beside the original in our windows, and let you decide.

These famous Custom Bootmakers buy only the finest leathers, regardless of price. And this year we have not only reproduced their Lasts, Patterns and every Style Detail of their hand-made Custom models, but we have used the same expensive Upper Leathers purchased from the same tanners.

In the Regal Reproductions we are using Bordeaux Grain, the finest Calfskin in the World, made of Paris City skins, never before used except in the highest priced shoes; Genuine Willow Calf tanned in Frankfort, Germany, in the new Burgundy shade; Holland Grain tanned in Oisterwyck, Holland; Martin's of Glasgow Scotch Grain, Heather Grain and the expensive celebrated Moor Calf, never before used in a shoe at this price.

These exclusive Styles and these expensive Leathers will startle and stop every shoe man who passes our window and we know these unusual values at $6.60 will interest every man who wears shoes.

SHOCK TROOPS TO START

The Dukes will start off their shock troops as per usual, and with their first team with nailbiting Ben Barrett [illegible] ready to play his [illegible] and with Bud DeVinney at [illegible]back. Tramontin and Chacko at the halves and Pawuta at fullback. Abbe and Murphy will be at the ends, Jim O'Donnell and Sinko at the tackles and Capt. Mike Ferrare and Nick DeCarbo at the guards.

Capt. Slim Ransom, the center, will lead the Beaver Falls aggregation on the field and the visitors will have other stalwarts in Grahame, the star quarterback and kicker and passer, and Auffman, at left end. Rose will be at the other end, Cooper and McKee at the tackles and Stauffer and Howell at the guards with Robbins and Sauer at the halves and Pietsch, former Scott, Hills High School star, at fullback.

Probably the largest crowd that ever came from the Beaver Valley to see a Geneva team play away from home will be on hand to cheer for the Harpster stars. Most of them will come in a special train. The college band will be on hand to help enliven the proceedings.

QUICK CHANGE OF SCENERY

A quick change of scenery will be necessary to transform the field from a baseball site to a football gridiron. The Pirates play the other doubleheader with the Braves there this afternoon and not until they are through will the field be marked off and the goal posts put in place. White glass sand, a new preparation, will be used for this purpose. As the improvement in the floodlighting system [illegible] the point.

St. Vincent College ushers in its season at Latrobe tomorrow with a game against Davis and Elkins of Elkins, W. Va., and the only other game involving district college teams this week will be between Slippery Rock and Lock Haven Teachers colleges at Slippery Rock also tomorrow afternoon.

Says Nick Altrock

Baseball's Comedian

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Back in March I looked into a crystal ball and announced to admirers our Washington club would win the 1871 pennant. I just discovered I looked into a wash bowl instead. No mistake. So I still maintain my reputation as a prophet. Instead of a total loss I said we would snatch the flag because I figured the As might go into a slump and lose two games in a row. How was I to know they were depression-proof and couldn't even lose a game on a five-point margin?

Our club and the Yanks simply started the season with the traffic lights against us and we're still waiting for the green lights.

Nick Altrock

Stocks Tumble — Local Prices Recede

STOCK MARKET FALLS BACK ABRUPTLY

Sag in Shares One of Most Sweeping in Recent Weeks; Bear Movement Lows Made

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP).—Wall street quickly lapsed back into its habitual state of despondence today, as the late upturn in share prices yesterday proved merely an other gesture.

Stocks fell back abruptly, bonds were swept by the same weakness, [illegible]. In foreign exchanges [illegible] leading [illegible] were weak. [illegible] ported [illegible] the Canadian dollar slumped to an extreme discount of 17¼ cents, the lowest in [illegible] years.

The decline in shares was one of the most sweeping of recent weeks, although selling was [illegible] only moderate volume. Price averages dipped to new lows for the two-year bear movement, [illegible] off about 2 to 8 points. Issues [illegible] American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, B. McKesport, Auto Production, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas, Eastman, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and a host others. General Motors, off only a fraction, but General Electric sold down nearly 2.

The reports of last night's conference of representatives of the Bank of England with Prime Minister MacDonald, together with the [illegible] of foreign securities markets were bearish influences in the market. Bankers with Montreal connections said the British situation may have something to do with the pressure against the Canadian dollar, but explained that the fact it had no important bearing on Canadian finances. Low grain prices have been Canada's chief burden.

Domestic trade reports still failed to produce any improvement. Reports from the Youngstown Sheet making area however say that the new business in [illegible] manufacturing is overshadowing sluggishness in other lines and providing considerable satisfaction. The weekly mercantile reviews pointed to the recent heat spell as a deterrent to fall distribution of autumn merchandise, but indicated that wholesale trade was about holding its own.

The fresh unsettlement in petroleum prices appears to be promoting more drastic action in Texas, reports indicating that further curtailment of output from the East Texas field may soon be ordered.

Storm Envelopes Home City When Comrades Arrive

CHAPTER VIII

During the night our carriage has its first casualties. The train passed into a low tunnel and some of the chaps on the roof were crushed and swept clean off. Though the others had seen it, they had no means up there of stopping the train. The man in the lavatory window too feel asleep and dropped out.

Other carriages also suffered similar casualties. So now the roofs are rigged up with wood grips and ropes, and bayonets rammed into the woodwork. And sentries are posted to give warning of danger.

We sleep and sleep, standing, lying, sitting, squatting in every possible attitude on packs and on bundles we sleep. The train rattles on. Houses, trees, gardens, people waving. Processions, red flags, guards posted on the railway shouting, cries, special editions, revolution. But we will sleep first, the rest can wait until later. Now for the first time one begins to feel how tired one has become in all these years.

Evening again. There is one miserable lamp burning. The train moves slowly and stops often because of engine trouble.

Our packs joggle. Pipes are glowing, the dog is asleep on my knees. Adolf Bethke leans across to me and strokes the dog's head. "Well, Ernst," he says after a while, "we're going to separate at last."

ADOLPH LEAVES

I nod. It is strange, but I can hardly picture life now without Adolf, without his watchful eye and his quiet voice. It was he that educated Albert and me when we first came out to the front as raw recruits, but for him I doubt if I should still be here.

"We must meet sometimes, Adolf," I say. "We must meet often."

Outside the evening draws on. Woods lie along the skyline like black rows, fields show faintly in the dim light that shines from the carriage windows. It now wants but two hours to home. Bethke is getting his baggage ready. He lives in a village a few stations this side of the town and so has to get out sooner.

The train stops. Adolf shakes hands with us all. He tumbles out on to the little siding and looks about him with a sweeping glance that drinks in the whole landscape in a second as a parched field in the rain. Then he turns to us again. But he hears nothing any more. Ludwig Breyer is standing at the window, indifferent to his pain. "Trot along, Adolf," he says, "your wife will be waiting."

Bethke looks up at us and shakes his head. "No such hurry as all that, Ludwig." It is evident with what power home is drawing him away, but Adolf is Adolf, he continues to stand there beside us until the train leaves. Then he turns quickly about and goes off with long strides.

We'll be coming to see you soon, I call after him hastily.

We watch him go out across the fields. For a long time he continues to wave. Then smoke from the engine drifts between. In the distance gleam a few red lights.

The train makes a big sweeping curve. Adolf has now become very small, a mere point, a tiny little man quite alone on the wide, dark plain, above which, vast and electrically bright, tinging the horizon in sulphur yellow, towers the night sky. I do not know why, it has nothing to do with Adolf, but the sight fascinates me. A solitary man gone out over the wide stretches of fields against the night sky, in the evening and alone.

EVERYONE SINGS

Then the trees close up in massive darkness, and soon nothing is left but swift motion and woods and the sky.

It grows noisy in the compartment. Here inside are comrades, edges, odors, warmth, space and boundaries; here are brown, weathered faces and eyes with bright flecks in them; here is a smell of earth, sweat, blood, uniforms—but outside the long reverberations over the plain. Clouds have gathered, a thunderstorm bursts. The flashes of lightning dazzle like close gunfire. Knoole stands in the window and shakes his head. "Now for another sort of thunderstorm," he mutters and leans far out. "Quick! See! There she is!" he suddenly cries. We press round. At the limit of the land, in the glare of lightning, the tall slender towers of the city pierce the sky. Then darkness closes over them again in thunder, but with every flash they come nearer.

Our eyes shine with excitement. Expectancy has suddenly shot up amongst us within us, like a giant beanstalk. Knoole gropes for his things. "Oh, boys," says he, stretching his arms, "where shall we all be sitting a year hence, I wonder."

The city has sprung upon us, gathered us to herself. There she lies panting under the wild light, outstretched, inviting. And we are coming to her, a trainload of soldiers, a trainload of home-coming men out of the limbo of nothingness, a trainload of tense expectancy, nearer and nearer. The train roars along, the walls leap out against us, in a moment we will collide, flashes of lightning, the thunder roars. Then the station rises up on both sides of the carriage, seething with noise and cries, a pelting rain is falling, the platform gleams with the wet. Heedless, we jump out into it all.

As I spring out of the door, the dog follows. He presses close after me and together we run through the rain down the steps.

REACH HOME CITY

I am wedged between Ludwig and Knoole and feel their warmth penetrating my tunic. I move my hands, turn my head, my muscles brace themselves and a shiver mounts from my knees to my belly, a ferment like sherbet in my bones, it rises, foams up into my lungs, my lips, my eyes, the carriage swims, it sings in me as a telegraph pole in a storm, thousands of wires twanging, thousands of roads opening. Slowly I put my hand on Ludwig's hand and feel that it must burn, but when he looks up with and pale as ever, all I can drag out of what is surging within me is merely to stammer:

Have you a cigaret, Ludwig?

He gives me one. The train whistles, we go on singing. A more ominous rumble than the rattle of the wheels gradually mingles with our songs, and in a pause there comes a mighty crash that travels rolling in front, leaving it behind us, ever farther and farther, all that world of trenches and shell holes of darkness and terror, like a mere whirlwind seen through the window—it comes to us no more.

Someone else starts singing, others join in. Soon everyone is singing, the whole compartment, the next compartment, the entire carriage, the whole train. We sing ever more lustily, with more and more power, our brows are flushed, the veins swell out, we sing every single note as we know. We stand up, glaring at each other, our eyes shine, the wheels thunder the rhythm, we sing and sing.

Synopsis

Ernest a schoolboy when he enlisted in the war, is telling the story of a group of friends who survived the years of trench warfare. On the way home from the front, news of the German revolution reaches them. Shortly afterward the troops are disbanded and leave singly and in groups for home. Farewells are said. Each must now face the future alone. But the friends whose experiences Ernst is telling go farther together, entraining at the station for their own home town. They find the train overcrowded. Men sit on top of the cars, hang on precariously wherever a handhold is to be found.

Real Estate Office Safe Is Looted by Thieves

"Smudge" Riley pulled his cap down over his eyes. He jerked his thumb toward a doorway over which was a sign:

Maplehurst Realty Co.

A mild appearing man stood in the doorway, smoking a cigar.

"Hopy" Jones shot a glance in the direction indicated by his pal's thumb.

"I know that guy," Smudge said, without moving his lips—an art greatly practiced in large granite and iron-barred state institutions.

"Yeah?"

"Yeah—a sap but a fool for luck. He's got plenty. He was a big shot in a company where I worked in town when I was dumb enough to believe a guy had to work to eat."

Smudge and Hoppy, out of the big city for a while on account of police activities, were sizing up the business section of this suburb with a view to cracking some store safe before long.

"That's our job," Smudge said, "it's a push-over."

They hung around town that day, getting the lay of the ground-floor office of the Maplehurst Realty Company.

The proprietor, J. Simpson Marvin, went about his business of supervising a dozen agents who were daily, especially Sundays, occupied in selling house lots from Marvin's three flourishing residential developments.

Marvin was only 30 when he retired from the company in the city where he had been vice president and treasurer. Few suspected that he had sufficient of an income then to make him independent.

At this time, five years later, none in Maplehurst suspected that J. Simpson Marvin was wealthy. They "guessed" that his all was staked on speculation in his land developments.

CONSIDERED SAP

"Smudge" Riley, who had been in the crating room of Marvin's company some years before he turned professional crook, was not the only one who held J. Simpson Marvin to be a sap. Quite a number of Maplehurst people had the same opinion of him.

Miss Pearl Truxton was not exactly among those who were inclined to think Marvin was just a sort of lucky dumbbell. She rather liked Marvin.

George Smythe, who put up an awful yelp if you spelled it "Smith," made it his way to tell Pearl on every possible occasion when there was an excuse for so doing that J. Simpson Marvin was just a plain sap.

Constant dropping of water wears away even the hardest stone, so Pearl began to believe that perhaps George was correct.

However, Pearl was extremely nice to Marvin and was pleased with his attentions. At the same time she was swinging in the balance, for George Smythe wanted Miss Pearl Truxton to tuck a "Smythe" on the end of her name.

Marvin had asked Pearl in a sincere and extremely nice way to change her name to Marvin.

GIRL UNDECIDED

Pearl had hesitated.

She was still hesitating, and going about with both George Smythe and J. Simpson Marvin.

This was at the time Smudge Riley and Hoppy Jones were laying plans for cracking the safe in Marvin's office and going away from there with whatever funds they could grab.

Smudge was a skilled yegg man by this time. He could inject the right amount of "soup" in that portion of a safe that would let go best with scarcely a sound.

Getting into the office was even easier than they had expected. Entrance was made from a rear door. Instead of a difficult lock there was an old-fashioned lock that Hoppy opened in half a second flat with a piece of wire.

"Gee," Hoppy said, "he sure is a sap—a one-armed blind man could open that door."

Smudge sized up the room again.

"Sure, nothin' phoney here th' sap is ruinin' kale."

He went over and examined the safe. Hoops heard him chuckle.

"Push over," he asked.

"I'll say, don't need no soup, even, th' old can-opener will do th' trick."

Smudge began to curse.

"He must-a banked yesterday," he growled, "not over four centuries here."

They searched again. Deeds, contracts and mortgages were worthless to them and worse, dangerous if found on them. Nothing was disturbed except the money. The count was $410.

J. Simpson Marvin's bookkeeper discovered the marked safe only after she failed to find the money. Mr. Marvin examined the safe and sent for O'Brien, head of the Maplehurst police. O'Brien looked the place over sagely.

Joe asked a lot of questions.

"These crooks are rather dumb people," Marvin said. "Now take this little robbery, for example. They got $400 which was in the money compartment, but it didn't occur to them to look around a little. In the document compartment in regular brown manila envelopes, was over $11,000 in cash."

CRITICIZED BY SMYTHE

"Lucky for you, Mr. Marvin," Joe agreed, chuckling inwardly because this would make his newspaper story much better.

The local evening paper featured the local robbery.

"STUPID ROBBERS OVERLOOK $11,000."

That was the headline.

The news item quoted J. Simpson Marvin in detail as to where the overlooked money had been.

At the Maplehurst Country Club that evening the robbery was being discussed. Marvin had been to a neighboring town on business and drove in at the club on his return.

George Smythe was there, dancing with Pearl Truxton. George had been talking constantly about what a sap Marvin was. Pearl was afraid that George was right about it.

George and Pearl went over to sit down and Marvin greeted them.

George shook his head.

"Those crooks will thank you for the tip, Marvin," George said.

"What tip?"

"You told them how to come back and get the $11,000 they overlooked. Honestly, Marvin, that was the sappiest thing you could have done."

"Haw!" guffawed George Smythe, winking at Pearl, "when it comes to being dumb, you get the tin medal, Marvin. They'll come back and clean out the place next time."

"I don't expect to lose any sleep over it, George," Marvin answered, mildly.

After he had gone from that group George said, for Pearl's benefit, "J. Simpson Marvin—he's a 'jay' all right and the Simpson accent is on the 'simp.'"

Quite a number agreed.

Pearl felt terribly sorry for Marvin. She liked him so very much. But of course she couldn't think of marrying a man who was really stupid, such a simpleton. And so Pearl made up her mind that her lot was to become Mrs. George Smythe.

Smudge Riley and Hoppy Jones, still comfortably lodged at the Hennessey boarding house down below the warehouse and supposed to be waiting to go to work for a man who was coming in a few days, also read the local evening paper. That's the first thing a crook does after a haul, to find out just how much fuss has been made and what the police are doing.

"Eleven grand!" Hoppy Jones said, huskily.

"I'm a so-and-so," Smudge replied.

Then he grinned and put on a pair of gloves. He tore off a piece of paper bag he found in the yard, took it to the room and began to print a note—printing does not give away one's penmanship and gloves leave no finger prints.

Smudge printed:

"THANKS FOR THE TIP."

"We'll clean that jernt tonight and leave this," Smudge announced.

"We gotter, we gotter get away an' 11 grand will do it. Th' old man we slugged has croaked, you know," Hoppy declared.

"Of course I know—can't I read? Them tabloids had got a page about it. We're gonna burn if they get us. With 'leven grand we can lam fer keeps."

And so they got into J. Simpson Marvin's office again by means of a piece of bent wire and Smudge used the old "can opener" again.

"Gees, here's wads of it," he said, hoarsely as he began pulling out large manila envelopes.

And then bright lights went on. Before either crook could make a move for his gat, or even blink, a mild voice said, "The first move wins a nice dumdum bullet through the old pump."

They moved only their eyes, for they knew what a dumdum bullet would do, and they knew that "pump" meant heart.

Mr. J. Simpson Marvin was standing in a corner with a heavy black automatic in each hand.

"Up with them and on your feet, and thanks for leaving the back door open on your way," he ordered.

MARVIN PROPOSES

They marched out. Hoppy made a break and got shot through the leg. Smudge lost all desire to try and run. One of Maplehurst's two night policemen came running up and the two crooks were soon in the local bastile.

There was a five-thousand dollar reward out for this sweet pair.

Mr. J. Simpson Marvin collected and turned it over to the Maplehurst Country Club to build an indoor swimming pool.

"The tip," Marvin told the local reporter, "about the money left was a fake. Then I planted some phoney money for them to come back and get."

"I think," Pearl said to J. Simpson Marvin, "that you are wonderful!"

"I know that you are, Pearl—let's look over some plans for our home. We'll take a three-month honeymoon and the place will be ready when we return. This, my dear, is a proposal of marriage."

"Darling," said Pearl, "thanks for the tip."

Housecleaning in Order

Some of the Dirty Linen Uncovered in the Campaign Needs to Be Washed, Too.

The people of Allegheny County have every encouragement to believe that Senator William D. Mansfield and Charles C. McGovern, winners of the Republican nominations, will be members of the next Board of County Commissioners.

It is now their duty to see that the third member of the board, required by law to be of the strongest minority party, shall also be of high caliber.

It has been publicly charged and there is some reason to believe that David L. Lawrence and Thomas A. Daugherty, the Democratic nominees, are allied with the Kline-Coyne Republican machine. Lawrence and Senator Coyne are known to be close friends.

It may be desirable, therefore, for independent candidates to take the field under the banner of a third party, as McGovern did four years ago.

If two honest Commissioners can be had, zealous for the public welfare and willing to work together harmoniously, a housecleaning will be in order.

One of the things to be done will be to replace the present Board for the Revision and Assessment of Taxes with men who will not tolerate the enrollment for election purposes of "phantoms."

Another thing to be done will be to abolish the "spoils system" and replace incompetents in the county's employ, placed on the payroll for political reasons only, with efficient workers.

There is some dirty linen that needs to be washed, too, even though the statute of limitations bars prosecutions.

A good deal of this dirty linen was uncovered during the campaign. There was the charge by former Senator C. M. Barr, for example, that in 1926 William H. Zietel and James E. Routley, of Commissioner Armstrong's office, drew $21,000 in cash from the county treasury about election time for secret payrolls and have never accounted for a cent of the money.

There is the charge by Barr that the county's payroll books, supposed to be signed by county employes on drawing their pay, show page after page of different signatures all in the same handwriting.

There is the charge by Barr that thousands of dollars have been paid favored contractors in illegal extras.

There is the charge by Attorney W. Clyde Grubbs that Commissioner Armstrong illegally deposited in John A. Bell's Carnegie Trust Company $1,165,000 of the county's money that was not protected by bond, and that the bank, though insolvent, was allowed to remain open and people were allowed to deposit money in it until Armstrong could get the money back.

These and many other charges were made by responsible persons during the campaign, and it is to be hoped the new Commissioners will investigate them and disclose their findings, if for no other reason than to demonstrate that public servants, no matter how long they have been in office, are not to be permitted to escape accounting for their stewardship.

A New Coal Conference

Laymen May Have Some Valuable Ideas That the Operators and Miners Have Overlooked.

Under the auspices of the Allied Boards of Trade, and with Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, as the principal speaker, a conference will be held in the Fort Pitt Hotel next Monday to consider what can be done to rehabilitate the coal industry.

A good many meetings have been held for this purpose without accomplishing anything, but the approaching session will be different from the others in that the conferees will all be laymen—no coal operators or miners will take part.

The interest that laymen are showing in the subject shows appreciation of the vital part that the coal industry plays in Western Pennsylvania's prosperity, or lack of prosperity.

It may be that the miners and operators are so close to the industry that "they cannot see the forest for the trees," and that laymen, with a better perspective, will be able to contribute valuable ideas which the coal men have overlooked.

Municipal officials and civic and trade organization executives are invited to the conference, and it is to be hoped there will be a large attendance.

War Debt Strategy

Europeans Maneuvering to Utilize Moratorium as Move In Direction of Debt Cancellation.

Mr. Hoover's one year moratorium has eased Germany's immediate financial distress, but its aftermath may not soothe the minds of American taxpayers.

Close on Germany's humiliating defeat by France in the League Court, we find Dr. Curtius, the German foreign minister, telling the League Council at Geneva that America's "generous initiative" is NOT ENOUGH to meet Germany's needs. The implied suggestion is that America in some way is responsible for meeting ALL of Germany's need.

Dr. Curtius' pronouncement is described in European dispatches as definitely and officially linking Germany with the campaign to make America pay the costs of Europe's war. And on the very day of Dr. Curtius' declaration at Geneva, Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand accepted, on behalf of France, Germany's invitation to visit Berlin for "discussion of problems of mutual interest to both nations."

No great amount of Yankee shrewdness is needed to interpret the maneuvers accurately.

The moratorium is to be utilized as a first move in the direction of debt cancellation.

American taxpayers will be wise, therefore, to keep the figures in mind.

On November 30, 1930, our total national debt was $16,185,308,299. Of this stupendous sum, about 70 per cent—or $11,641,508,460—represented the debt Europe owes to us, and agreed to pay. This leaves $4,543,799,839 as the portion to be paid by American taxpayers.

Debt revision such as Europe seeks would make our share FOUR TIMES as large as it is, by unloading on us the whole $16,185,308,299.

Long ago we remitted a large part of Europe's just debt. This deed was hailed as a great sacrifice. Mr. Hoover's moratorium, extended despite our financial and economic difficulties, was another sacrifice.

What AMERICA NEEDS is a moratorium on moratoria.

My son, ask me not "What is love?"

For every love-affair beginneth with the same enthusiasm and endeth with the same weariness, and how shall a man know the Real Thing from the synthetic emotion?

Verily that which thou seekest to learn is not what is love, but WHICH is love.

* * *

Behold, my Son, it is LOVE when thou preferest the cloud of one woman's frown to the sun of another's smile.

When thou canst NOT forget her even while thou art kissing another woman.

When the comforts and joys of the bachelor-flat lose their charm beside the vision of a stuffy bungalow, beneath a honeysuckle vine.

When all the little loves of thy past seem but as curtain-raisers to the "Big Drama" and all the love-makings as naught but preparatory practice for the Great Moment.

When the dullest party is a riot if SHE is present and the most riotous party is a funeral if she is absent.

When thou findest all thy best friends wearisome and all thy best friends find thee an affliction.

In part it reads: "It has been a privilege to live through perhaps the most glamorous era in history. Out of the wreckage my bank, whose advice caused it, has arranged a tiny annuity that will permit me to spend what is left of my life at Bruges or Ghent. I sail in 10 days for complete isolation from all I hold dear, rather than become a public charge. Just a little while below the surface, perhaps, and a quiet fade out. Au revoir!"

Another letter, in a different vein in the same mail, speaks for itself: "I'm one of the simpering dumbbells of the chorus you amazingly minded writers are always hanging a joke on—and I know it is better English to say on which you are always hanging a joke too smarty. I've been thrown into company of any number of your so-called literati. And give me the ice man, the guy who fixes the kitchen sink or brings the morning mail. Any one of the three. Of all the big time bores and talking-about-myself. Pa-lookas a writer cops the biscuit. The joke is that not one of you really knows how to write. The columnar idea of impressing people is to broadcast having dinner the night before with somebody of real importance. Or calling George Jean Nathan and what successful play or book selling 2,000 copies has he ever written?—George.

Of course the lady doesn't mean this writer. Everybody knows I've been in Schenectady practically every day since the market crash, for goodness sake.

One sees little of the gifted Peter Arno in usual haunts since his retreat from Reno on a tidal wave of first page publicity. Some say he has been scorched by the glare of the spotlight. He is tired of the whispers and nudges when he enters a room. So he travels deserted streets and visits quiet hideaways.

* * *

Just when it looked as though exchanging the day for a tiny whoop would prove a bad trade comes sudden news that I belong to posterity. A new trout fly is to bear my name thus notching me with Courtney Ryley Cooper, Corey Ford, H. T. Webster and Irvin Cobb. A distinction perhaps but tinged with mockery. I have never been fishing in my life. But have I been one of the suckers on the other end of the line!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Chivalry: we women are still strong for it. Even though we have equal rights, equal liberties, most of us expect men to protect us and go ga-ga over us as they did over our grandmas. And generally speaking, the boys live up to our expectations. They daren't do otherwise.

From the cradle up, brother is taught to be nice to sister. Sister, it is true, may pack 10 times as big a wallop as brother and use it plenty. She may be a young hellion and brother a snivelling martyr, but chivalry must be maintained at all costs. As a consequence, brother grows up thinking that sister should receive special consideration and exemption such as he would never dream of giving a man. And sister, in spite of her boasts about equality, sees that she gets it.

Yes, women like chivalry from men. BUT HOW CHIVALROUS ARE WOMEN TO MEN?

Take love and marriage . . . romantic institutions but also grave risks, as every woman will acknowledge. But will she also acknowledge that the risk is as great for the man as it is for her?

Listen in on any married woman while she is talking to her lady friends. It is dollars to doughnuts that she is talking about her husband, this being the favorite theme of any missis, when she meets another missis. She is probably fond of her husband and generally contented with the marital state. But would you guess it from her conversation? You would not.

To hear her tell it, she is the most misunderstood, unappreciated and abused human on earth. With utmost frankness and in infinite detail, she retails her husband's faults and failures, exposes his weakness, spills the most intimate beans . . . all the time obviously pitying herself for the disappointments he has brought upon her.

Does a man do this in talking to other men? Not once in a thousand times. His disappointments may have been quite as great as his lady wife's, his sensitiveness may have been as deeply lacerated, but he observes the code of chivalry. Gentlemen mustn't bleat.

Or consider the matter of motherhood. No citizen expects or deserves a Bigger Hand than a good mother. But after all, mama isn't the whole show. It requires as much guts and implies as much grief to support a bunch of youngsters for 21 years as it does to give them birth and spank them into shape. But does mama admit this? Anything but! Papa's pangs are nothing to hers. Papa is merely doing his duty, but she is making The Great Sacrifice. And yet, she probably likes the old man. But why should men expect appreciation?

Then there's divorce. By chivalrous tradition, this is commonly accorded the wife. With little or no protest, the gallant husband allows himself to be written down as a brute, a deserter, an unfaithful cad. And how often does any wife stand up and say: "IT'S AS MUCH MY FAULT AS HIS. I NAGGED HIM AS MUCH AS HE BULLIED ME. IF HE'S A FAILURE SO AM I."

Have you ever heard a divorcee say that? No, you haven't. And you'll be plenty older before you will. For chivalry isn't as yet a feminine virtue . . . sez I. How about you?

The Sales Tax in Canada

Bills are to be introduced in the next Congress to establish a permanent sales tax in the United States—a reform long advocated by the Hearst newspapers.

Such a tax has been proved practicable and valuable in Canada and other countries. Mr. M. Grattan O'Leary, one of Canada's well-known editors, discusses its benefits in a series of articles prepared for the Hearst press, of which this is the first.

By M. GRATTAN O'LEARY

Distinguished Canadian Editor.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15, 1931.

IF and when President Hoover and Congress set out to explore taxation fields that will turn deficits into balanced budgets with a minimum of public hardship, they might profitably examine Canada's experience with the sales tax. For after a trial of 10 years the sales tax has become an accepted and integral part of the Canadian fiscal system, and is regarded as THE LEAST OBJECTIONABLE AND MOST EQUITABLE AND PROFITABLE OF ALL THE FEDERAL TAXES.

In one year the tax netted a revenue of $120,000,000. In 11 years the total has exceeded $800,000,000.

Moreover, the sales tax has been easy to collect and socially non-burdensome. Exemption of articles for food and shelter protects the masses. Similar exemption of articles of primary production assists the business and financial classes.

CANADA adopted the sales tax because of the urgent necessity for revenue to end a long series of deficits and to enable the country to cope with the enormous obligations of a war legacy and a railway crisis.

It was imposed by a government which, having tried a high income tax, a war profits tax, a corporation tax and various forms of nuisance taxes, was casting about for a form of taxation that would not cripple business, that would be borne without undue complaint, and that would not hasten the death of the government which imposed it.

OPPOSED AT FIRST, AND BITTERLY, IT IS AS POPULAR TODAY AS IT IS POSSIBLE FOR A FORM OF TAXATION TO BE.

In 1920 Canada was confronted with a financial crisis. Its pre-war debt of $350,000,000 had grown to a net debt of $2,350,000,000, a figure which, added to provincial debts, represented a staggering burden for a population of less than 9 millions.

In addition, there was the vast nationalization experiment in the matter of transportation. The Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railways had been taken over by the state, enormous railway obligations had to be met; 20,000 miles of railway had to be put into condition.

In 1919, as a result of these outlays, the federal deficit was $384,000,000, which, on a population basis, was the equivalent of a $3,840,000,000 deficit for the United States. By 1920 the deficit had jumped to $436,000,000; in 1921 it was $191,000,000; in 1922, $81,000,000.

THE year 1923 brought the first change from deficits to a surplus.

The sales tax, lightly imposed at first—it began at 1 per cent—was increased to 6 per cent AND NETTED THE TREASURY $100,000,000, THE RESULT BEING A SURPLUS OF $30,000,000.

In the following year—1924—revenue from the sales tax had jumped to $120,000,000, when once more there was a surplus. And EVER SINCE, whether in good years or in bad, the sales tax has enabled Canada to produce annual surpluses or to balance her budget, or to avoid heavy deficits.

SINCE ITS ADOPTION IN 1920, THE SALES TAX HAS BROUGHT CANADA THE ENORMOUS SUM OF $856,807,000. Considering that Canada has fewer than 10,000,000 people, and taking account of comparative volumes of sales, this means that A SIMILAR TAX IN THE UNITED STATES WOULD HAVE PRODUCED $10,000,000,000, OR AT THE RATE OF A BILLION A YEAR.

Following is the total revenue secured from the sales tax year by year since 1920:

1920	$15,587,000	1926	$98,097,000
1921	78,803,000	1927	82,306,000
1922	73,656,000	1928	72,100,000
1923	100,482,000	1929	63,646,000
1924	120,676,000	1930	44,859,000

The explanation of the drop in revenue after 1924 is simply that, as the financial position of the country improved, the tax was gradually reduced.

In other words, with deficits moved into surpluses and in the face of diminishing post-war expenditure, taxation was LIGHTENED ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Thus in 1924 the sales tax was reduced from 6 to 5 per cent; in 1927 from 5 to 4 per cent; in 1928 from 4 to 3; in 1929 from 3 to 2, and in 1930 from 2 to 1.

MOREOVER, in the years between 1924 and 1930 a whole range of articles was exempted from the tax—the range including articles of food and shelter and also articles used in national development and in primary production.

This year, however—and this is the best possible evidence of Canada's belief in the sales tax—a decline in revenues and a federal deficit brought an increase in the tax from 1 to 4 per cent; the advance being brought about, curiously enough, AT THE INSISTENCE OF THE COMMERCIAL AND BUSINESS COMMUNITY.

Why this was so will be explained in further articles.

By Archibald Henderson

Boldness and initiative are two qualities of the highest importance and value in science. Tradition and authority have often retarded the progress of science for centuries. The fear of exciting ridicule, the dread of disputing some generally accepted authority, have doubtless prevented many a scientist from announcing a discovery or advancing a theory which ran counter to universally accepted opinion.

Andreas Vesalius was one of the great scientists of history who refused to be tyrannized over by the authority of his predecessors. He formed the idea as to the right procedure for studying the human body. He disregarded the practice of the ancients, and showed that the methods of Hipparchus and Galen, for example, were almost entirely worthless. In advocating complete abandonment of the old conceptions in anatomy, he aroused a storm of protest from the authoritarians. The Church, meaning of course the Roman Catholic Church, was finally appealed to, to settle the violent controversy. After careful consideration and hearing both sides of the case fully presented, the Church decided that, since anatomy is useful to man, dissection may be allowed.

Andreas Vesalius was born in Brussels, Belgium, in 1514. He came of a family line of surgeons originating in the town of Wesel, whence originated his name. After a comprehensive education at Louvain, Cologne, Paris and Padua, Vesalius at the surprisingly early age of 18 returned to his alma mater and became lecturer in anatomy. In the course of a few years he held the post of professor of surgery and anatomy at Padua, Boulogne and Pisa. About 1544 he was appointed to the position of chief physician to King Charles V and later to King Philip II of Spain and had his residence in Madrid.

In 1539 Vesalius published an atlas of six anatomical plates and four years later he brought out his epochal work, seven books on the "Anatomy of the Human Body." Making a sharp break with the practices and opinions of Galen and the ancients, Vesalius demonstrated the inaccuracy of Galen's descriptions, which were of the lower animals and not of man. He was a masterly anatomist and an admirable lecturer. He wrote a number of other works on medicine, surgery and anatomy, which were brought out in a collected edition at Leyden. Vesalius is generally rated as the pioneer of comparative anatomy and of race craniology.
